STATE HALTS OIL, GAS HUNT IN BAY

Drilling Disapproved 'At This Time'; State To Enter San Rafael Title Suit

By JOANNE GRANT

SACRAMENTO — The controversial proposal to permit oil and gas drilling in San Pablo Bay was rejected today by the State Lands Commission.

The commission followed a staff recommendation that consideration of drilling cease at this time. The staff, blamed the Santa Barbara oil disaster for widespread opposition to the San Pablo proposal.

Drilling had been proposed along the Solano and Contra Costa county shore and at one time had also been proposed along the shore of Marin County.

However, Marin vehemently opposed the plan and, on January 13, 15 days before the Santa Barbara disaster, the commission staff reported the Marin side was no longer under consideration.

Mrs. Franklin Miller of Black Point appeared before the commission today and listed reasons why the North Marin Federation of Improvement Clubs opposed the drilling.

Mrs. Donald Jenkins of Sonoma County criticized the phrase "at this time" in the staff recommendation. "Are we going to have to go through this every six months?" she asked.

"Ceaseless vigilance" is the price you have to pay to prevent oil drilling, Caspar W. Weinberger, commission chairman, told her. Weinberger said the commission could not commit future commissions to interpret the phrase under attack.

In other action, the commission authorized the state to intervene in the suit of Marina Vista Improvement Club against the Marin Yacht Club in the City

FINAL JOURNEY BEGINS — A simple Army steel casket bearing the remains of Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower is put aboard a black-draped baggage car for the trip to Abilene, Kan., for burial tomorrow. The 1,300-mile trip began last night, and is expected to be completed about midnight tonight, with Eisenhower's widow and other family members riding in a presidential car on the train. A Slow Train Carries Ike Home Again

Trackside Vigils Follow Solemn State Funeral

ABILENE, Kan. (AP)—Past hushed clusters of townsfolk who had called him Ike, the body of Dwight David Eisenhower was borne today in a black baggage car toward burial tomorrow in his home soil of Abilene, Kan.

In groups of hundreds and crowds of thousands gathered at towns and crossings throughout the long night-time pull across Virginia, through the Alleghanies and over the Ohio, Americans paid silent homage at the trackside to the 34th American president. (See related stories, pages 7 and 9.)

Only a handful waited when the 10-car train reached Cincinnati's Union Terminal in a steady rain, there to transfer from the Chesapeake and Ohio tracks to those of the Baltimore and Ohio.

MEMORIAL SERVICE

A memorial service at the terminal planned by Ohio Gov. James A. Rhodes and the dignitaries of nearby cities had been canceled at request of the widow and family, worn by the tears and strain of three days of funeral pomp and homage in the nation's capital.

Instead . . . the rust-flecked and dust-streaked baggage car was shunted to a wash rack in an industrial area a mile north of the terminal. A score of the surprised diners abandoned their breakfasts in a nearby restaurant and rushed outside to stand silent in the drizzle until the car, its paint gleaming again, was recoupled to the train.

At Mrs. Eisenhower's request the C&O also draped the funeral car with black bunting and an American flag on each side during the Cincinnati stopover.

MOVED BY CROWDS

A family spokesman explained that Mrs. Eisenhower was moved by the hundreds of children seen along the tracks waving flags at the passing cars. She wanted the car more easily identified for them.

During the Union Terminal stop, Edgar Eisenhower, older brother of the late President, left the special presidential car briefly to transmit the family's thanks, through newsmen and C&O officials, to the city authorities of Cincinnati and neighboring communities for the planned

Abilene Set To Honor Its General

As the funeral train rolled westward from Washington, Abilene made ready to accord the nation's 34th president both public and private memorial services tomorrow. (See related stories on pages 7 and 9.)

Up to 100,000 persons were expected to jam their way into this northern Kansas community of 8,000 which once served as the terminus of the old Chisholm cattle trail.

The train was expected to arrive at the Union Pacific depot late tonight or early tomorrow after a 1,300-mile journey bearing the body of Eisenhower, members of his family and a few friends.

It will remain parked the rest of the night near the freight station.

An honor guard composed of men from all the armed services will watch over the $80 steel Army casket during the night.

President Nixon and his party plan to arrive at 9 a.m. tomorrow at the airport in nearby Salina and come by helicopter to the waiting train about 45 minutes later.

Shortly after 10 a.m. the coffin will be transferred to a hearse.

Then will begin a slow procession as some 450 military personnel on foot and official guests in limousines travel 12 blocks through the Abilene business district to Eisenhower Center at the southeast edge of town.

The general's casket will be removed from the hearse and placed on the front porch of the two-story Eisenhower Library for a public memorial service

Coast Guard Plans West Marin Stations

The Coast Guard plans to buy two West Marin sites from Radio Corporation of America to build major communications stations by 1972.

The proposed stations will be the major West Coast communications stations for the Coast Guard, replacing the present station on San Bruno Mountain, south of San Francisco.

Proposed are a 75.5-acre transmitting site on the RCA property north of Bolinas and 266 acres at RCA beach on Point Reyes Peninsula for receiving. Seventy-one men will serve the two stations and will be housed in West Marin, probaby in the vicinity of Point Reyes Station, the Coast Guard said.

Donald Stackhouse, assistant district manager for RCA, said the Coast Guard has surveyed the land sought but no negotiations are in progress now.

Stackhouse said RCA, which owns 494 acres on the peninsula has no plans to shut down its own transmitter operations in West Marin.

Lt. (j.g.) Robert Philpott of the Coast Guard's communications branch in San Francisco said the land has been appraised and the Coast Guard is waiting for RCA to set its price on the land.

The San Bruno station, Philpott said, is being phased out because of growing radio interference cause by development of housing tracts and a college campus nearby. The West Marin sites presumably will be free of such problems, he said. Philpott said the Coast Guard has written the Department of the Interior explaining its plans.

U.N. Mideast Issue Splits Russia, U.S.

UNITED NATIONS, N.Y., (AP) — The Soviet Union split with the United States and Britain in the U.N. Security Council today on the eve of Big Four peace talks on the Middle East.

Soviet Deputy Foreign Minister Jacob A. Malik threw his country's support behind an Asian-African resolution demanding condemnation of Israel for an attack on a Jordanian village last Wednesday.

The United States and Britain objected to the resolution on grounds that it did not mention attacks by Arab guerrillas on Israeli territory that provoked the Israeli retaliatory raid.

The United States said it would abstain on the resolution, and similar action was expected by Britain.

Malik declared what was needed was even a stronger resolution than the one before the 15-nation council.

Yosef Tekoah, the Israeli ambassador, asserted that his country would not change its policy of reprisal against what it considered Arab terror tactics.

"Israel does not intend to allow itself to be executed," he declared.

Ambassador Agha Shahi of Pakistan formally introduced the resolution asking condemnation of Israel. He said he was doing so despite the threat of the Big Four split.

San Rafael Vote Again To Say Whether Chief Runs For Office

By DAVID DIETZ

The City of San Rafael is one of only five cities its size in the U. S. with an elected police chief. The chief, 57-year-old Charles J. Chiesa, likes it that way, but the city council thinks the system is outdated and wants to make the job appointive, as it is in nearly 500 other comparable cities.

"The elective way is best," said Chiesa, twice re-elected but in danger of losing his job if the council wins the fight. "They shouldn't take the vote away from citizens."

"I feel a man in his position shouldn't be spending time running for election," Mayor C. Paul Bettini said. "He should be spending time enforcing the law."

For the third time in seven years, the council will ask voters at the April 15 municipal election to approve a charter amendment relinquishing control over selection of a chief. Similar proposals were defeated handily in 1963 and 1967, although the one in 1967 was packaged with amendments to make the jobs of city attorney, treasurer and clerk appointive as well.

All will be on the ballot separately April 15, with most attention focused on the police chief issue.

The controversy appointed vs. elected chief divides police and municipal officials and authorities on police science. An elected police chief in Albany, Alameda County, for instance, enjoys his independence from city hall, he says, but would rather be appointed, while the mayor of that city said he prefers the chief answering to voters.

San Rafael, which has elected a chief at least as long as the 56 years of the city charter, is one of only three cities in California which still picks its top police executive at the polls. The third community is Santa Clara.

The principal issue of the controversy is whether an elected chief is more susceptible to political vagaries than an appointed one, although Chief Chiesa's illness certainly will be a factor in the San Rafael election.

Despite the fact that the state Workmen's Compensation Appeal Board considers Chiesa 75 per cent disabled as a result of a heart attack last year, the chief says he does not plan to retire.

Remarked City Mgr. Dan E. Andersen, plaintively: "Under the elected system we have, a guy could draw full pay even though he showed up only an hour a day. What can we do? The only thing is to start a recall."

Chiesa, a 30-year police veteran, denied politics interferes with his job and said he campaigns on his own time.

But former Councilman Charles W. Aby, a candidate for mayor April 15, argued that an elected chief can become too independent and "do what he pleases." Dr. Aby also said a candidate for police chief need only be a registered voter in the city for three years to qualify.

"He doesn't even have to be a cop. A police chief should have broad administrative training. But we can't recruit for a good administrator."

Prosecution Psychiatrist Denies Sirhan Psychotic

LOS ANGELES (AP) — At the time he shot Sen. Robert F. Kennedy, Sirhan Bishara Sirhan was not—and is not now—clinically psychotic, a psychiatrist said today.

Dr. Seymour Pollack, testifying for the state at Sirhan's murder trial, said the Arab-born defendant falls under a classification known as "psychosis—nonpsychotic."

A large number of people suffer minimal signs of abnormality and are not clinically psychotic, Pollack said—only "psychosis— nonpsychotic."

Psychiatrists and psychologists who testified for the defense have said Sirhan was so mentally ill—psychotic—that he could not have meaningfully premediated Kennedy's slaying.

Pollack said he did not believe Sirhan suffered from delusions, which he defined as false beliefs of an illogical nature.

"The question is whether Sirhan's belief was a delusion—his belief that Senator Kennedy was the bad person . . . that Sen. Kennedy was anti-Arab, that the American people were supporting the Palestine Jews, that the American government was a hypocritical setup," Pollack continued. "I don't share these beliefs, but there are large numbers of people in the United States who do . . .

"It is my belief that Sirhan's ideas and attitudes about all these were not psychotic delusions.

"If he believed that Sen. Kennedy was not just a bad man, but really a devil, a man who came from outer space, I would

Nixon Sees Foreign Leaders On Wide Range Of Topics

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Richard M. Nixon, receiving a procession of foreign leaders for day-long talks, canvassed with them today on topics ranging from the search for peace in Vietnam to problems involving Europe.

Vietnam and security relationships in Asia were major topics during Nixon's 51-minute conference with Prime Minister John Gorton of Australia, as they were to be at a meeting between Nixon and South Vietnam's Vice President Nguyen Cao Ky.

Prior to the death of former President Dwight D. Eisenhower, Gorton had been scheduled to make an official visit to Washington today and tomorrow

The White House has announced the formal Gorton visit has been rescheduled for May 6-7.

Of the dozen foreign leaders calling on Nixon in his oval office, the first was Prime Minister Mariano Rumor of Italy.

Press secretary Ronald L. Ziegler said their conversations "were something of an extension of the very full and frank discussions" they had on Feb. 28 when Nixon visited Rome. Ziegler said they talked about the search for peace and the need for close and continuing transatlantic consultation on matters of mutual interest.

With Foreign Minister Joseph Luns of the Netherlands, the press secretary said, topics included problems involving Europe and the North Atlantic Treaty Organization and the need to deal with restive young people around the globe.

The guests were getting a red carpet welcome at the diplomatic reception entrance on the south side of the executive mansion, after driving through the grounds between ranks of a saluting military honor guard. From the arrival point, they were escorted to their appointments in Nixon's office.

Laird Again Trims Viet War Budget

WASHINGTON (AP) — Secretary of Defense Melvin R. Laird, moving to cut military spending another $613 million, announced today plans to reduce B52 bomber sorties and trim several naval ships in the Vietnam war.

Laird also told the House Armed Services Committee he is postponing purchase of a short-range, bomber-launched missile call SRAM until tests show whether it will work.

These actions, repeesenting about half the $613 million, brought to more than $1.1 billion the amount of spending pared by Laird from the Johnson administration's final defense budget for fiscal 1970.

The new total stands at $77.9 billion for the bookkeeping year starting July 1. Pentagon officials indicated more slashes are under study.

His action to reduce the number of B52 sorties in the Vietnam war was a switch from his March 19 position and amounts to at least a partial reinstatement of a Johnson administration plan.

Two weeks ago, after returning from a trip to Vietnam, Laird said "on the basis of my own observations" he had concluded enough money should be provided to support the current rate of B52 sorties through June 1970 as recommended by Gen. Creighton W. Abrams, U.S. commander in Vietnam.

But Laird said today, "As much as I would like to support his recommendation, the budget stringencies under which we must operate in fiscal 1970 will not permit a continuation of that rate beyond June 1969."

The defense secretary did not repeat his March 19 statement that Abrams "considers the B52 to be one of his most important weapons."

There was no indication of how much of a reduction will be made in the current 1,800 bomber sorties a month against enemy targets in South Vietnam and Laos. A sortie is a single flight by a single plane.

The original Johnson defense budget assumed the average number of sorties would decline beginning last January. Laird is willing to pay for the higher monthly number only until July.

His comments were made in a statement for delivery at a closed committee session and released earlier to newsmen.

Laird made it plain the fresh spending reductions were related to President Richard M. Nixon's call for extension of the 10 per cent income tax surcharge.

"The nation is confronted with an extremely difficult and dangerous economic and fiscal situation," Laird said. He noted Nixon had ordered "significant reductions" in federal budget estimates to cope with the problem.

The Pentagon chief's second whack at the defense budget in two weeks was a patchwork including stretching out some projects, deferring others—and in some cases reversing actions Laird announced to the Senate Armed Services Committee only two weeks ago.

Hike In Cable Car Fares Is Before Panel

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — A proposal to raise cable car fares by 10 cents, to 25 cents, was before the city's Public Utilities Commission today.

The proposal also includes increasing the basic Municipal Railway fare from 15 cents to 20 cents, with a 25 cent fare on express buses.

A 5 cents senior citizen fare, based on presentation of a Medicare card during off-peak hours from 10 a.m. to 3 p.m. daily, is included in the proposal. Senior citizens now pay the standard 15 cents fare.

Pact Reached For Anguilla

LONDON (AP) — Acting president Ronald Webster and other rebel leaders of Anguilla have agreed to work with British Commissioner Anthony Lee in governing the tiny Caribbean island, the Foreign Office announced last night.

A Foreign Office spokesman said the agreement was worked out in meetings between Britain's representative at the United Nations, Lord Caradon, and the Anguilla Council.

He said Lee will remain on the island as commissioner, but the British government will recognize the local council elected last year. Lee had been planning to govern Anguilla with a board of appointed advisers.

The metropolitan New Orleans population jumped 21 per cent from 1960 to 1968, to 1.1 million.

168 Mexican Miners May Be In Shaft

MONTERREY, Mexico (AP) — Officials reported 168 miners are believed trapped today in a coal mine ripped by a tremendous methane gas explosion in the state of Coahuila.

The blast tore through the mine yesterday afternoon. As of this morning six bodies had been brought out, said officials of the company, Altos Hornos de Mexico. They added that one of the bodies was that of a rescue worker who was overcome by gas.

Gas still lingered in pockets of the two mine shafts where, according to work list data supplied by the company, the 168 men remained trapped.

The lists showed 43 miners trapped in the No. 3 shaft, where the explosion occurred. Officials said it was probably caused by a short circuit.

Another 125 were trapped in the nearby No. 2 shaft, officials said. All were believed to be at a depth of about 1,700 feet.

Troops were rushed out to control victims' families who rioted at the tunnel extrances. The crowds calmed down later.

The mine is at Barroteran, with a population of 8,000 people, about 75 miles southwest of the Texas border town of Eagle Pass.

Cost High, But Reds Lose Major Mountain

CAN THO, South Vietnam (London Express) — The million-dollar mountain was conquered yesterday after 28 years of Communist control.

It was taken with an incredible blend of sheer guts, fifth Century war dances and 20th Century napalm bombing raids.

It was one of the most significant victories ever achieved in South Vietnam's Mekong Delta where the Viet Cong still control at least 2.5 million people.

The price was high. It was a six-month campaign of fearful attrition for the American Green Berets and the tribal forces they lead.

In the last brutal days alone they lost 37 killed and more than 200 wounded.

The jagged crags and boulders rising 400 feet out of the flat delta were nicknamed million-dollar mountain by the Americans because of the cost of the tons of bombs and shells hurled against the target.

But to the Vietnamese the landmark was superstitious mountain a legendary Viet Cong chieftain, Chau Kem, had made it his fortress. The locals said it was impregnable and he was invincible.

A physical giant and a born leader, Chau Kem played on the fears of the Vietnamese who believed that the spirit of Buddha had left the mountain. Anyone who had died there would wander forever in purgatory.

As a result, regular South Vietnamese troops did not attack it. The Americans had to bring in Montagnard tribesmen to prove the legend meant nothing. The Montagnards performed one of their ancient war dances and were then satisfied they had sufficiently purged the superstition to get on with the fight.

Chau Kem is still alive after the battle, but he has been forced to flee, his image of invincibility shattered.

In their years on the mountain since 1941, the Viet Cong have become crack snipers, fending off first the Japanese then the French and finally the Americans. They knew every inch of their home.

What will happen to the million-dollar mountain now? The Americans will stay. They are dropping leaflets on surrounding villages saying that they and the Saigon regime are the new invincible masters of the somber granite pile.

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI)—A three alarm fire swept through a three story flat in the Mission district today, causing an estimated $20,000 damage. Two families were evacuated safely.

Firemen said the blaze broke out at the rear of the structure at 17th and Valencia streets. It houses a Mexican restaurant on the first floor and apartments on the second and third.

Fire Chief William Murray summoned 26 pieces of equipment and 150 men to fight the flames. One fireman was slightly injured and was treated for particles in the eye.

Initial reports said the four Americans and two Vietnamese were killed and five other Vietnamese were injured. A U.S. spokesman said later that the five injured died.

Truck Driver Heart Patient In Good Shape

PALO ALTO (AP) — A Crescent City truck driver continues his satisfactory recovery at Stanford Medical Center, with hopes he can follow the route of three other heart transplant patients here — they went home.

Campbell's new heart came from a donor whose name was not disclosed by the hospital. The Palo Alto Times reported the donor was Ralph D. May II, 21, a Foothill College student killed last Tuesday in a traffic accident.

Uproar Over Bases

TOKYO (AP) — Prime Minister Eisaku Sato's outspoken older brother, former Prime Minister Nobusuke Kishi, stirred up a hornet's nest here when he gave some of his personal opinions at a Washington news conference.

Kishi, in Washington to attend the funeral of former President Dwight D. Eisenhower, said he favors letting the United States keep its bases on Okinawa after the island is returned to Japan if the installations are stripped of atomic weapons.

Sato, whose government has carefully avoided taking a stand on the sensitive issue, said his brother's comments came as "a complete surprise" and that the had instructed Foreign Minister Kiichi Aichi to advise the former prime minister "to use discretion."

Test Ban Sought

GENEVA (AP) — Sweden put the draft of a treaty banning underground nuclear weapon tests before the 17-nation disarmament conference today.

The draft, introduced by Swedish delegate Alva Myrdal, calls for "inspection by invitation" and exchange of seismological data between the nuclear powers. Any nation suspecting a nuclear power of cheating could complain to the U.N. Security Council.

The proposal was viewed as an attempt to compromise between the positions of the Soviet Union, which refuses to allow foreign inspectors on its territory, and to the United States, which contends that such inspections are necessary to insure compliance.

48,000 Cut By Agencies

WASHINGTON (AP) — Employment in certain federal agencies was cut by about 48,000 in the first eight months since a bill to trim government spending was passed.

In releasing the preliminary figures today, Rep. George H. Mahon, D-Tex., noted the cutback was partially offset by increases of about 15,000 in employment exempted by the Revenue and Expenditure Control Act of 1968.

The act which went into effect in July required many federal agencies to trim the number of permanent employees on the payroll.

Navy Weighs Revamping Missile Subs

WASHINGTON (AP) — Secretary John H. Chafee disclosed today the Navy is considering a new long-range submarine missile system to meet the increasing threat from the Soviet Union in the 1970s.

Chafee told the Senate Armed Services Committee of plans for the new, multi-billion dollar system, even as work is beginning to convert the first of 31 ballistic missile submarines from the Polaris to the new multi-warhead Poseidon.

His testimony was given to a closed committee session but was made public.

Chafee said "It is quite clear that the Soviet Navy presents a serious and growing threat to our continued supremacy on the seas," including a nuclear that that "he's grown more rapidly than expected, both in quality and in number."

He cited the possibility of an extensive Soviet antisubmarine warfare effort against the U.S. fleet of 41 Polaris and Poseidon submarines and said, "In preparation for such Soviet efforts, we are examining a longer-range submarine launched missile system."

Tactical Squad Boss Sees Rioting Summer

By LARRY D. HATFIELD

San Francisco is in for a long summer of disturbances and police-demonstrator confrontations — particularly in areas like Haight-Ashbury, according to the commander of San Francisco's much-maligned tactical unit.

But, added Lt. James Curran, a 22-year veteran of the city's police force, he is confident any violence can be contained without calling in federal troops.

"The way things stand right now," Curran said in an interview after he spoke to the San Rafael Rotary Club yesterday, "we won't have to depend on outside help. But you never know, things could explode. . . ."

He said that several incidents in the city since the weather turned warm — including a tense Haight disturbance Sunday during which a black youth was shot — indicate "we'll have a busy summer."

"We've been rather busy in the (Golden Gate) park since the nice weather," he said. Fifteen of Curran's 34 tactical unit men were at the scene of the Sunday shooting.

Expressing confidence in the ability of Bay Area police to contain any summer disturbances without federal help, Curran, a native of San Rafael, said there had been "more than enough" police — state and local — to handle the uprising on the San Francisco State College during the winter.

During his speech to the Rotarians, Curran warned "there is an all-out campaign to build and foment" discordance amond the nation's youth.

Urging citizen participation in upholding the law, Curran said, "Apparently patriotism is now a bad word and has been watered down by those people who say it is some kind of extremism."

Asked what he was doing to upgrade the image of the tac unit, which has been reviled as "racist," fascist," "pigs" and other epithets, Curran replied, "I'm not doing a thing. In my mind, it (the unit) is doing a wonderful job . . . the best possible job."

He added that he would like to see the size of the unit doubled but said he did not see how it could be done because of the police force's manpower pinch.

Curran, a San Rafael native who attended Coleman School and the old St. Raphael's High School, also said he thought criminals are being protected too much by the courts. "We have to start protecting the people," he said. "Laws are to protect the citizen and not the criminal. I think it's swayed too far the other way."

On police brutality, Curran said, "There is a thin line between police brutality and self-defense."

On the "bad cop," he said, "Once in a while, we get a bad officer . . . (and) he gets bad publicity and all of a sudden, he becomes the symbol of the policeman when actually he is the exception."

On demands by many that the tac unit be abloished: "I can't understand why a person would not want the law enforced."

On the tactical unit itself: "We are nothing special. We are policemen. This is our main job and this is what we're trying to do."

Curran's family moved from San Rafael to San Francisco in 1939. His parents are Mr. and Mrs. Matthew Curran.

Boston Dock Strike Ends With Pact

BOSTON (UPI)—Longshoremen were reporting for work in the Port of Boston today for the first time in 101 days under a new three-year contract with a no-strike clause said to be unique in the American shipping industry.

The striking longshoremen voted 486-113 yesterday to accept the contract. Some 1,500 members of the International Longshoremen's Association (ILA) have been on strike against the Boston Shipping Association (BSA) since Dec. 20.

Except for the no-strike clause, the new contract is essentially similar to one which ended a walkout at New York. Boston was the last major port on the East Coast to settle the strike, which initially affected facilities from Maine to Mexico.

A union spokesman said work crews would start returning to the docks today, with all of the men expected back by Thursday. The port itself was not expected to resume normal operations until tomorrow at the earliest.

Youth Is Cited On Marijuana Possession

A 14-year-old San Rafael boy has been cited to juvenile authorities after officials at Davidson Junior High School said they found marijuana cigarette in his locker and a quantity of the weed in a plastic container in his wallet.

Principal Hanlon P. Tharp said the boy told him Friday he was holding the marijuana for an unidentified friend.

Fairfax Council Fails To Rename Rec Panel Leader To New Term

The Fairfax City Council last night in effect fired the head of its parks and recreation commission by not reappointing him and named a new member to replace him. The action sparked the resignation of a third member and may lead a fourth to quit, it was learned.

The action followed an inconclusive meeting on March 10 during which Stanley W. Little, ousted last night as chairman of the parks and recreation panel, expressed disappointment that the council did not take action than to reappoint him and Dolores Dollahite. Mayor Robert R. Souza said then that he wanted more time to evaluate the appointments.

Little was removed when the board voted 4 to 1 last night to appoint Joan Brown and reappoint Mrs. Dollahite. A move later by council member Frank J. Egger to reconsider the appointments failed by a 3-2 vote with Adelaide P. Wilson siding with Egger and members Francis J. O'Connell and Cornelus Van Vliet joining Souza. Mrs. Wilson was the only member who voted against the appointments.

Mrs. Brown, a teacher in the Miller Creek School in San Rafael, has been a group counselor at Juvenile Hall. She lives at 165 Bolinas Road in Fairfax.

Louis Soldavini, parks and recreation commissioner, told the Independent-Journal after the meeting that he intended to resign because of the removal of Little and would do so at the commission's meeting at 8 p.m. today at the Fairfax Women's Club.

There were also indications that Mrs. Dollahite would resign as a result of last night's action. She was not available for comment today.

The only discussion of the action was brief when Egger moved to reconsider. After the meeting, Souza said he had nothing personal against Little but he though the move was in the best interests of the city. He said he and Little did not have "a fundamental difference" about parks and recreation policies but said they disagreed on "overall programs."

Souza said he had not conferred with Little before making his recommendations last night. Little was not at the meeting and was unavailable for comment today.

The appointments were the only controversial actions taken by the council in an unusually short 89-minute meeting marked by rare unanimity. The split votes on the parks and recreation appointments and the motion to reconsider were the only votes in more than a dozen on which the members failed to agree.

A potentially divisive discussion on a request by David A. Smith for a 7-11 Store at 161 Bolinas Road was postponed until the April 7 meeting because Smith was not present. The location, which has been zoned commercial but never used for business, is scheduled to be zoned residential in the city's master plan.

The modern calendar owes its basic form to Julius Caesar. In 46 B.C., Caesar decreed at 365-day year with an extra day every fourth February. Until then, the year had 355 days, plus added months or days to make it conform to the solar year. To start 45 B.C. in alignment with the seasons, Caesar extended the year 46 to 445 days.

The Fairfax City Council Also:

ORDINANCE — Held a four-minute puublic hearing during which no one appeared on a proposed zoning ordinance amendment to continue a requirement for special use permits for major development or improvements in the downtown area. Final action will be taken on the amendment at the April 7 meeting.

DRUNKS — Agreed with Mrs. Wilson that "it's not our responsibility to protect any house from any drunken driver coming off the road" in refusing a request by Max Weissenberg for a city-erected guard rail in front of his property on Ridgeway Avenue.

NUISANCE—Declared a septic tank which has slipped into a creek behind the Edward B. Edsberg residence at 36 Merwin Avenue a public nuisance and ordered Edsberg to remove it.

PERMIT — Denied a request for a building permit from Joseph Rosenberg at 27 Holly Road because of lack of adequate water for fire protection.

APPOINTMENT — Named Jack Utey, last year's Fairfax Senior Citizen, as liaison man for the city to the California Commission on Aging.

LEGISLATION — Backed proposed legislation to provide $25 million in state aid to cities and counties for flood damage and delayed consideration of legislation to set the voluntary retirement age for policemen and firemen at 50.

TOPLESS — Decided to take no action for or against a proposed state law to regulate the apparel of employees of establishments serving food and beverages, a proposal aimed squarely at topless waitresses. Souza said the topless problem in Fairfax had "died a cold death" long ago.

HIPPIES — Asked the city attorney to come up with a proposed ordinance governing activities on public property, a move aimed at loitering hippies in the city. An ordinance to control hitchhiking was also discussed and the city attorney was asked to prepare an opinion on whether such an ordinance would be legal.

Group To Fight Unification

An organization called the Committee for More Competent People has been formed in the Tamalpais High School District to elect school trustees who oppose the proposal that would split the Tam district into three separate unified high school districts.

The group, headed by Priscilla Gray of Fairfax and Sophia Spencer of San Anselmo, specifically wants to defeat trustee David D. Ring, a member of the County Committee on School District Organization which proposed the split.

The committee will back candidates Gloria Melbostad of Mill Valley, Robert Corlett of San Anselmo, and Brice Pace of Fairfax, for election to the Tam High board. All are opponents of the split.

Cat Door Burglar Gets Off With $200

Ivan J. Silverberg told Corte Madera police last night that someone kicked in the cat door on the door of his house at 273 Summit Avenue yesterday, crawled through and made off with $200 in coins.

The money was in wrapped rolls, Silverberg told officers, and entry was made between 7 a.m. and 7:30 p.m., yesterday.

Eisenhower Train On Slow Trip Westward

memorial service that was canceled.

At the rear of the train, came the private railroad car of the former President, this time carrying his widow on the long trip west from Washington.

At midnight the funeral train will reach Abilene, the last scene for the five days of farewell to the general who led history's mightiest armies to victory in World War II.

The burial, beside his first son who died in infancy, will be tomorrow in the Eisenhower Center, a memorial library and chapel built on what was a cornfield when the world leader was a boy in this frontier cattle town at the turn of the century.

President Richard M. Nixon was blinking back tears as he left the train station in Washington yesterday after the flag-covered coffin was carried aboard the funeral car to begin the 1,300-mile trip in the twilight of a chill spring day.

The presidential widow, Mamie Doud Eisenhower, veiled in black, held onto the arm of her son John during the services and wept quietly at the last hymn: "Onward, Christian Soldiers."

Lyndon B. Johnson, one of the nation's two surviving ex-Presidents, returned to Washington for the first time for the funeral, exactly one year to the very day after his historic announcement that he would not run again.

With Nixon and De Gaulle as mourners in the cathedral were the Shah of Iran, the king of Belgium, the grand duke of Austria, the prime ministers of Canada and Australia, the chancellor of Germany.

From the towering Gothic cathedral, the body was borne by hearse to the train station in sight of the majestic dome of the U.S. Capitol, where Eisenhower had lain in state for the last day.

A 21-gun salute at dusk, the measured cadence of military footsteps, a hush amid the mourners, accompanied the simple soldier's casket to its black catafalque in the baggage car.

The family perhaps recalling the deaths of two onlookers as the funeral train of Robert F. Kennedy threaded its way through the throngs from New York to Washington only a year ago, had sought to avoid the crowds in a trip barren of ceremony.

At the rear of the train was the plush private railroad car that had carried Eisenhower to Abilene in 1952 to announced his candidacy for the White House.

Only a year ago it had carried him westward to the golfing vacation to California where he was stricken with the first of a series of heart attacks resulting in his death.

Now it bore his widow, his son, and his grandson, David, who became 21 on the day of the funeral.

Boy Saves Two; Adults Ignore Pleas

A 15-year-old San Anselmo boy rescued two children from drowning in heavy surf Sunday at Stinson Beach while nearby adults refused to help, he said.

The rescue was made by Tim Thompson, son of Mr. and Mrs. W. G. Thompson of 19 Oak Avenue, a sophomore at Marin Catholic High School, where he is an honor student and athlete.

The two children were about 7 and 9 years old, Tim told the Independent-Journal. They were brothers, and their last name was Page, he said, but he got no other details about them after the rescue.

The two children had been walking on some rocks at the south end of the beach when they fell in the surf. The younger one had a cast on one leg.

Their cries for help were ignored by about 15 nearby adults, Tim said, and by the time he reached the water the older boy already had been swept about 30 yards out to sea.

Tim first got the younger boy back up on the rocks, then swam out and managed to bring in the older one. In the process, Tim said, he lost his pants, which became too heavy to wear.

Meanwhile, Tim's friend, Marie O'Donnell, 14, of Kentfield, pleaded in vain with the adults on the beach to help Tim. "They didn't say a word" in response of her pleas, Tim reported.

Other friends, however, ran and got the lifeguards further up the beach. By the time the lifeguards arrived, however, Tim had both boys back on the beach.

Tim, noting he has a pool at home, conceded he was a "pretty good swimmer." Also, he added, he took a junior life saving course at Tamalpais High School one summer.

SIRHAN

consider more seriously that sirhan had delusions.

"Had I as a psychiatrist met Sirhan before the shooting I wouldn't have been able to determine any serious psychopathic distrubances," he testified. "I would have been unable to forecast prior to the time of the shooting that Sirhan would have done what he did."

Sirhan's defenders are trying to show his mind was incapable of plotting the June 5, 1968 assassination and therefore he should not be convicted of first degree murder, in which premeditation is an important element. The sentence for first degree murder, to be set by the jury, is either death or life imprisonment.

There has been testimony that Sirhan began going into trances during childhood in Palestine when he witnessed scenes of war. The defense claims he was in a similar trance when he mortally wounded Kennedy.

Kenneth Hahn, a member of the Los Angeles County Board of Supervisors said Monday the Sirhan case has cost the county $858,595. He estimated the cost eventually will top $1 million.

Robbins Sets Series Of Coffee Meetings

San Rafael City Councilman Fred C. Robbins Jr., campaigning for re-election April 15, will appear at a series of coffees through April 11.

They are: 8 p.m. tomorrow at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Fred Brylka, 593 Montecillo Road; 10 a.m. Thursday, Mr. and Mrs. John J. Foley of 40 Marina Court Drive; 8 p.m., April 9, Mr. and Mrs. John L. Semorile Jr., 11 Constance Drive; 8 p.m. April 10, Mr. and Mrs. George M. Osborn of 275 Center Street; 10 a.m. April 10, Mr. and Mrs. Lloyd Hennen, 63 Lucas Park Drive, and 8 p.m. April 11, Mr. and Mrs. Frnak B. Peebles, 31 Maywood Avenue.

NIXON

came here to attend funeral services for Eisenhower were largely ceremonial in nature.

Ky will be flying from Washington to the Vietnam peace talks in Paris and it seemed certain he and Nixon would discuss that parley, as they did when they met in Paris a month go during the chief executive's European tour.

Another ally in the Vietnam war, President Ferdinand Marcos of the Philippines, said enroute to Washington that he had unspecified "urgent" matters he wanted to discuss with Nixon.

Others to see Nixon today were:

Chung Il Kwon of South Korea, Marcello Caetoma of Portugal and Suleiman Demirel of Turkey.

Also Chancellor Kurt Georg Kiesinger of West Germany, the Shah of Iran, President Habib Bourguiba of Tunesia and Former Prime Minister Nobusuke Kishi of Japan.

Today's talks followed a large diplomatic reception Nixon gave at the White House last night for the heads of state and other dignitaries who came for the Eisenhower state funeral.

LAW IN ACTION

From the State Bar Of California

Crimes May Be Torts As Well

Assault and battery is a crime in California, but it is also a "tort." A criminal court may sentence a person who punches your nose to jail, and you may also sue him for money damages in a civil court.

An assault is "an unlawful attempt, coupled with a present ability to commit a violent injury on the person of another," says California's Penal Code. A battery is any willful and unlawful use of force or violence upon another person. One crime is the attempt; the other, the completed act.

What about people engaging in sports, such as two boxers. Are Battling Bill and Grizzly George committing assault and battery as they whack away at each other? No, because they have each legally consented to the acts of the other.

But what if the presumed victim cannot give consent? For example, a man is injured and unconscious. A doctor sees that an operation is essential. Can he operate without consent?

The California law says the doctor has "implied consent" to perform an emergency operation. However, whether he has implied or real consent, a doctor cannot go beyond the necessities imposed by the emergency.

Here is a difficult borderline area of the law. How far may the surgeon lawfully go when he finds unexpected conditions that need remedy? There is no precise definition; each case must rest upon the facts.

Can a person consent to an illegal assault? Suppose that in the heat of a quarrel a husband said to his wife, "If you don't like me go ahead and shoot me! I dare you!" And she does. Is this consent? No, because the act is illegal and the law will not permit a person to consent to an illegal act.

(Note:California lawyers offer this column so you may know about our laws.

expected to last about 25 minutes.

The service will be conducted by the Rev. Robert H. MacAskill of the First Presbyterian church of Gettysburg, Pa., and the Rev. Dean Miller of Palm Desert Community Church.

Then the casket will be carried along the broad sidewalk to the tiny chapel about 100 yards west of the library.

The coffin will be placed on a temporary wooden platform built over a sunken crypt some 15 feet inside the chapel door. The body will lie next to that of the Eisenhowers' first-born son, Doud Dwight Eisenhower, who died of scarlet fever at the age of 3 in 1921.

There is room inside the chapel for only about 80 invited persons. No news coverage of the 15-minute final rites there will be permitted. A loudspeaker will carry words of the clergyman—yet to be chosen—to those outside.

Just before the benediction, a battery of cannon placed east of the library will fire a 21-gun salute. Following the benediction, a rifle squad will fire the traditional three volleys and a bugler will play "Taps."

Then "West Point, Alma Mater" will be played and as the last notes fade away, Lt. Gen. V. P. Mock, 5th Army commander, will present the folded flag from the casket to Mrs. Eisenhower with the simple words uttered at all military funerals:

"This flag is presented to you on behalf of a grateful nation as a token of appreciation for the honorable and faithful service rendered by your loved one."

And Dwight David Eisenhower—known to Abilene as a boy who dreamed of being a locomotive engineer but instead became commander of the greatest military force ever assembled and president of the United States — will be home for his final rest.

State Is Hit By Outbreak Of Meningitis

BERKELEY (UPI) — A severe outbreak of meningitis — with the death rate running as high as one in five — is sweeping California, the state Health Department said today.

So far, at least 13 persons have died from the disease this year and the tabulations are far from complete, according to Dr. James Chin, a department specialist in epidenics.

Chin said there were 227 reported cases through March 22 — a rate triple that of last year. And then final figures for the first three months of the year are in, Chin said, the number of meningitis cases will almost certainly exceed last year's total of 244.

"Epidemic is a word I don't like to use," Chin said, "but it is at least fair to say we are concerned about a marked increase that has hit California."

Chin said the death rate "is running between 15 and 20 per cent."

California appears to be unique in experiencing the outbreak and "sticks out like a sore thumb," the doctor said. "I don't really have any theories as to why we're in the lead, so to speak."

In its early stages, meningitis symptoms include respiratory congestion and a measles-like rash. Infants and children under 5 are its prime target with teenagers and young adults of military and college age a close second.

Chin said meningitis outbreaks generally occur in cycles and it "does not look as if we've come close to reaching the peak yet."

Sales Indicate Type Of Weather

Roy G. Oliver, chairman of the S. G. Taylor Chain Co., Hammond, Ind., said sales of chains to dealers and distributors are running ahead of normal.

He attributes the early interest in tire chains to the fact that motorists have experienced severe snow and ice conditions in various parts of the country the last couple of winters.

"So dealers now are apparently figuring old fashioned winters are on the way back and they want to be ready for another bonanza for tire chains," Oliver said.

A private survey shows that 2,620 political subdivisions were leavying property taxes in Missouri in 1968.

of San Rafael after leaning of an opinion from the attorney general's office that the state must enter the litigation.

The suit, filed in November 1966, accuses the city of betraying its residents by allegedly establishing a careless and inaccurate tidelands boundary for the yacht club.

A pretrial conference has been scheduled for 4 p.m. April 16 in Marin Superior Court and the lands commission staff indicated it would try to postpone any action pending introduction of legislation.

Paul M. Joseph, deputy state attorney general, said Assemblyman William T. Bagley, R-San Rafael, would introduce legislation during the current session on problems with the San Rafael Canal.

"It's quite vital that these boundary problems be settled," Joseph said.

Weinberger indicated that legislation under consideration would have the state paying for a survey currently the responsibility of the City of San Rafael.

Safeguard's Foes Hope Nixon Shifts

WASHINGTON (AP) — Sen. Albert Gore, D-Tenn., a major foe of the Safeguard missile defense plan, suggested today the administration might "move to get itself off this hook" by shifting its position.

President Richard M. Nixon seeks funds to go ahead with deployment of antiballistic missiles around two U.S. missile bases, but faces strong opposition.

"I wouldn't be surprised if the administration didn't move to get itself off this hook," Gore told newsmen. "I don't know how."

But the Senate's leaders, Mike Mansfield, D-Mont., and Everett M. Dirksen, R-Ill., said they knew of no change in Nixon's position.

Mansfield said he had no hint of administration reconsiderations, but added there might be a reassessment at the White House if arms control talks with the Soviet Union are initiated.

Gore said such talks might provide an avenue to change the administration plan. "An obvious way would be to initiate negotiations and, in view of that, not press it," he said.

Mansfield said meanwhile he will not "put profits before peace" and permit himself to be swayed toward support of the Safeguard system by financial benefits to his home state, proposed site of one Safeguard base.

"To permit considerations of some local monetary gain to enter into the ABM decision would be tantamount to deciding to continue the Vietnamese war because it has kept the helicopter industry prosperous," he said.

Mansfield said the grave doubts about the feasibility, the cost, the necessity, the international impact of the ABM plan should be explored before the Senate decides whether to approve funds for the system.

But he said the Senate should not consider the economic benefits "which presumably will flow to certain states in the form of federal expenditures for the missile system."

Milton Eisenhower Misses Ike's Rites

WASHINGTON (AP) — Dr. Milton Eisenhower spent the night under medical observation in Walter Reed Army Hospital after he complained of feeling dizzy just before the funeral of his older brother, former President Dwight D. Eisenhower.

Friends said Dr. Eisenhower, 68, was worn out by the strain of the recent days.

"He was taken to Walter Reed simply for rest prior to leaving for Abilene," said George S. Wills of Johns Hopkins University in Baltimore where Dr. Eisenhower is president emeritus. "His hospitalization is purely precautionary."

Burial of former president Eisenhower will be tomorrow in Abilene, Kan.

Dr. Eisenhower, one of two surviving brothers of the former president, was with the Eisenhower family in a hotel yesterday when he became ill.

MILTON EISENHOWER
Rests in hospital

He was taken by military ambulance to the hospital where his brother died last Friday.

"I think it was just a case of tiredness," Hagerty said on ABC television.

Dr. Eisenhower, a noted educator who was president of Johns Hopkins University for 11 years, had a close relationship with his brother and served as an informal adviser when he was in the White House. Dr. Eisenhower went on three missions to Latin America for his brother.

Watches Stolen

Two watches valued at $25 each were stolen from the glove compartment of Dr. Thomas Hart's car while parked at United Market, 100 Red Hill Avenue, San Anselmo, Saturday, he told police yesterday. Dr. Hart, who lives at Upper Road West, Ross, said he parked at the market at 12:50 p.m.

Tougher Smog Control Rules To Get Hearing

I-J Speciel Reaport

SAN FRANCISCO — A tough new yardstick for measuring the quality of air, proposed by the state Department of Public Health, will be reviewed by Bay Area Air Pollution Control District directors at 10 a.m. tomorrow at district offices at 939 Ellis Street.

Air quality now is measured by "adverse levels," or levels of pollution at which health effects are noticed. The proposed "air quality standards" are about one third tougher, thus the district's enforcement program would have to be stepped up considerably.

The Department of Public Health proposed that its "air quality standards" be adopted by the state Air Resources Board, but the board asked that statewide public hearings be held first by the department on its proposed standards.

IKE TO REST IN UNIFORM

ABILENE, KAN. (AP) — Former President Dwight D. Eisenhower is being buried in his World War II uniform, with the short-waisted coat he made famous as the "Eisenhower Jacket."

The jacket is adorned with only three of his medals — the Army Distinguished Service Medal, the Navy Distinguished Service Medal and the Legion of Merit.

Injuries Minor

Jack W. Newman, 50, of 107 East Strawberry, escaped with a scraped left cheek yesterday when his car plunged 110 feet down a bank off Bolinas Ridge Road in Mount Tamalpais State Park, the California Highway Patrol reported. Newman was taken to Marin General Hospital after the accident at 12:45 p.m. but did not require treatment, according to the hospital.

Train Stations Thronged In Last Tributes To Ike

HUNTINGTON, W.Va. (AP)—Thousands of West Virginians stood hushed in predawn cold this morning to pay their last respects to Dwight D. Eisenhower.

Brief memorial services were conducted here as the general's funeral train paused 12 minutes for a change in crews before entering Kentucky and winding along the Ohio River to Cincinnati.

Earlier, hundreds of persons stood near the Chesapeake & Ohio Railway tracks in White Sulphur Springs, Hinton, Ronceverte, Montgomery, Charleston and St. Albans, W.Va., to watch the 10-car train as it rolled from the nation's capital toward the former president's final resting place on the plains at Abilene, Kan.

In Huntington, a color guard from the American Legion, Veterans of Foreign Wars, Veterans of World War I and the Disabled American Veterans stood silently as the Rev. James C. Burchett delivered a brief invocation immediately after the train arrived at 5:40 a.m.

Mary Johnson, a young Negro from the Women's Job Corps Center here, sang a hymn, "How Great Thou Art," and the crowd of more than 1,000 joined in somber tones in the recitation of the Lord's Prayer.

Col. Clemence Riley, an Army representative traveling on the train, thanked the crowd on behalf of the Eisenhower family. Eric France, a high school teacher, played Taps just prior to the train's departure at 5:52 a.m.

The body of the two-term president, who last traveled through Huntington in 1952 on a campaign train, lay shrouded in a casket in the train's second car — baggage car No. 314.

In Charleston, police estimated the crowd at the city's small train station at about 600 persons. Most obviously had awakened early to pay their last respects. Many parents brought their children some still in pajamas but bundled in coats and blankets against the 20-degree cold.

A 60-man unit of the West Virginia National Guard and Gov. Arch A. Moore's four-man honor guard, dressed in frontier costumes of white buckskin, snapped to attention as the train came into sight, then presented their arms as it passed through the station.

The crowd was quiet. The time was 4:36 a.m.

Ike was right on schedule.

CIVIL RIGHTS ISSUE

Court To Rule On Pool Uses

COMBINED AP & UPI

WASHINGTON — The Supreme Court, in a major civil rights move, agreed today to decide whether Negroes have a right to use private all-white community parks and swimming pools.

The pace-setting case comes from suburban Fairfax County, Va., where a Negro family renting a house from a white family was forbidden to use the subdivision's recreational facilities.

Both families sued and claimed violations of their civil rights. They said the 1966 Civil Rights Law, which the court has said bars discrimination in private housing sales, also protects the Negro family's right to use the facilities.

COURT ORDER

Last June, acting on an earlier appeal, the court directed Virginia state courts to reconsider rulings against the two families. The Supreme Court of Appeals of Virginia, in October, turned the cases down on procedural grounds.

Now the high court itself will settle the issue, in a ruling that undoubtedly will have broad national implications.

Last term's decision assured Negroes equal access to private homes in burgeoning developments. This case tests their right, when there to use all the benefits of suburban living.

In other actions today, the court:

Upheld the rights of unions to punish workers who go over production quotas. It said, 7 to 1, that fining or even expelling workers who exceed production quotas set by the union is a matter of internal union policy not forbidden by federal labor law.

WOLFSON CASE

Refused to throw out the federal securities conviction of Louis E. Wolfson, the junkyard owner's son who became a millionaire industrialist and now faces a year in prison Wolfson was convicted in 1967 in New York City of selling a large block of unregistered stock.

Rejected an attack on the constitutionality of a New York state law that bars strikes by public employees.

Gave Clark Clifford, President Lyndon B. Johnson's last secretary of defense and a prominet lawyer, what may turn out to be an historic assignment.

The job is to represent a Missouri convict who raises the constitutional claim that defendants in state trials should have the same protection against double jeopardy that federal defendants have enjoyed since 1791.

The prisoner, Bob Fred Ashe, is serving a 35-year sentence for armed robbery. He was granted a hearing last month and, from the Missouri State Penitentiary, asked the court to provide him with a lawyer.

TO PRESENT CASE

Clifford was assigned and will present Ashe's case at a hearing next fall.

The prominent assignment suggests the court may be of a mind to apply the prohibition against double jeopardy to the states. The provision, a part of the Fifth Amendment, is one of the few Bill of Rights guarantees that has been reserved so far for federal trials alone.

Reversed the conviction of a man found guilty of holding up a Fresno Western Union office on the ground that his pre-trial identification in a lineup violates "due process of law."

Justice Abe Fortas, speaking for the majority, noted that the convicted man, Walter B. Foster, was first placed in a three-man lineup. But Western Union's late night manager, Joseph David, could not positively identify him. Then Foster was brought into an office and faced David across a table. David was still uncertain.

Finally police arranged a second lineup of five men, all new to David except Foster. This time David was "convinced" Foster was the man and testified so at the trial.

CASE SETTLED

The Justice Department has settled its antitrust case against 18 publishers. However, damage suits have been filed by 35 cities and states claiming their schools and libraries were the victims of an unlawful price-fixing conspiracy.

The publishers challenged a ruling by Federal Judge Bernard M. Decker of Chicago, where one suit is pending, that the plaintiffs may use Justice Department documents and material subpoenaed by a federal grand jury.

Ordered a hearing for a Yugoslav student who the government said "fell into an electronic surveillance."

Emmanual Blaz Mrkonjic-Ruzic, a doctoral student at Hunter College in New York City, is under a five-year sentence for giving false information to immigration officials.

His otherwise routine case took on special significance when the government volunteered to the court last month that he had been "overheard" in an electronic surveillance. The government did not explain the bugging operation.

Hearing on a motion by the attorney for Frank Werber to suppress evidence seized during last October's narcotics raid at Werber's Marin County home has been continued until April 28.

The continuance was granted by U.S. District Judge William T. Sweigert Friday in San Francisco in order to give attorney Daniel H. Weinstein more time to develop his objections, according to Judge Sweigert's clerk.

Meanwhile, a trial date was to be set tomorrow for Charles P. Barrett of Sausalito and Stanley Mulligan of Corte Madera, who were arrested on suspicion of conspiracy to smuggle into the U.S. the marijuana seized during during the raid on Werber's home, according to Asst. U.S. Atty. Michael H. Metzger.

"Actually, we expect the time for setting a trial date to be reset until April 28," Metzger said.

Both Barrett and Mulligan are pleading innocent to the charges, according to Metzger, but are expected to testify against Werber who has pleaded innocent of conspiracy to import marijuana.

Werber has been ordered to be prepared to face trial within a week after the April 28 hearing, Metzger said.

Werber, 39, the former manager of the Kingston Trio, and five other persons were arrested on suspicion of narcotics possession at a raid Oct. 14 on his home at 4 DeSilva Island near Richardson Bay Bridge.

Werber, his girlfriend Judith Anne Sloper, Bryce Staples Wilson of Kentfield and Frank J. Mathieson of San Anselmo also are scheduled for trial in Marin Superior Court June 23 on charges of growing and possessing marijuana. All four have pleaded innocent.

Art Sleuth Named

It was Marin Sheriff's Deputy Russell Hunt, not Norman Johnson, who discovered pranksters had hidden a large exhibit of paintings in Bolinas Sunday, as reported in the Independent-Journal. The exhibitors had thought the collection was stolen.

CHIEF

E. Simpson, who conducted an investigation of the San Rafael Police Department in 1962 and recommended the first charter amendment to change the elective system, said in his report:

"I could not find an authority on police matters who believed it was correct procedure to elect a chief of police. All agree that open competitive examination properly conducted is the best known technique for insuring administrative competence."

With an elected chief, Simpson continued, "the public at large tends to be suspicious that police actions are political in origin or that police commissions are political in origin."

Professor Gordon Misner of the school of criminology at the University of California at Berkeley said he prefers the appointive system provided a "realistic search" is made for a chief, but says being elected has an advantage in that it "tends to make the officeholder more sensitive to changing community attitudes."

Misner said a study he recently conducted on the "Politics of a Metropolitan Sheriff's Election" revealed that about 90 per cent of the persons sampled believed the sheriff should be elected, but only about 10 per cent knew the sheriff's name.

Also opposed to the elective process is the International Association of Chiefs of Police. Executive director Quinn Tamm said that "very, very few" of the 18,000 cities in the U. S. have elected chiefs. In most cases, he said, the appointed chief is responsible to an appointed city manager or elected mayor.

"I would urge you to consider that police operate very often in a climate of emergency which calls for swift and courageous decisions and actions," said Tamm. "There is seldom time to consider the 'political' ramifications of the action. There is no time to debate or feel the public pulse.

"Opinions and feelings of the public must be carefully weighed and considered, of course, but these opinions are best directed to the determination of broad public policies by a legislative body or the elected executive head of the government, not an elected police executive."

Chiesa's defense of being elected is supported by Frank Sapena, the elected chief of the City of Santa Clara, but opposed by California's third elected chief, Ralph M. Jensen of the City of Albany.

Sapena, who has been chief 15 years, believed that elective sanction actually removes politics from the job. He said he had conducted several investigations within city government while chief and asked:

"How could you do this if your were appointed and responsible to people in city hall? It would place you in a very, very difficult position."

"The people here have said overhwelmingly in the past that they want an elected chief. It's worked here. I've never had a problem with the council or city manager."

Although Chief Jensen of Albany remarked that one advantage of being elected was that the city council "can't run you," he said he would prefer being appointed because "you have to run every four years and you may have to kowtow to others."

Further, he said, unqualified persons are eligible to run for the job and perhaps a "person with a lot of money could come in open up the town, reap the profits and get out."

Albany Mayor Richard O. Clark said he likes the elective system because Jensen is "under public scrutiny and responsible to the voters," although he wished the council had some voice in control of police personnel.

"We tried to get a police inspector shifted from the race track (Golden Gate Fields) to administrative duties and the chief said he'd handle the personnel," Clark said. "And he told us to take the issue to court if we wanted to."

$241,342 Hike Seen In Kentfield Budget

Kentfield School District trustees last night heard that total expenditures for 1969-70 have been estimated at $1,653,734 — or $241,343 above the current budget.

Within the expenditure is an estimated $98,000 for teachers' and classified salary increases, although these employees will not go before the board with their proposals until the board's April 14 meeting. Teachers now receive $712,804 in salaries.

Also in the $1,653,734 figure, reported Mrs. Elizabeth Beatty, business manager, is $72,791 for maintenance, repairs and replacements and $146,542 in capital outlay requests. These items are usually trimmed by the board.

Last year the board approved about $26,000 for maintenance, repairs and replacement and $41,322 for capital outlay requests.

Trustees set 9 a.m., April 26, to tour the district's three schools to evaluate maintenance and capital outlay reequests.

There is a $90,000 reserve estimated for 1969-70 which compares with the current year's reserve of $93,517.

Total tax rate is now $3.34 per $100 assessed valuation. The maximum general purpose tax rate is $2.50, now in effect, and which the board plans to maintain, Mrs. Beatty added.

The Kentfield District School Board Also:

TESTING PROGRAM—Heard from Jack Williams, district psychologist, that in Stanford Achievement tests given at the close of the 1967-68 year, 53 per cent of the district's first grade students, 54 per cent of the second graders and 58 per cent of the third graders, scored above the 75th percentile. These represent very high scores, Williams told the board.

TEACHER AIDES — Warren English, Kent School vice principal, reported an "extremely successful" teacher aide program at Adaline E. Kent School. The program has 80 volunteer aides and it was necessary to turn away volunteers, he said.

RESIGNATIONS — Accepted resignations from David Van Kriedt, instrumental music teacher, who is emigrating to Australia; Mary Jane Wright, Wolfe Grade primary teacher, on leave, to care for her newly adopted child; and Avanell Munch, Wolfe Grade intermediate teacher, on leave, who is going into theater work.

MINIMUM DAY — Approved a request from Adaline E. Kent School for a minimum day June 12 to allow orientation of all incoming seventh grade pupils.

Missing GI Is Arrested

Steven John Borner, 21, reportedly absent from the Army for more than a year, was arrested in Sausalito last night and held at Marin County Jail for the Federal Bureau of Investigation.

Borner was also booked on suspicion of possessing dangerous drugs. Sausalito police said the FBI asked them to arrest Borner at a Sausalito address he was visiting, but police saw him at a Gate 5 telephone booth and arrested him there at 10 p.m.

Police said Borner had 39 orange capsules in his pocket. The FBI said Borner left his post at the Presidio in San Francisco on Oct. 24, 1967.

Borner was held under $1,250 bail to appear in Marin Municipal Court today.

A Sad Train Ride For Mrs. Eisenhower

ABILENE, Kan. (AP) — Mamie Eisenhower never liked to fly.

So, each fall as the winds sweeping off the Alleghenys grew chill, she and her husband would leave their farm in Gettysburg, Pa. and ride by private railroad car to their winter home in California.

Then, when melting snow swelled the Susquehanna on its springtime rush through Pennsylvania and black-clad Amish farmers returned to their fields, the Eisenhowers would come home again by rail across the nation.

Today, as a 10-car train highballs out of the great Appalachian range and threads its way along the Ohio and on toward the Great Plains, Mamie Eisenhower is making her last journey with her husband of 53 years.

She rides in the same private car she came to know so well in happier days.

The long ordeal of saying farewell to her husband almost over, the 72-year-old widow seemed to perk up yesterday as she boarded the train in Washington's Union station for the long ride out to his boyhood home and final resting place.

Lines of grief had etched her faced and she had seemed frail as she stood or knelt among bemedaled tunics and morning coats at the great state funeral in Washington's National Cathedral.

Through all the pageantry she kept her composure, wiping her eyes only occasionally and weeping quietly once.

Her 13-year-old granddaughter, Mary Jean Eisenhower, said it this way: "She's a very strong lady and I'm very proud of her."

Earlier in the day she had received in her hotel suite a long sucession of visiting foreign dignitaries—Mountbatten of England, Bernard of the Netherlands, Marcos of the Philippines and others.

At the cathedral she followed the words of the service and songs, holding the program in her hands. Once she joined in the singing of "Onward, Christian Soldiers," but stopped, hands trembling.

Homeowners Nod To Lucas Valley Recreation Bid

By overwhelming vote, Lucas Valley Homeowners Association members last night agreed to have 90 new homes join their association in exchange for a $62,000 recreation package from the developer.

Director Larry Cahn announced that the vote was 352 yes to 36 no. The vote represented a 90 per cent turnout of the 440 members of the association. The vote was canvassed last night by the election committee headed by association president William Reiner.

The membership of the association will be increased by 90 when Lucas Valley Units 7 and 9 are completed by Peninsula Master Builders on the north side of Lucas Valley Road at Mount Lassen and Mount Shasta drives.

In exchange for membership, the developers will deed three lots worth $27,000, install a tennis court for $8,000, and donate $27,000 to build a new swimming pool.

Lodge Recalls Ike's Duty-Bound Decision

WASHINGTON (AP) — Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower regarded his decision to run for president as his bitterest moment, but agreed to seek the office after being convinced it was his duty, according to Henry Cabot Lodge, who managed the 1952 campaign.

"If it became my duty to run for president," Eisenhower told Lodge in June, 1950, "I would do it. But it would be the bitterest moment of my life."

Lodge, then a Massachusetts senator, had gone to see the general at Columbia University, where Eisenhower served for a time as president. Ambassador Lodge, now U.S. representative at the Paris peace talks, told of the meeting today.

"I said that it might become his duty to run for president. I didn't think that Sen. Taft (the late Sen. Robert A. Taft, R-Ohio) could be elected. I considered that his foreign policy views were out of date.

"When I used the word 'duty' Eisenhower got up and walked up and down the room. And after he said he would do it but it would be his bitterest moment, he repeated again he would run if it proved to be his duty."

Lodge was not the first to ask Eisenhower to run for president. In fact, while he was running the allied war effort in Europe, both parties sought him out as a potential candidate.

There have been published reports that President Harry S Truman offered the 1948 Democratic presidential nomination to Eisenhower. Truman reportedly offered to run as Eisenhower's vice presidential candidate.

There were further efforts by the Democrats to get the general to head their ticket for the 1952 campaign.

To all these and other efforts Eisenhower said no in firm and seemingly complete tones.

Lodge said that he spoke to Eisenhower about running again when he visited him in September 1951 in Paris where Eisenhower, on leave as Columbia president, was organizing NATO forces.

In the Paris meeting, Lodge said, "I told him he had until January to make up his mind."

"I'm glad I've got that much time," Eisenhower replied.

As the day of decision approached a group of Eisenhower backers met in New York in November 1951, including New York Gov. Thomas E. Dewey, the Republican presidential candidate in 1944 and 1948.

"This group had been looking for a manager to run General Eisenhower's campaign," Lodge said. "I had thought the manager should come from Kansas or Missouri. It never crossed my mind that I would become the manager. But in the end the Midwest people agreed on me.

"Then we started in putting on a campaign. And we put it on without any permission from Ike. He knew about it—but we didn't have any permission from him to do it."

In January 1952, Lodge held a Sunday afternoon news conference. He said he was satisfied that Eisenhower was a Republican and had therefore entered the general's name in the New Hampshire GOP presidential primary.

"Naturally the newspapers wanted to know what Eisenhower thought about all this so they called his headquarters in Paris," Lodge said. "They got hold of some colonel who said that Eisenhower had never heard of it."

"On Wednesday following the Sunday announcement, Ike said 'Yes' he was a Republican and that he knew me and liked me. That made his position, of course, pretty evident.

"We had the New Hampshire primary and I didn't want Eisenhower even to come back for it. There had been some optimistic talks and we could've looked badly if Taft had gotten one or two votes. So we who were running the campaign didn't want to involve him in it. But we carried the primary all right, taking all the votes.

"I went to see him in April 1952, and he came back in June and made a speech at Abilene, Kan. It was his first speech in a political context."

Overhauling Of Juvenile Hall Urged

Both the physical plant at Marin Juvenile Hall and the treatment of juvenile delinquents need an overhaul, in the opinion of the League of Women Voters of Southern Marin.

The league's position paper on juvenile justice in Marin, released yesterday, calls for an improvement of detention facilities, but not at the expense of adequate probation department personnel.

Mrs. Roy D. Knapp, public relations chairman, said the league strongly urges the Marin County Board of Supervisors to set up a master plan for modernization and improvement of Juvenile Hall.

"The plan should provide for living quarters as attractive and homelike as possible in so far as this is practical and compatible with necessary security precautions," the league members announced.

Here are the other recommendations in the League's consensus and position paper:

Workloads of supervisory deputy probation officers should be reduced, even though this might require an initial increase in cost. If the program of the intensive supervision unit shows that fewer cases and more intensive casework result in fewer repeat offenses and/or shorter detention, the initial added expense would be justifed.

The probation officer who files the petition in court and presents evidence for the prosecution should be a person different from the one who makes the social investigation and recommends disposition. Distrust which might be felt by the child or parents when they find that the person in whom they confided is prosecuting the case in court could be detrimental.

New concepts of rehabilitative treatment are needed. Increased county subsidization of additonal private agency group homes might help keep within the county the court wards who must be cared for outside of their own homes. The community should be more involved in rehabilitation.

Superior court judges should serve as juvenile court judges on a rotation basis, but the tenure as juvenile judge should not be less than two years. A shorter tenure would not provide enough consistency, and a longer one would tend to make the bench autocratic.

The league plans to continue its juvenile justice study for another year.

Judge Orders Boycott Ended At Coast Docks

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI)—Longshoremen now are liable to fines and other penalties if they continue a selective boycott of teamster-packed cargo that is piling up on West Coast docks.

Dederal Judge Robert Peckham yesterday ordered the dock workers to end their boycott. The ruling "confired and permanently enforced" an arbitrator's ruling which, almost two weeks ago, ordered the men to handle the goods they have ignored since March 17.

Union officials declined immediate comment and their attorney said only that the ruling "will require study and consultation."

An arbitrator's ruling is described as "final and decisive" in the union's contract with the employers Pacific Maritime Association, but there are no penalties to back up such a ruling.

But the association will be able to complain to the judge if his order is not followed, and he can penalize them with fines or other judgments.

Judge Peckham, prompted by "the urgency of the matter" made his ruling even though all courts were closed in memory of ex-President Eisenhower.

Employers had argued that the longshoremen's contract clearly gives the arbitrator the final say on waterfront disputes and that the contract requires longshoremen to load and unload all cargo that comes to them.

Union attorneys argued, however, that the men have a right to act "to protect their economic interest."

Texas spends about $15 million per year on golf course construction and maintenance.

Rec Program Schedule Set

Registration for the Mill Valley Parks and Recreation Department's spring recreation program will be from 1 to 4 p.m. Monday through April 11 and from 9 a.m. to noon April 12 at the community recreation center, Camino Alto at East Blithedale Avenue.

Classes offered during the eight week program include tennis, karate, yoga, slimnastics, ballet, judo, preschool tumbling, dance therapy, a tiny tots class, joggers club, and a cross country track and field team for children, ages 8-18.

The recreation department will also sponsor a county track meet in cooperation with junior high schools throughout Marin on May 24 at Tamalpais High School.

Apartment Plans Will Be Reviewed

The Cotati Planning Commission will review plans for a 24-unit apartment building on East Cotati Avenue at its meeting at 7:30 p.m. today at the Cotati Elementary School.

The commission will also review an application for a small subdivision on Industrial Avenue requested by Paul Golis of Cofego Enterprises. Also to be studied are plans for a dog kennel planned by Mr. and Mrs. R. B. Malone at 7960 Gravenstein Highway.

Candidates' Night Set On April 9

A candidates' night for the Mill Valley Elementary and Tamalpais High School district board elections will be held at 8 p.m. April 9 in Ruby Scott Auditorium at Tamalpais High School.

Sponsors of the forum, the League of Women Voters of Southern Marin, the Mill Valley Parent-Teacher Association Council and the Mill Valley branch of the American Association of University Women, have asked candidates to discuss the role of a school board member, the financing of education and the proposed three-way split of the high school district.

In the high school district, also with three seats open, the candidates are incumbents Gloria W. Melbostad and David D. Ring, and challengers William H. Bentley, Robert W. Corlett, Richard W. Jahnke and Brice Pace.

Producing Books For Children

By MAYBELLE SPECKMANN

Another outlet for creative energies has been discovered by two Marin housewives — writing and illustrating books for children with photographs.

Just off the press is "When I Grew Up," a book for children from kindergarten through second grade with the story written by Mrs. David Ainsworth (Judy) of San Anselmo, illustrated with photographs by Mrs. Michael Durrie (Belinda) of Mill Valley, and published by the Children's Press of Chicago, Ill.

A second book, "The Lost Smile," is being submitted to publishers, and they are working on a third, "A House by the Sea."

How did it all start?

Having met through a neighbor, they say that during one rainy winter afternoon in 1967 they discovered that each had been thinking about doing a children's book through inspiration gained from their own children.

Judy has two children, a son Gray, 5, and little girl, Erin, 2. Belinda, or Bindy, as she is better known, has four children; three girls, Robin, 8; Jennifer, 5; and Jessica, 3; and a son Nick, 6.

Said Judy, "I had got an idea for a story through listening to my son, and Bindy had thought about a book through taking pictures of her children. It was sort of by accident that we got it done."

Bindy added, "Having four kids, I had lots of photographs of them because they are a natrual for taking pictures. People kept saying how good the pictures were, and it grew from there. I was entirely self-taught and learned by trial and error."

"We didn't know how to go about getting the book published," Judy explained; "so we sent it to my mother-in-law, who is an elementary school district librarian in Morena Valley, and she suggested several publishers, one of them being Children's Press in Chicago.

"If we had taken the evening course in creative writing for children that we are now enrolled in at Sir Francis Drake High School that is taught by Glen Dines, we might never have sent the book, because it was submitted in such an unprofessional condition.

"In the class we have learned how to submit books in a professional manner and where to submit them by reading books in a style like ours and then sending ours to those publishers.

"AS FOR THE actual writing for children, the secret is just to listen to children. For example, when I talked to Gray about why he wanted to grow up, his first answer was 'so I can stay up late at night.' Some of his other reasons were so that he could go to work in his own office, be big and strong like daddy and so that he could take his children for a drive in the country."

Judy also noted that as a story teller at the San Anselmo public library under the parks and recreation department, she had read about 50 books a week and learned what good writing for children is.

The two young women — Bindy a blonde and Judy a brunette — have quite different backgrounds.

A native of Montreal, Bindy is the wife of Michael Durrie, son of Charles H. Durrie, a member of the American Institute of Interior Designers, whose family has lived many years in Belvedere and before that in Mill Valley. Michael is a credit supervisor for the General Motors Acceptance Corp. in San Francisco.

Bindy attended the University of California for three years, majoring in psychology, before her marriage. She and her husband and children have lived in Mill Valley three years.

Until she became very active in the Mill Valley Cooperative Nursery School, Bindy made pottery as a hobby, a skill she learned in classes at the College of Marin and in Oakland.

"I love to hike," she says, "but mainly my life revolves around my home and children.

JUDY WAS BORN and grew up in Kansas City, Mo., and is a graduate of the University of Kansas, with major in international relations. After graduation she worked in the Washington, D.C. office of the Peace Corps, an experience she found fascinating because it was something entirely new then.

She is the wife of David Ainsworth, an administrative assistant for Mason Terminals in San Francisco. They have lived in San Anselmo three years.

"Besides my family, camping, hiking and writing I am interested in the League of Women Voters and am vice president this year of the Central Marin branch," she said.

THEIR OWN CHILDREN and neighbors' are subjects for pictures illustrating their books for children by Mrs. David Ainsworth and Mrs. Michael Durrie. In this picture from their book "When I Grow Up", Gray Ainsworth, 5, kisses his "wife" Jennifer Durrie goodbye as he leaves to go to work in his office. Being able to go to work in an office like daddy is one of the reasons he says he wants to grow up and be a man.

ONE OF GRAY Ainsworth's reasons for wanting to grow up is so that he can take his children for a ride in the country. This is one of the illustrations in the book "When I Grow Up" written by his mother, Mrs. David Ainsworth of San Anselmo, with pictures taken by Mrs. Michael Durrie of Mill Valley.

Glamor Queens Tell Their Style Secrets

By GENE HANDSAKER

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — What's most important in being well dressed?

The scene: The movie Costume Designers Guild's third annual awards this week. Through an elegantly attired throng a reporter threaded, asking screen glamor queens their chief secrets for looking stylish.

Said Anne Baxter: "A sense of yourself, of what looks well on you. With today's fashions and very little effort, you can look like a clown. You have to decide what is good for you. Within any fashion period you will always find some look, some style, that fits your body and personality and will make you look attractive."

Barbara Stanwyck's scintillating silver hair and gown exemplified her advise: "For man or woman, be well groomed to the very utmost of your budget. In this day and age it can be done on a low budget. To look neat, as a lady or gentleman should, is most important."

Jane Wyman: "Women should look very feminine—like women." Miss Wyman did—in a black chiffon gown she described as "easy and comfortable."

Sondra Locke, Oscar nominee for her supporting role in "The Heart Is a Lonely Hunter": "To maintain simplicity. To me, simplicity means elegance."

Barbra Streisand, given the costume designers' award later in the evening as best dressed actress, said:

"I think it's always to have the woman still the most important subject. In other words, that she rule the clothes rather than the clothes rule her."

The $100-per-person dinner dance raised about $40,000 for the National Cystic Fibrosis Research Foundation, a spokesman said.

Mother-In-Law Gets Blamed

By MARTIN EDMUNDS
London Express

LONDON — Who smooths over the tiffs of marriage, from Amsterdam to Adelaide, from Dublin to Dunedin? Who helps to keep husband and wife together? Who look after young children when their parents want some time away together? Who comes to the rescue when there is accident or illness in the home?

It's friendly, tactful mother-in-law — yet how badly she needs a new image!

Families everywhere know she can be a kind, helpful personality, yet all over the world she is disliked, condemned — and often secretly feared.

The universal anti-mother-in-law joke (Juvenal, the Roman satirist, said about 112 A.D. "Give up all hope of peace so long as your mother-in-law is alive") did not arise by chance.

Anthropologists think it is a fragmentary survival of the primitive belief that if a man speaks to or even looks at his wife's mother he will suffer terrible misfortune.

Missionaries have seen people in South West Africa and New Guinea hiding at the approach of their mothers-in-law. A traditional belief among the Navajo Indians has been that a man went blind if he looked mother-in-law in the face.

He called her "doyishini" or "she-whom-I-must-not-see." The belief faded in time — but the instinctive fear of breaking the taboo remained — so a man was allowed to go through a form of marriage with his mother-in-law before marrying her daughter.

In New Guinea a missionary found a boy of six suddenly falling to the ground and hiding under a table during lessons. The boy had seen his elder brother's mother-in-law approaching the school.

More advanced societies take a less harsh view but still blame mother-in-law for a lot.

DR. R. K. DOIG, the head of a Melbourne, Australia, medical research center, has made a special study of why young married people — apparently in the best of health — get ulcers. Often, he found, mother-in-law was directly to blame.

In one case he found that a young wife's ulcer dated back 10 years. He traced its beginning to the day when the wife heard that her "domineering" mother-in-law was coming to stay with her.

The young wife was questioned about what she wanted to do about her mother-in-law.

She flushed and with rising voice and tense face said, "I wanted to kill her."

A Tokyo newspaper warns that "mother-in-law trouble" is the commonest cause of divorce in Japan. It says, "the mother-in-law should not force old customs on the bride. It is important that she remembers that the bride is her son's wife and not merely a source of labor for housework."

Just how awkward can mother-in-law be? English social scientists have surveyed 25 families with what is politely termed a "dominant mother." Nearly all the couples surveyed were in the 18-30 group and began married life living with the wife's mother chiefly because of the housing shortage. The husbands sought help from a social agency when they failed to establish a home of their own — away from their mothers-in-law.

THE REPORT has made it clear that the trouble began "before marriage —" the courtship was characterized by strong disapproval on the part of the mother-in-law in which her own dissatisfactions were clearly shown. Marriage was presented as something that "would not have happened (to me) if I had my time over again."

The couples determined to get married in spite of her. Once married, husbands complained that their mothers-in-law read their private letters, others that they were belittled all the time or that their wives took sides with their mothers against them. Mother-in-law was always jealous; one unfortunate husband sharing a home got smaller portions of food than anybody else.

The pressure built up until the husband walked out in despair. The wife, torn between loyalty to her mother and to her husband, tended to let him go. Mother-in-law would say, self-righteously, that she had interfered "only for the best."

What was mother-in-law's real motive? The survey said it was a feeling that the marriage of her daughter, with its new loyalties, implied a loss of reduction in her own prestige.

IN EGYPT THE law has sought to cope with this age-old human problem. Bride and mother-in-law must sign legal agreements for peaceful co-existence.

The bride has to recognize that mother-in-law's love for her husband is just as valid as hers, though different in kind. She must not show disrespect to mother-in-law, must call her "mother" and greet her with a kiss. She must remember her birthday. She must promise never to criticize her when alone with her husband. She must concede that it is natural for mother-in-law to care for her grandchildren.

On her side mother-in-law has to agree not to give her daughter-in-law unasked advice, not to "spoil" the grandchildren, never to prolong visits and never to criticize the wife when alone with the son.

She had also to promise to treat her daughter-in-law as if she were her own — and in turn to remember her birthday.

A special tribunal awards damages to parties injured by violation of the agreement. Egyptian lawyers and social workers are confident that such an agreement, universal in its spirit, could cut separations and divorces by half in any country where it may be enforced.

HELEN HELP US!

By HELEN BOTTEL

Numerous Answers Projected Over 'Psyched Out Sound'

DEAR HELEN:

"Psyched Out Over That Sound" asked what "In-a-Gadda-da-Vita" means. The Iron Butterfly's song was written by Doug Ingle, their organist and lead singer. Doug won't say what the words really mean and prefers to let people identify with them in their own way, but if you listen closely to the other lyrics, you'll know it has something to do with love and peace and life.

As to how the four guys can be one Iron Butterfly, the answer is unity: No one member is responsible for the sound.

When you ask the I. B., they are kind of vague and say the phrases's meaning is very personal.—ELF.

DEAR HELEN:

"In-a-Gadda-de-Vita" means "In a Garden of Life." I asked the Iron Butterfly.—KNOWS

DEAR HELEN:

"In-a-Gadda-de-Vita" means "In the Garden of Eden." Say it fast and you'll see. It's kinda like your old song, "Mairzy Doats."—PRETTY SURE

DEAR ALL OF YOU:

As I say, nobody knows for sure, but it's one find sound, anyway!—H.

DEAR HELEN:

I'm 18 and I married a 19-year-old Marine last year. He went to Vietnam right away, and I haven't seen him since.

Last week I heard he was injured, and later that he'd lost his leg. Helen, I hardly even knew him, and now am I doomed to live the rest of my life with a cripple.

Please tell me how I can get out of this, and if he gets a pension, will a divorced wife be entitled to some of it?—NOT A NURSE MAID

DEAR NOT:

You're not even human! Get lost fast — and let's hope your Marine has already put you down as the worst mistake he ever made!—H.

P.S. You're entitled to nothing but a bouquet of poison ivy!

DEAR HELEN:

I have noticed that when a girl is having an illegitimate child, you have all sorts of reasons why she shouldn't put the father's name on the birth certificate.

I have such a child and the father's name is right there where it should be. Whether it's proven legally or not, my baby deserves the right to a name! We haven't gone to court yet, but we will!

You'd be surprised at the number of people who think I'm right. Any girl who has the guts to do this is usually not lying. What can she lose? She won't be talked about any more than she already is, and the guy gets a share of the blame, this way. —C.B.

DEAR C.:

All sorts of reasons? No — only one. When revenge is the motive, the child will probably be the victim. Nasty court cases are remembered. They leave a stigma that can make a child's life pretty grim.—H.

Gardening Takes Toll

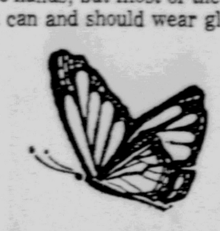
Spring gardening ranks as a primary outdoor activity for many homemakers when winter landscapes start turning green.

Producing a beautiful garden is a desirable objective—but the work involved plus exposure to wind and weather can take its toll on your appearance.

Rough skin, ragged cuticles, broken nails, and red, irritated eyes make beauty lose its luster quickly. You can avoid this by taking a few advance precautions.

Even though days are mild, bright sunlight can irritate your eyes. Wear a pair of properly fitted sunglasses to protect the eyes, and help prevent development of unwanted "squint lines."

Some gardening jobs require bare hands, but most of the time you can and should wear gloves.



For an extra measure of protection, apply hand cream to skin and under nails, before donning gardening gloves.

Keep an extra set of first aid supplies handy in the garage or tool shed. Any open scrape, bruise or cut should be treated immediately.

Take an occasional "eye break" by lifting your eyes and focusing on distant objects for a few seconds. A few drops of eye lotion will provide soothing relief for eyes irritated by weather, or visual concentration.

Don't spray dust or chemicals on windy days, and make sure that all containers are tightly closed when not in use.

Use a suntan lotion on warm spring days, and give your skin and hair added protection with a broad-brimmed hat.

As for planting, seeds of radishes, peas, pollies, conflowers and similar plants should go in early. Late March is good for early flowering perennials and biennials, most other plants in April.

MRS. EDMUND MAHON

THE BETTER HALF By Bob Barnes

Lack Of Calcium May Be Cause Of Aged Shrinkage

It is an old wives adage that one starts to shrink as soon as growth stops. It's a medical adage as well, and now medicine is finding something that can be done about at least one aspect of it.

Persons who watch their parents or older friends, especially those who reach and live beyond bench-mark years of 60-65, can literally see them shrink.

What is happening is that their bones are changing, becoming less dense, more porous — and, of course, smaller. The condition is called osteoporosis.

Shrinkage caused by it is especially notable in the spinal column. A man whose insurance examiner may have measured his height as 5 feet, 8 inches at age 30 may discover at age 65 he is now 5 feet 5 inches.

Physicians are inclined to place the blame on lack of sufficient calcium in the diet and its transfer into bone — as rickets in infants may be caused by lack of calcium or its failure to concentrate in the skeleton — generally because of Vitamin D deficiency.

A research study reported in the American Journal of Clinical Nutrition lends support to the assumption that osteoporosis is a calcium-deficiency disease. This study was carried out at the Brookhaven National Laboratory, Long Island.

The scientists selected a group of elderly patients ranging in age from 58 to 89. All had osteoporosis confirmed by X-rays, and other diseases as well. All were hospitalized, all diets were measured, as well as excretions and each patient was "counted" in the Brookhaven whole-body counter to measure retention of calcium.

First the experimenters established that all patients received 500 milligrams of calcium daily. But they lost up to more than 700 milligrams a day.

When, however, each patient was given additionally 2 grams daily (2,000 milligrams) of a calcium replenishment medicine, the retention rate rose dramatically — to as high as 515 milligrams a day.

The scientists concluded, "In as much as the high calcium diet produced a positive calcium balance and acted to inhibit bone resorption, it can be considered to be beneficial to osteoporotic patients."

Mrs. C. P. Stark Is Family Services Volunteer Of Year

Mrs. Carl P. Stark, wife of an Air Force captain stationed in Vietnam and mother of four children, has been named the 1968 outstanding family services volunteer of the year for Hamilton Air Force Base's Fourth Air Force.

MRS. CARL STARK

She is coordinator for Hamilton's Family Services, an organization designed to help military families get settled in a new community.

During the year, Mrs. Stark, who lives in Novato, contributed 443 hours of time at Hamilton's Family Services Center, base officials said, and began a program to assist wives whose husbands are stationed overseas.

The new program, entitled "Wives of Husbands Overseas," provides activities and social outlets for waiting wives. Currently 150 women in Marin and Sonoma Counties are active in the program, Mrs. Stark said.

To get the program underway, Mrs. Stark supervised the publication of a brochure designed to acquaint the unaccompanied wives with the services and recreation facilities available at Hamilton and in the surrounding communities.

Goldwater's Son In Key House Race

By ASSOCIATED PRESS

Congressional districts in California and Wisconsin choose new representatives today in a test of the drawing power of some of the best-known names in American politics.

And in the prairie town of Abilene, Kan., the municipal election went on as scheduled despite the pall cast by the death of its favorite son, Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower, and preparations for his burial there tomorrow.

National leaders of both parties worked for their candidates in Wisconsin's Seventh District, which Secretary of Defense Melvin R. Laird held for 16 years until he joined the Nixon administration.

One television spot showed President Richard M. Nixon, his arm around Republican Walter L. Chilsen on the White House lawn, saying, "I need you here in Washington."

Former Vice President Hubert Humphrey went to Wausau to speak and raise money for Democrat David Obey, a 30-year-old state assemblyman, and Sen. Edward M. Kennedy of Massachusetts contributed television and radio tapes.

In the San Fernando Valley outside Los Angeles, the well-known name of Goldwater is once again on the ballot. Barry Goldwater Jr., son of the Arizona senator and 1964 Republican presidential candidate, is one of 15 candidates running for the congressional seat left vacant when Republican Ed Reinecke reigned to become lieutenant governor.

Goldwater, a Republican, make frequent reference to his father—who didn't carry the district in 1964—but the senator hasn't campaigned for his 30-year-old bachelor son.

The best-known candidates are Goldwater, City Councilman James Potter Jr. and Assemblyman Pat McGee, all Republicans. If no one gets a majority a runoff will be held April 29 between the top Democrat and top Republican.

Los Angeles Mayor Sam Yorty, 59, is in what promises to be a tight battle for re-election to a third term. A weekend poll showed him trailing City Councilman Thomas Bradley, a 51-year-old Negro veteran of 21 years on the police force, by 16 per cent. The top two men will face each other May 27 if none of the 14 candidates gets a majority in the nonpartisan race.

In Abilene, the election was shoved into the background by preparations for Eisenhower's burial. "I almost forgot about it," said Jewell Isley, one of five candidates for the three seats on the City Commission.

Elsewhere, there were these races:

In St. Louis, Democratic Mayor A. J. Cervantes was considered likely to win re-election by a top-heavy margin over electronics distributor Gerald G. Fisher.

In Dallas, Tex., a Citizens Charter Association, a local party that has dominated city politics for four decades, was expected to win a majority of the 11 City Council seats, and the council is expected to re-elect Mayor Erik Jonsson.

In San Antonio, Tex., nine city councilmen will be elected from 36 candidates. The council chooses the mayor and W. W. McAllister, 80, is running for re-election. He has been mayor since 1961.

Muskie Being Blitzed By Talk Invitations

WASHINGTON (AP) — Sen. Edmund S. Muskie's wide-ranging political travels have paid off with a blizzard of speaking invitations and aides say "he has to be taken seriously" as possible 1972 presidential candidate.

By the end of April, an aide said, the Maine Democrat who was his party's 1968 vice presidential nominee, will have made 60 speeches in 27 states this year, an average of one every two days.

He has also made speeches in Japan, Britain and Canada and is solidly booked into June.

"At least," one Muskie aide said, "Democratic leaders in 27 states know there is an alternative for 1972 if he decides to run."

By expanding his efforts outside Washington, the senator is following the route that led John F. Kennedy and Richard M. Nixon to presidential nominations in 1960 and 1968.

The flood of speaking invitations, aides said, "has been noticeably increasing" in recent weeks to some 25-50 a day.

Muskie had planned to slow his speaking schedule after the congressional Easter recess this month. But the aide said "he plans to keep at it into June because there's so little going on in Congress."

After appearances in New York last night, Chicago today and Salisbury, Md., tomorrow, he plans to take a week off to be with his family, resuming speeches next Wednesday at a dinner in Cleveland in honor of the city's Negro mayor, Carl Stokes.

The rest of his schedule through April 21 includes two college campuses, Brown and Vanderbilt; two Jefferson-Jackson Democratic dinners in Boise, Idaho, and Salt Lake City; an Oregon dinner to help pay off the campaign debt of defeated senatorial candidate Robert Duncan; plus two other speeches in Cleveland and two in Houston, Texas.

The pressure at the deepest part of the ocean is nearly seven tons per square inch, almost a thousand times the atmospheric pressure on the surface.

Buses Only For Transit

REDWOOD CITY (AP)—West Bay Rapid Transit Authority directors voted yesterday for a $20 million buses-only system instead of a $350 million buses and rail line.

If given final approval next Monday, the resolution will go before San Mateo County voters on June 10.

Previously directors had considered a $120 million rail line linking San Francisco International Airport and the rail line being built by the Bay Area Rapid Transit District.

They had also considered a $210 million rail line from the airport to the Santa Clara County line.

Nature Conservancy Rescues Sierra Tract

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI)—A 160-acre wilderness tract in the Sierra was slated for housing development until the Nature Conservancy, a national conservation organization, obtained funds to buy it.

Huey D. Johnson, the group's regional director, announced yesterday the tract of land in the Five Lakes area of the Sierra would be purchased with a portion of $387,000 donated by Rodney Johnson, 82, of Newport Beach, a former attorney, businessman and engineer.

Johnson said "the acquisition of this key tract in the midst of federally owned lands will enable the U.S. Forest Service to designte the surrounding 28 square miles as roadless area."

The tract, bought from a private party, lies seven miles west of Tahoe City and south of Squaw Valley. It will be named the "Rodney Johnson Preserve" after the donor.

The land will be held for the U.S. Forest Service until federal funds become available to repay the Nature Conservancy at cost.

Every day of the year 13,000 contributing agencies forward more than 21,000 fingerprint records to the FBI in Washington.

Kenneth Wells Reception Set

A reception for Kenneth G. Wells, candidate for the Reed School District board, will be held Thursday at 8 p.m. at the home of Mr. and Mrs. David Allen, of 3 Maybridge Road, Belvedere.

The reception is sponsored by Mr. and Mrs. Wells and Mr. and Mrs. William Horton.

Mariner Will Seek Out Star

PASADENA (UPI) — America's Mariner 7 spacecraft today was ordered to seek out the star Canopus and align itself in the proper position to scan Mars with its television camera.

The maneuver, controlled from jet propulsion laboratory, was expected to be completed today.

The original schedule called for Mariner 7 to "acquired" Canopus shortly after it was launched last Thursday from Cape Kennedy, but scientists decided to delay the maneuver because of three transitory irregularities in the spacecraft's performance.

Prosecutor Faces Court In Detroit

DETROIT (AP) — County Prosecutor William Cahalan was called today to answer a contempt of court charge arising from a shooting exchange in which a policeman died.

The contempt citation was issued by Judge George Crockett, while dealing Sunday with more than 100 persons taken in for questioning in connection with the shooting at a Negro church. The judge freed all but two of them.

Judge Crockett said he acted when Cahalan sought to countermand an order for release of one of the men taken to court. The judge a Negro, said he thought Cahalan's actions had a racial motivation, and that he would leave the hearing on the contempt citation to one of his white colleagues on the Recorder's Court bench.

"I cannot see why he should inject a racial issue," Cahalan commented. "I have never gived him any reason to inject this race issue in this matter."

About 100 policemen picketed police headquarters yesterday protesting the mass release. Signs read, "Crockett Justice? Release Killers. Prosecute Prosecutors. Give Licenses to Kill Policemen."

Carl Parsell, president of the Detroit Police Officers Association, wired Gov. William Milliken, Atty. Gen. Frank Kelley and leaders of the state legislature demanding an investigation.

"The public deserves to know all the facts on whether the judge stepped over his authority, abused his discretion and went beyond the limit of the law or if the judge was correct and only the law needs changing," the telegram said.

The shooting centered around a meeting of a Negro group called the Republic of New Africa which wants to establish a black nation in the southern United States.

Most of those arrested were freed on $100 personal bond, which does not involve posting actual bail. Judge Crockett let eight others go because he said the police had violated their constitutional rights by taking nitrate tests of their hands without first advising them they had the right to legal representation.

Nitrate tests are used to determine whether the subject has fired a gun recently. Police said tests on five of those released were positive.

Agnew Is Kept Busy At Airports

WASHINGTON (AP) — Dashing between widely separated airports in a weekend marked by 16-hour days, Vice President Spiro T. Agnew acted as the nation's top greeter to foreign leaders arriving for the funeral of former President Dwight D. Eisenhower.

The vice president met 15 overseas delegations, including those led by the Shah of Iran and King Baudouin of Belgium.

An associate of the vice president said Agnew waited at Dulles International Airport until 3 a.m. Sunday for the arrival of Prime Minister Zalman Shazar of Israel and others.

FOR SLAYING KING

Wallace Pardon Expected By Ray?

Huie, an Alabaman who bought publication rights to Ray's story of his life, says Ray considers himself a political prisoner and expects to be freed within four years. He pleaded guilty and was sentenced to 99 years.

JUDGE W. P. BATTLE
Death snarls case

Huie said last October, "Powerful men probably made the decision to kill Dr. King." But he has changed his mind.

'LITTLE CONSPIRACY'

"One or two men other than James Earl Ray may have had foreknowledge of this murder, and that makes a little conspiracy," Huie said this week. "But if there was a conspiracy, I now believe that James Earl Ray was probably its leader, not its tool or its dupe."

Look also carries articles by Percy Foreman, of Houston, who was Ray's lawyer when he pleaded guilty, and Arthur J. Hanes, one of Ray's earlier lawyers. Foreman agrees with Huie that Ray was the lone killer, but Hanes dissents.

"I still believe that Ray killed Dr. King because he was direted to do it," Hanes, a former mayor of Birmingham, Ala., wrote. "Despite his plea of guilty in court, I also feel that Ray did not carry out the murder entirely alone."

'THE FIRST SHOT'

Foreman wrote, "I don't believe there was any conspiracy,"

He added, "Ray thinks that the war between the races is imminent, and he wanted to fire the first shot."

Huie agreed with Foreman on that. He said:

"Ray took what he regards as a political action approved by millions of Americans. Ray thinks he fired the first shot in a social or racial conflict, a second civil war, which will eventually result in his being freed."

Judge's Death May Cause Ray Retrial

MEMPHIS, Tenn. (UPI)—The death of the trial judge in the James Earl Ray case could bring the convicted slayer of Dr. Martin Luther King, Jr. a new trial under Tennessee law, an Appeals Court judge said today.

The key apparently was the contents of a letter mailed by Ray to Judge W. Preston Battle, who collapsed in his chambers and died of a heart attack yesterday. Battle, 60, recently had returned from a vacation following the Ray trial three weeks ago.

99-YEAR TERM

Ray pleaded guilty to the April 4, 1968, murder of King in Memphis and received a 99-year prison sentence during a jury trial required by Tennessee law in all criminal cases. Ray said his lawyer, Percy Foreman, advised him to plead guilty to avoid a possible death penalty.

But after Ray began serving his sentence in the state prison at Nashville, he reportedly had second thoughts and considered seeking a new trial. He wrote Battle asking, sources said, for a new trial. Battle's office confirmed receipt of the letter, but did not divulge its contents.

Judge Charles Galbraith of the state Court of Criminal Appeals said in Nashville that Tennessee law provides any motions for a new trial pending before a deceased judge must be granted. The law does not define a motion, or how it must be filed, he said.

BLOW TO CASE

The state supreme court last week had dealt a blow to Ray's hopes for a new trial, ruling in a case "that fits Ray's case like a glove" a defendant cannot get a new trial on grounds he was talked into pleading guilty by his attorney. Ray reportedly contends Foreman pressured him into his guilty plea.

Battle, who had been picked by lot from among five Shelby County Criminal Court judges to preside over the Ray trial, apparently had been dead about two hours when he was found slumped over his office desk. An autopsy was ordered although officials said there was no evidence of foul play.

Oregon's 26 million acres of commercial timber could rebuild every house in the United States.

White Is On Critical List

Col. George H. White, retired chief of the Federal Narcotics Bureau in San Francisco, was reported in critical condition today at Marin General Hospital after a heart attack Sunday.

White, 60, now a fire warden of Stinson Beach, was stricken a few hours after he assisted in the rescue of Ruwe Halsey who fell 75 feet while scaling a sheer cliff a mile or so south of Stinson Beach Sunday.

"He had a heart attack of classic proportions," said Dr. Thomas W. Stone, White's physician. "He had a near call last night but he rallied this morning. His condition is critical."

Officers in the Soviet Union forces spend almost twice as much time in schools as their western counterparts.

Mao In Full Charge At Party Session

HONG KONG (UPI)—The Chinese Communist Park convened its Ninth National Congress today to complete the cultural revolution by ousting President Liu Shao-chi and cementing Mao Tse-tung's grip on a nation embroiled for three years in near civil war.

It was a Mao show all the way. He delayed the congress until he considered he had won the titanic battle for power and Peking radio announced the congress met for the first time today in 10 years although the constitution says it must meet every five.

One of the first acts of the 1,572 delegates today was the unanimous reelection of the 75-year-old Mao as chairman of the central committee and the party. As expected, Defense Minister Lin Piao was elected vice chairman, thus affirming his role as Mao's chosen successor.

Premier Chou En-lai, also a vice chairman of the party until August 1966, was elected as secretary general.

The cultural revolution as proclaimed by Mao was the greatest struggle within a Communist party since the early days of the Bolshevik revolution was just as bloody. There were no official figures but there were informed estimates that tens of thousands—some said a million—died in the Maoist purges.

Peking, Shanghai, Canton, the great cities of China, were torn by street rioting, strikes, open rebellion, massacres and open air executions as the cultural revolution raged from the far reaches of Sinkiang province to the industrial regions of Manchuria.

Woman Swallows Lighter Fluid

A San Francisco woman was treated at Marin General Hospital Sunday after she reportedly drank some lighter fluid thinking it was water while camping on Mount Tamalpais, Corte Madera police reported today.

Mary Garrison, 21, reportedly swallowed "a good amount," her companion, James D. Hurwitz, also of San Francisco, told officers.

Hurwitz was en route to the hospital with Miss Garrison at 8:55 p.m. when his car broke down on Highway 101 and Paradise Drive, police said. He called officers and they took Miss Garrison to the hospital.

First Mainline Rail Installed By BART

HAYWARD (AP) — The first 1,518-foot length of mainline rail for the 75-mile San Francisco Bay Area Rapid Transit System was installed ceremoniously here today.

The continuously welded rail —each length about four city blocks long—will be fastened to concrete ties with a combination steel and rubber cushion, intended to absorb any vibration generated by trains moving 80 miles an hour.

The first 23 miles of the double track system will be constructed between Hayward and Oakland by Dravo Corp. of Pittsburgh, Pa., for $8.7 million.

Half the mileage of the original stretch will be on concrete aerial structure and the rest in subways or on surface lines. There will be a total of 104.6 miles of rail in the initial line, including mileage in the Hayward yard.

BART President Arnold C. Anderson termed it a milestone for the entire field of transit technology. First service is scheduled to begin in 1972 between Hayward and Oakland.

The final mid-bay connecting link of BART's 3.6 mile underwater trans-bay tube linking Oakland and San Francisco is to be lowered into place Thursday. The 57th 10,000-ton steel and concrete section will link up previously constructed portions of the tube which extend outward from both sides of the bay.

Drug Workshop Set For Teachers

A workshop designed to provide teachers with knowledge of drugs and narcotics will be held for Marin County teachers at San Rafael High School sponsored by the Sonoma State College Extension Division.

The workshop will be conducted by Harlan Smetzer, welfare and attendance consultant for the Napa County Schools from 8 a.m. to noon and 1 to 4:30 p.m. April 12 and 19.

Registration for the one unit course will be held at the first meeting. Reservations may be made with Dr. James Nelson, assistant superintendent of San Rafael City Schools.

Americans Fly Aid To Biafra

COTONOU, Dahomey (AP) — Four Americans manned a Red Cross airplane that flew 11 tons of supplies into secessionist Biafra last night.

Americans have been aboard relief flights sponsored by church groups for several months, but this was the first time they had manned a Red Cross plane.

The C97 was piloted by Capt. Ernie Anderson of La Jolla. His crew included Carl Nastoupil of Minneapolis, and Lloyd Anderson and Roy Jewett, both of Van Nuys.

The supplies were delivered without incident.

Hub Trustees Due A Progress Report

San Anselmo School District turstees will hear a progress report by Patrick O'Donnell, director of instruction, on proposed programs and facilities for the district at their 7:30 p.m. meeting today at Red Hill School.

Requests for five and one-half portable classrooms from four schools will be discussed and the board will hear a report on multi-ethnic education by trustee Cornelia B. Busse.

Mission Gift Shop Is Looted

Burglars have broken into the gift shop at St. Raphael's Mission in San Rafael and stolen about $700 in religious articles and $20 in change, it was reported today.

Among the items taken from display cases were Rosary beads, gold and silver medals, Bibles and prayer books. The change was snatched from a register.

Police believed the thieves used a screwdriver to enter through the front door of the gift shop overnight Sunday.

King's Widow Urges War Funds For Ghetto

NEW YORK (UPI)—Mrs. Coretta King has called on "well-meaning Americans," black and white, to force an end to the Vietnam War and use the billions of dollars available to solve the problems of the black ghetto.

A total coordinated approach fueled with the billions diverted from war has the only possibility of creative solutions," Mrs. King told a group of psychiatrists and psychologists yesterday in a wide-ranging speech.

The widow of Dr. Martin Luther King, assassinated almost a year ago, was applauded more than a dozen times by the 1,000 mental health experts gathered for a luncheon meeting of the American Orthopsychiatric Association.

The luncheon had been designated as a memorial to King, slain last April 4, but two moments of silence were observed, one for King and the other for former President Dwight D. Eisenhower.

Calling the Vietnam War a "hideous and disastrous adven-"hodeous and disastrous adventure" Mrs. King urged that billions now spent for war be freed as "the first element of a campaign for new life."

"Well meaning Americans, black and white," she said, "have the task of forcing an end to the war and diverting the billions available not to Pentagon programs, but to life giving opportunities."

Mrs. King also attacked step-at-a-time measures taken to ameliorate deficiencies in housing, health, education and discrimination.

Alto Fire Losses $4,517 Over '68

Fire losses in the Alto-Richardson Bay Fire District increased by $4,517 during 1968 over 1967, Fire Chief Carl O. Heynen Jr. has reported.

In his annual report to the fire district board, Heynen noted that the department also responded to 55 more fire calls last year than in 1967.

Building losses in 1968 were $21,284 while content losses were $4,632, totalling $25,917 as compared to $21,400 for 1967, Heynen said.

The department fought 71 fires last year including 18 in dwellings, 17 in cars, 35 grass and brush fires and one boat fire.

Firemen also responded to 28 false alarms, 23 smoke checks, four mutual aid calls to other cities, 30 salvage and rescue calls and 10 resuscitator and first aid calls, Heynen said.

Mill Valley Fire Losses Reviewed

Fire losses for 1968 in Mill Valley totalled $69,397 of $5.79 per person, half of the national average of $10.62 per person, Asst. Fire Chief Joseph E. Regalia has reported.

In an annual report, Regalia said structural fires caused a loss of $66,695 while automobile and truck fires accounted for $2,702.

The department responded to 130 alarms, 40 of which were structural fires, 50 grass and brush fires, 12 automobile fires, three oven or furnace fires, 13 rubbish fires, three mutual aid calls and nine false alarms.

Bennett Is Making Pitch For Old Job

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI)—William M. Bennett, who has been acting as an unpaid "consumer spokesman" since he left the state Public Utilities Commission, wants back his old job as a deputy attorney general.

Bennett, 51, Kentfield, will appear before the state Personnel Board April 10 in an effort to regain the civil service post.

Atty. Gen. Thomas Lynch, who defeated Bennett handily in the 1966 Democratic primary, contends Bennett gave up his civil service status during his six years on the PUC.

During his stint as a commissioner, Bennett's chief targets were major utilities—Pacific Gas & Electric Co. and Pacific Telephone Co. in particular. He accused them of charging excessive rates to consumers.

Bennett went to Washington last week to ask the U.S. Supreme Court for permission to appear before it as a private citizen opposed to current plans for sale of El Paso Natural Gas Co.'s northwest pipe operations.

Bennett was appointed to the PUC by Gov. Edmund Brown after serving as chief counsel for the commission in his post as deputy attorney general. He won a court judgment requiring El Paso to return $155 million in overcharges to its customers. His six-year term on the PUC expired last Dec. 31.

Pay Phone Looted

A coin box containing approximately $20 in change was pried off the public telephone at the service station on Hamilton Air Force Base sometime between 5:25 and 6:30 a.m. yesterday, according to base security police.

Clues Sought On Abortion Ring In East

HARTFORD, Conn. (UPI)—"We'd like to know about women who were recently pregnant and have no babies to show for it."

State Police Maj. Samuel Rome made the remark yesterday in an appeal for public assistance to help break up an "abortion ring" in northern Connecticut which apparently operates by killing new-born babes.

Rome said the bodies of four infants have been found in the past four months. Two had apparently been smothered by paper stuffed in their mouths.

He said authorities believe the ring advises mothers seeking abortions to wait until the child is born, at which time they will place it with adopted parents.

Instead Rome said, the abortionists allow the infants to die after they are taken from their mothers.

Probe Promised After Police Shot Kills Boy

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI)—Police Chief Thomas Cahill has promised a full investigation into the shooting death of an unarmed teen-ager after a high-speed chase through the Bayview district.

Alvert Joe Linthcome, 19, was shot Sunday night by Patrolman Gerald Roberts, who was pursuing the black youth as a possible suspect in the robbery and murder of a grocery store owner. The victim's 15-year-old sister said she begged Roberts to spare her brother's life.

Officers said yesterday, however, that Linthcome and his companion, Michael L. Shambray, 20, definitely were not involved in the grocery slaying.

The two youths were first seen by officers Roberts and William Faust in a 1964 automobile with no lights. When they signalled the car to stop, Shambray, the driver, sped ahead, beginning a 31-block chase, which ended when the vehicle crashed into a light pole.

Linthcome ducked into a record store near his home where he and his sister, Lois, often spent their time listening and dancing.

"We were there most of the night," Lois said yesterday. "And then Alvert said he was going somewhere and would be back in about 20 minutes. He told me to wait and we'd go home together."

Twenty minutes later, the girl heard a crash outside.

"I saw Alvert get out of the car, and I saw the police car coming. So I opened the door for him and he ran in.

"Alvert ran up to the counter with his hands up and I got scared. I just ran outside to the police car and kept saying—'Oh please don't shoot him, please don't kill him!'

"The policeman already had his gun out and somebody yelled for me to get out of the way. I fell down and kept begging and I heard a shot." The boy was dead on arrival at emergency hospital with a bullet in the chest.

Officer Roberts said Linthcome ran into the store and whirled around. The officer said he thought the boy had a gun, so he fired.

Police said the car the youths were riding in had been stolen earlier Sunday from a bowling alley in nearby Colma.

An angry crowd gathered at the scene, but dispersed about two hours later. There was no violence.

More Black Teachers Called For

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI)—More black teachers—not Negro teachers or colored teachers—are needed for both black and white students in America's schools, according to a white teacher at an experimental college in Chicago.

Judith Stein, instructor of English at the Urban Educational Center of Chicago City College, told the National Council of Teachers of English yesterday that her call for more black teachers did not mean she was inferring "all black teachers for all black students."

"It would be great if the black man came out and did some 'missionary work' in white schools," Miss Stein told some 450 fellow educators attending the council's three-day conference.

The speaker herself has spent about six and one-half years teaching black students — four of those at an all black high school.

Miss Stein said she experienced a "cultural shock" when she first began instructing at Du Sable High School, but added that a stronger adjustment has to be made by black teachers working in white schools.

The problem, according to Miss Stein, is not with individual teachers but with the whole white educational system.

San Francisco Police Deny Undue Roughness In Arrest

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI) — A 527-page police report into the use of mace on the daughter of a prominent black family has concluded that no unnecessary force was used.

Patrolman James Aligo, a member of the police department's elite tactical squad at the time, described circumstances of the Feb. 7 arrests of Mrs. Hazel Fuller, 50, and her two daughters, Winifred, 26, and Wayzel, 23.

It was Wayzel who was sprayed on the chest with Mace in a police wagon during a routine traffic investigation involving an automobile which struck the Fullers' car.

The report said Wayzel defied police orders to quit taking pictures. It accused her of "physical violence and mob-baiting."

The Fullers asserted that excessive police force was used and that they were treated with discourtesy during their booking at city prison.

The three investigating captains who compiled the five-pound report conceded that the use of Mace was "questionable" and asked that the department publish "specific written instructions" on when the chemically disabling spray may be used.

But it concluded that "it was the unanimous opinion of all witnesses interviewed that at no time did the officers use any more force than was necessary under the circumstances."

Aligo and Patrolman William Hardeman said the three women had resisted arrest, kicked and screamed while being placed in the police wagon.

Police Chief Thomas Cahill had objected to release of the report. He transferred Aligo off the tactical squad after the incident, explaining that he thought the use of Mace during the incident showed bad judgment.

The San Francisco branch of the NAACP yesterday condemned the three-captain investigating team, and termed the report a "whitewash."

Vote Awaited By Probe Panel

WASHINGTON (AP) — The old House Committee on Un-American Activities operating under a new name, awaited its annual vote of confidence from the House today with little doubt about the outcome.

Renamed the Internal Security Committee last month, the panel expected no trouble getting $400,000 of the $425,000 requested to finance its activities this year. The $25,000 cut was imposed by the House Administration Committee. Last year the committee had a $375,000 budget.

Not since it was created in 1934 has the committee had difficulty getting all or most of the money it requested, despite sporadic opposition from members who accused it of dictatorial procedures and advocated its abolition.

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI)—A gunman held up the cashier at the Sheraton-Palace Hotel in downtown San Francisco Monday and escaped with an estimated $1,000.

The man, described as young and wearing a suit, brandished a gun in the bold holdup of the cashier's desk in the ornate lobby of the historic hotel.

Los Angeles Bank Bandit Nabbed After 16th Holdup

LOS ANGELES (UPI)—For six years, the police robbery detail hunted the notorious "G.M. bandit," described by one detectives as the "biggest bank bandit to hit Los Angeles."

The nickname was based on the modus operandi used in 16 bank robberies since Oct. 3, 1963. In each holdup, the robber first stole a General Motors car which he used in his escape. The vehicle was then abandoned near the bank.

The search ended yesterday when Kerry K. Platt, 56, a grocery salesman, walked out of the Security Pacific Bank branch in suburban Reseda and promptly was arrested by waiting police officers.

A shakedown revealed Platt was carrying (1) a top pistol (2) a brown paper bag containing $896 and 3) a set of master keys to G.M. cars.

Police said Platt admitted robbing the 16 banks and said he used the estimated $25,000 total to play the horses.

"He is a fantastic salesman and never has had any trouble getting a job. He is well liked. Everybody thinks he is a great guy."

But she said that gambling was the "curse" of the family. "It started with cards and then went to horses," she said, adding "It's been a hell of a life."

Hours For Park Use On Agenda

Larkspur City councilmen will introduce an ordinance at their 8 p.m. meeting tomorrow to limit park use to daylight hours and permit persons aged 12 and under only on play equipment.

Councilmen will consider adding regulations regarding the legality of living on boats and arks. At present boat and ark dwellers are required to have utility hookups and occupancy permits.

Bids are to be awarded on the widening of Magnolia Avenue from Bon Air Road to Murray Avenue and on the Oak Road widening project. Councilmen will also elect a new mayor and vice mayor, City Mrg. Kent B. Bathurst reported.

FINANCIAL CRISIS

Center Restores The Handicapped

By JERRY MEGAHAN

The Marin Community Workshop, which provides employment and training for 35 handicapped persons, is facing a financial crisis.

The workshop has $3,300 in bills which fall due on April 1 and only $1,200 on hand to pay the bills. Owed will be $1,535 to the handicapped employees, $1,100 to the five-man workshop staff and $665 for rent, utilities and telephones.

The workshop, at 70K Woodland Avenue, San Rafael, is the only facility of its kind in Marin County offering the physically and mentally handicapped a chance to gain or regain a place as wage-earning, useful citizens, its operators say.

"Facilities like this are hard to come by," said Betty L. Presley, director of the county Public Social Services Department. "They deserve support."

Perhaps the best spokesmen on the usefulness of the workshop program are the handicapped people who work there.

Fred Zimbeck of Mill Valley fell from a roof nearly 11 years ago and has been confined to a wheelchair since.

"This is the first job I've had in 11 years," said Zimbeck, who now does decorative trim on glass candleholders for a company called Gregg Arts. "I felt like a vegetable just sitting around. Now I feel like I'm accomplishing something. It's given me a reason to live."

Bonnie Williams, a shy redhead from Novato, wouldn't talk to anyone when she came to the workshop a year ago.

"I was scared when I first came here," Bonnie said. "But I'm not afraid anymore. This is a good place."

Now Bonnie puts labels on boxes for Kransco of South San Franciso, which manufactures water lounges and games such as water basketball and Texas Toss. In November and December, she worked at the Handcrafts From Europe store in Sausalito. They liked her work and they are talking about future employment for her.

"I just stayed around the house after I got out of school four years ago," said Dorothy Morris, of Corte Madera. Dorothy, who has a cleft palate, now works in the box labeling department, supervising the other workers and keeping a tally on piece work. "I like working," she said, "and this is a good place to do it."

The beauty of the Marin Community Workshop is that it pays 80 per cent of its own expenses, said Mrs. Lorraine Barry, the workshop's rehabilitation coordinator. It's the other 20 per cent that's the problem.

The workshop employees do work such as assembling plumbing clasps for Kopty of Mill Valley, putting latches and drilling holes on binocular cases for Nicrometal Marine Hardware, making decorative package wrappings for Handicrafts From Europe; stuffing, trimming and packaging beanbags and many other forms of labor.

Companies who currently have some sort of work done by the workshop include Fun and Fancy, and E. D. Bullard. Kransco used to have to send its boxes to Los Angeles to be labeled, said Mrs. Barry.

However, the workshop also serves as a rehabiliation center for persons suffering disabilities such as mental retardation, cerebral palsy, epilepsy, brain injury, blindness and emotional disorders and that means that it will probably never be a profit-making operation.

"I'd like to make it clear to the public that the workshop's financial difficulties are not the result of mismanagement or malfeasance on the part of the staff or anyone else," said Thomas Rush, a member of the workshop's board of directors. "The workshop is suffering from growing pains. If the workshop is to continue providing the services it has, it needs some instant money."

In addition to providing jobs and a feeling of self-respect for the handicapped, the workshop supplies industry with a potential and actual work force for low-dollar production and maintains people who might otherwise be a tax burden to the county and the state.

This week (Easter Week), the workshop is operating with a skeleton crew and may have to cut back at least temporarily after that if it doesn't get immediate financial help from citizens and organizations.

Sausalito's Five School Candidates Take An Exam

By ALAN JONES

Sausalito School District board candidates took a five-part written examination last night before an audience of 120, but they won't get their grades until April 15 when voters choose three of them for four-year terms.

Candidates for the three seats are incumbents David E. Freedheim and Nathaniel Johnson, and Mrs. Martha B. Thomson, Charles Gerald Clear and Ken Elkington. Incumbent Bruce E. Woelfel is not running for re-election.

They were unanimous in answering one of the five advance questions asked by the Sausalito Citizens Council, which sponsored the meeting at Central School — they all promised to try to get $43,000 from Marin County again this year for district support.

But they split on nearly everything else, even on interpretation of statistics on pupil testing and attendance.

Tests show Sausalito pupils slightly above national averages on reading, Clear said. But Elkington cited the same tests and said they showed that one class in a two-year span dropped from 46 per cent to 56 per cent who read below their grade level.

Questioned about the difference, Clear explained that he was looking at median scores while Elkington referrred to the lower extremes of the results.

Asked about the district guidance center, Elington cited a 1968 report by Assistant Supt. Joseph Amato calling the guidance program a failure, while Clear and the two incumbent candidates defended the center.

The center is "avery effective way of dealing with discipline," Johnson said. Freedheim called the center "very valuable" but admitted mistakes were made in the center's operation last year.

Since them, the center program has been altered to include tutoring and handling of learning problems as well as discipline. Elkington said the center now is more efficient and "I don't see a substitute program" for it.

Clear said Amato's report assumed the guidance program failed because more pupils were referred to the center in its second year of operation. That is "a sloppy assumption," Clear said. He contended the program is working well.

Only one candidate, Mrs. Thomson, came out flatly against last year's controversial student field trip to Black Panther headquarters. Trips "to places with ideologies completely foreign to the homes the children come form . . . should not be taken," she said.

Elkington stopped short of that. "Good judgment" must be used in planning such trips he said, and he questioned whether pupils in lower grades should take such trips. "There is time enough later on to expose them" to political extremism, he said.

Johnson said the schools should not be afraid to study extremes, not for indoctrination but to show pupils where the faults of extremism lie.

Clear said he believes in "a maximum amount of knowledge," but said parents have the right to censor or veto field trips for their children. "But this board has seen to that," he said. The board last month directed that parents permission be obtained each time a child is scheduled for a field trip.

Elkington again advocated merging with the Mill Valley School District, citing the increasing percentage of black students in the Sausalito district, but he said such a move will be some time away. By then, he said, Sausalito may also have new facilities and a bond debt comparable to Mill Valley's so the merger would not mean taking on one-sided debt burden.

Candidates agains talked about the district decline in student population, but came no nearer agreement on the causes. Freeheim said all Southern Marin districts have lost enrollment in recent years, while Northern Marin districts are growing. This is due to land costs which drive families out, he said. He conceded some people have taken their children out of the district because they don't like the schools or because they don't like the desegregated program.

Clear agreed, but Elkington said little effort has been made to learn why people were leaving the district. The important question, Elkington said, is how to make the schools attractive to families. A new school facility would help reverse the enrollment trend, he said.

One question from the audience asked about rumored support in Marin City for an all-black school there, but candidates scotched the notion. "I don't think there would be any Marin City parents here if there was any move for an all-black school," Johnson said. Freedheim said there has been no board discussion of any such plan or request.

"It's news to me," a black woman in the audience said of the rumor.

Fair-Marin Session Set On Planning

The Fair-Marin board announced last night that its master plan committee, headed by E. T. Ryken, will meet 8 p.m. next Monday in Room 400 of the Civic Center to discuss future plans for the fairgrounds and auditorium area.

President Harold Stockstad said the Fair-Marin directors will attend the committee meeting.

Directors last night agreed that its 1969-70 budget request will be $93,450. They will meet tomorrow with the county administrator to discuss the budget. Asst. County Administrator Thomas F. Campanella has estimated the budget would be about $75,000.

Stockstad said applications for manager of Fair-Marin closed yesterday, and the hiring will follow civil service routine.

Collision Hurts Motorcyclist

A 26-year-old motorcyclist suffered facial cuts and a fractured right arm last night when his machine sped around a curve and rammed an auto in San Rafael, police said.

The victim, Charles H. Holland, who gave his address as 147 Bungalow Avenue, San Rafael, was treated at Marin General Hospital. (There is a Bungalow Avenue in San Rafael, but no street, and no No. 147 listed on the Avenue.)

The accident happened shortly before 10 p.m. in front of 257 Woodland Avenue, north of Seibel Street. Police quoted Holland as saying he was exceeding the 25 mile-per-hour speed limit when his motorcycle crashed into a car driven by Arturo L. Martinez, 26, who was turning into his driveway at 258 Woodland Avenue.

Extension Of Miller Avenue Hits A Snag

Miller Avenue extension across marshland to provide a straighter access to Shoreline Highway is unfeasible at this time because of high cost and uncertainty in state plans, Public Works Director Donald R. Frost declared this morning.

He told the Marin County Board of Supervisors the cost of the extension would be $800,000 to $1 million, much higher than originally estimated.

He said the other uncertainties, such as the state's plan for future realignment of Shoreline, makes it unwise to put in a large investment on Miller Avenue extension at this time.

Frost recommended interim provements by made at Dolan's Corner, such as an installation of signals.

Supervisors agreed that this would be the only feasible approach. Supervisor Michael Wornum of Mill Valley insisted, however, that money be accumulated for eventual work on the Miller Avenue extension.

The county supervisors also agreed that a five-acre parcel of land owned by the Marin Municipal Water District just east of Greenbrae interchange, near Hutchinson's Quarry, would make a good county corporation year. They instructed Frost to negotiate for the land. If the site is purchased, the existing corporation yards in Greenbrae and Mill Valley would be closed, said Frost.

Frost also reported that about $160,000 in Federal Aid Secondary System funds earmarked for Sir Francis Drake Boulevard widening, cannot be used immediately and should be reallocated elsewhere. He suggested that the money be used to realign Petaluma-Point Reyes Road just west of Lake Nicasio.

"Why move it from Sir Francis Drake to the boondocks?" asked Supervisor Louis H. Baar. He said the money should be used on Sir Francis Drake where the traffic is heaviest, not on a lightly traveled road.

Chairman John F. McInnis asked Frost to come back in two weeks with a report on how best the money can be used somewhere else on Drake, such as the area from White's Hill to Olema.

Car, Motorcycle Reported Stolen

Thefts of a 1964 Chevrolet convertible and a 1968 Honda motorcycle were reported to San Anselmo police yesterday.

Ronald A. Asleson of 1208 Sir Francis Drake Boulevard, Apt. 10, reported at 8:15 p.m. that someone had stolen his convertible while locked and parked at 21 Forest Avenue.

Henrik I. Olsgard of 53 Woodland Avenue told police at 8 a.m., yesterday, that his motorcycle was removed from his carport.

Proposed Zoning To Be Discussed

The Sausalito City Council will hold a hearing on proposed zoning amendments for the central waterfront when it meets at 8 p.m. today in city hall.

The planning commission last week recommended approval of the amendments, which were drawn by planning consultant William E. Spangle Jr. and Associates as interim zoning until adoption of the central waterfront plan and final zoning that goes with it.

The council also will discuss a proposed animal control ordinance and hear a report on a proposed bicycle trail route through Sausalito.

Tentative Site For Novato Fair

A site at Redwood Boulevard and Peter Court in the Scottsdale Development was tentatively selected last night for Novato's Western Weekend Country Fair June 12-15.

The location, picked by the fair's board of directors, must be approved by the city council.

In other fair developments directors decided on rules for the beard contest and entries were asked for Western Weekend queen.

Winner will be named at 8 p.m. June 12 in the community house. A fair queen and two princesses also will be named that night.

Queen entry blanks are available from Mrs. Lloyd A. Loftus at 1848 Indian Valley Road and Mrs. James Prince at 5 Equestrian Court. Applicants must be Novato area residents, between 14 and 18, and never have married or modeled professionally. Candidates will be judged on attractiveness and riding ability.

Fire Alarm Error Clears Civic Center

A fire alarm at 10:30 a.m. today at the Civic Center sent county employees streaming out of the building, but they were immediately called back because the alarm was tripped accidentally.

Asst. Administrator John F. Barrows said one of the workmen in the new Hall of Justice had apparently hit the wrong wire, setting off the alarm.

Get Away From It All!
If you're the type who doesn't mind driving a few extra minutes to get away from the crowds, cars and smog, one of these two homes could be the answer:

The first features 2 bedrooms, a Swedish fireplace, split bathroom, on a ½ acre wooded lot. $19,950.

The second is also 2 bedrooms, knotty pine living room with Cathedral beamed ceilings, and brick Heatilator fireplace, on a rustic ½ acre — the last time we showed this, 3 deer were walking thru the back of the property. $24,950.

HOW TO KEEP WELL

By DR. THEODORE R. VAN DELLEN

VAN DELLEN

Glaucoma, a common cause of blindness, is suspected whenever vision becomes blurred, or discomfort is noted in or about the eyes. Excessive tearing, dissatisfaction with glasses, mild headaches, slow focusing, especially in dim light, ocular pain, and seeing colored halos around lamps warrant a thorough examination.

In glaucoma, tension within the eyeball increases. This structure contains fluid that keeps the orb from collapsing. The substance enters through openings in one part of the eye and escapes through a series of drains in another part.

Glaucoma develops when the outflow is blocked and the excess fluid overdistends the visual compartment. The resultant pressure damages the delicate nerves of the retina, and unless recognized and treated early, blindness ensues.

Physical strain, overindulgence in coffee or tea, certain eyedrops, and tightfitting clothing such as collars, girdles, or belts makes glaucoma worse.

DARKNESS ALSO influences tension because a dilated pupil affects the area where fluid escapes from the eye. The sufferer is advised also to avoid excitement, anger, worry, and fear. Emotions affect the flow of aqueous humor and increase tension in much the same way as blood pressure rises with a psychic upset.

Once the diagnosis is made, it is advisable to visit an ophthalmologist at regular intervals. These visits continue for the rest of the person's life.

The disease is tricky and the penalty for neglect is loss of sight. When the disorder is detected in its early stages, satisfactory treatment keeps it in tow.

(Questions on medical topics will be answered by mail if stamped, self-addressed envelope accompanies request to the I-J.)

ONE SEX TO A FAMILY

REPLY

There is no explanation except chance. Most marriages result in a mixture of the sexes; some are predominantly one sex and occasionally all the offspring are either boys or girls. A large family of only one sex is so unusual it is brought to our attention. When the mother of 10 boys becomes pregnant again her chances of having a girl remain 50-50.

SENSE OF DIRECTION

L. B. writes: What causes a person to lose his sense of direction? Recently, while driving on a road I have used hundreds of times, it seems I'm going west when actually I'm going east.

REPLY

Changes in circulation in the blood vessels of the brain may cause this condition, especially in older persons. A thorough examination is in order.

YELLOW STREAKS AND KIDNEYS

H. R. writes: A friend of mine says every time her kidneys bother her, a yellow streak appears in her white hair. Can this really happen?

REPLY

Sounds fishy to me. Two-tone dye jobs are common but they have nothing to do with the kidneys.

COLOR-BLIND CHILD

T. T. writes: Is it true that a color-blind child is afraid of flashing red lights?

REPLY

Not to my knowledge. This child may be nervous for other reasons; perhaps he was born in a squad car. Send a stamped, self-addressed envelope for our leaflet on color vision.

STRIAE AT 12

W. D. writes: What would casue stretch marks on the body of a 12-year-old girl? I thought these only followed pregnancy.

REPLY

Striae (stretch marks) are caused by weight loss, redistribution of tissue as a result of growth, and glandular disorders. In women, pregnancy is the most common cause.

BLEEDING AND ANEMIA

R. S. T. writes: Can a heavy menstrual flow lead to anemia?

REPLY

Yes, an iron deficiency anemia. Send stamped, self-addressed envelope for our leaflet which explains the various forms of anemia.

TELEVISION REVIEW

Mental Indecency And All That Stuff

By RICK DU BROW

HOLLYWOOD (UPI)—As you may have heard, some public officials are concerned about decency on television.

Well, I guess we all are, in one way or another. It just depends on what area of decency you specialize in.

To me, for instance, it is grossly immoral when a cigarette firm tries to romanticize smoking for youngsters.

And, basically, video is still so relatively naive compared to the rest of society that it's not too likely many persons will be corrupted by its suggestiveness.

What may do far more harm, however, is much of the simplemindedness that some television series use to promote what is allegedly an admirable way of life.

This is what I would call mental indecency, and I think it is much more of a threat than the obvious stuff.

I don't mean programs that are frankly farcical or played strictly for comedy. But series like the old Patty Duke Show always struck me as somehow mentally indecent because of their insipid non-values that were supposed to be attractive.

In the end, it's pretty much like the old song say: It's not what you do, It's the way that you do it. Style, in short, indicates a sort of maturity that will let you get away with almost anything gracefully.

I am thinking now about a televised W.C. Fields movie, and of a very specific scene. It is the morning after a hard night's drinking. Fields is in a ship's cabin, half alive following his bout with the bottle. A friend comes in, and the dialogue is as follows:

Friend: "How do you feel?"

Fields: "Like a June bride."

Friend: "How does a June bride feel?"

Fields: "I wonder . . . I wonder . . . "

Well, you see, if the same dialogue were delivered in a burlesque house by a couple of rough comics, it would have a pretty raunchy flavor. But as played by the incomparable Fields, it is delicious.

If I were investigating television, I don't think I would relish getting into the semantical problems connected with what is proper, and what is not.

Fined Students Defy Stanford

The cards were handed to the students as they tried to register for spring semester. The cards noted the collegians owed the university money and could not register until it was paid.

The students were among 29 fined amounts ranging from $50 to $300 by the Stanford Judicial Council for disrupting a meeting of the board of trustees on Jan. 14.

Many of the fined students were members of the Students for a Democratic Society. They were joined in their attempt to register by about 30 other SDS followers.

Flood Readiness Reveals Old Dam

SAN FRANCISCO (AP)—Record snow in the Sierra is indirectly responsible for the reappearance of a dam that vanished more than half a century ago.

Pacific Gas & Electric Co. said today that Spaulding Lake's first dam, constructed on the South Yuba River in 1892, became visible again when water storage was reduced to 5,000 acre feet.

A higher dam that inundated the original structure was built in 1912. The old dam was constructed of rock fill to supply water through wooden flumes to gold mines in the South Yuba River region.

PG&E also is lowering the level of many of its other 140 mountain lakes to prepare for the melting of one of the heaviest snowpacks in Sierra history.

Moss Seeking Report On Head Start Plans

By ROBERT S. ALLEN and JOHN A. GOLDSMITH

WASHINGTON — Rep. John Moss, D-Calif., chairman of the House Freedom of Information Committee, is cracking down on the Office of Economic Opportunity to force release of a critical report it is trying to suppress.

OEO has been ordered by Moss to submit the report to Rep. Edith Green, D-Ore., head of the higher education subcommittee, and Rep. Albert Quie, R-Minn., who have been vainly asking for it for weeks.

The suppressed report reputedly asserts that the widely acclaimed Head Start program has little or no lasting effect on the educational development of disadvantaged children. It concludes that benefits resulting from Operation Head Start fade rapidly after the child enters the first grade.

The report is the work of the Westinghouse Learning Corp., a subsidiary of Westinghouse Electric Co. WLC was given a $548,000 contract by OEO to make a study of Head Start. Its findings were submitted to OEO last month, but so far the agency has refused to divulge them.

Existence of the suppressed study was revealed early this month by Daniel Moynihan, special White House assistant on urban affairs, at a meeting with members of the House Education and Labor Committee. He was briefing them on the administration's plans for shifting the Head Start program from OEO to the Department of Health, Education and Welfare.

Moynihan mentioned that one reason for this decision was the adverse findings of the Westinghouse Learning Corp. report on the long-range effectiveness of Head Start.

Committeemen thereupon sought copies of the study, but OEO refused to produce it.

Negro Playwright In Court Again

NEWARK, N.J. (UPI)—Negro poet-playwright Leroi Jones faced a court hearing today on charges arising from the discovery of allegedly stolen office equipment in the basement of his "underground" theater.

Jones, 34, allegedly had a $1,995 duplicating machine in the basement of the Spirit House Theater, headquarters of his community action group,, the United Brothers.

Jones surrendered two weeks ago after police charged they found the stolen device during a search of the theater. He was released without bail pending a municipal court hearing.

Three Enter Contest For Dairy Princess

Three Sonoma County high school girls have been the first to enter the 1969 District 3 dairy princess contest, according to Henry Tomasini of Petaluma, general chairman.

The entrants include Sandy Fountain of Santa Rosa; Barbara Gallagher of Fallon, and Julie Armanino of Healdsburg.

District 3 includes Marin, Sonoma, Lake, Mendocino, Napa and Solano counties. The first 12 applying and approved by the California Dairy Council will compete for the crown at the seventh annual Dairy Princess Ball May 10 at the Petaluma Veterans Memorial Building.

Candidates must be between the ages of 17 and 25, unmarried and a high school graduate by June. They must be or have been connected with the dairy industry. Applications may be obtained at the Petaluma Chamber of Commerce, 10 Petaluma Boulevard South, from dairy farmers or the dairy association headquarters in Modesto.

Each princess candidate will receive gifts of silver with the winner eligible to compete for the state title in June.

Pueblo Report Nearly Ready

CORONADO (UPI) — The findings, opinions and recommendations of a court of inquiry into the seizure of the USS Pueblo by North Korea starts through the Navy chain of command next week.

The five admirals who heard eight weeks of testimony could recommend anything from a medal to a court-martial for Cdmr. Lloyd M. Bucher and the other 81 surviving crewmen.

"The court has completed the first phase--the findings of fact," a Navy spokesman said yesterday. "The admirals arrived at 550 such findings written on 123 legal-sized pages."

The court still must complete its opinions and recommendations before the report is sent to Adm. John Hyland, commander in chief of Pacific Forces, who convened the inquiry.

Economics Course Will Be Offered

A tuition-free, 10-week seminar on "Fundamental Economics" will be held at four different schools in Marin County during the spring semester.

The seminar, sponsored by the Henry George School of Social Science, will begin Monday at the Marinwood Community Center; April 8 at Martin Luther King School; April 9 at Tamalpais High School and the College of Marin's College Center. All classes are at 8 p.m., said Dr. William J. Filante of Kentfield, president of Northern California Extension of the Henry George School.

Simpson In Minor League Football?

INDIANAPOLIS (AP) — Will O. J. Simpson play minor league football rather than sign for what the Buffalo Bills of the American Football League are offering him?

WIFE AND CHILD

"O. J. told me that if he were a bachelor coming out of the University of Southern California, he might take less than he thinks he's worth. But he's got a wife and child now."

Buffalo has offered Simpson a five-year contract for $50,000 a year, Barnes said yesterday at a news conference.

The Indianapolis Capitols of the Continental Football League have offered him a one-year contract for $150,000, plus a $250,000 loan for investment purposes.

CHANCES GOOD

But Barnes, president of Sports Headliners, Inc., requested and was granted an extension to April 15 on the deodline set by the Capitols for a "yes or no" decision on their offer.

Al Savill, president of the Capitols, said Barnes wanted another opportunity to get together with Bills' owner Ralph C. Wilson Jr. to negotiate at length. Savill's original deadline had been today.

BURNED UP

Wilson was quoted as saying last week that O. J. should take the Indianapolis offer because he (Wilson) wouldn't match it.

"O. J. is plenty burned up about this," David Lockton, vice president of Sports Headliners, said yesterday. "Of course, he'd rather not play in the Continental League. But if Buffalo won't make a satisfactory offer or at least trade him to another team, he will.

"Wouldn't it be a shame if O. J. Simpson had to play in the minor leagues to get the kind of money he's worth."

CITIES WILL SHARE CAROLINA COUGARS

RALEIGH, N.C. (AP) — The American Basketball Association team being brought to North Carolina next season will split its home games among Greensboro, Charlotte and Raleigh in a unique experiment, it was announced today.

"This is a first for professional basketball and we're excited about the psosibilities," said the new team's president, Jim Gardener of Rocky Mount, in announcing the plans at a news conference.

The team, being moved from Houston, Tex., will be renamed the Carolina Cougars.

Warriors' Mullins Comes Out Lame

OAKLAND (UPI) — Hopes of San Francisco to beat the Los Angeles Lakers in their NBA Western Division playoffs may hinge on the injured knee of Warrior guard Jeff Mullins.

Mullins banged the knee in a collision with Bill Hewitt of the Lakers shortly after the opening whistle in last night's 115-98 Los Angeles victory before a disappointed capacity crowd of 13,221 at the Coliseum-Arena. It was the Lakers' first win after two San Francisco victories in the best-of-seven series which resumes tomorrow night at the San Francisco Cow Palace.

BUMPED KNEES

Hewitt and Mullins bumped knees and Mullins hobbled off the court. He came back to score seven points before a doctor diagnosed internal bleeding on the knee and ordered him sidelined.

"I just couldn't do anything on the knee," said Mullins. "It just swelled up on me. Everything will depend, I guess, on how well the knee responds to treatment in the next 48 hours."

One of the offensive sparks of the Warriors in the second half of the season and in the first two San Francisco wins in the playoffs, Mullins' status for the next game is questionable.

TROUBLES

Warrior coach George Lee bemoaned the loss of his star guard. "We never had the guy that could really get us going with Jeff missing from the lineup," he said.

"The loss takes the pressure off of us," added Lee. "We still think we're going to win. But now we know we can't sweep it."

Los Angeles outscored the Warriors 41-25 in a big third period to overcome a two-point San Francisco lead at halftime. Jerry West and Johnny Egan, starting his first game of the series, sparked the Laker comeback. West tallied 13 of his game-high of 25 points and Egan bucketed 10 of his 18 in the third period.

28 FOR WILT

In the battle of the big centers, Wilt Chamberlain of Los Angeles and Nate Thurmond each scored 22 points but the 7-1 Chamberlain snagged 28 rebounds to 20 for Thurmond. For the first time in the series, the Lakers outrebounded the Warriors 68 to 58. Regarding criticism that he does not drive enough for the basket, Chamberlain said he is going to continue to play "the same way I did all season."

"If I have to go to the basket, that's what I'll do," he said. "We beat these guys four out of seven on the season and I was scoring only 8 or 9 points a game."

Chamberlam praised the play of Hewitt, former Southern California star. "He's doing a tremendous job for a rookie and he hit some big baskets for us from the outside," said Chamberlain of Hewitt who finished with 20 points.

Leading 56-53, the Lakers broke open the game with a 17-4 scoring binge within four minutes of the third period to grab a comfortable 73-57 lead. The closest the Warriors got after that was 92-83 with 8:19 remaining.

LEW'S DECISION

Alcindor Putting All Chips In NBA

For the first five years of his professional career it could cost him just under $2 million.

The 21-year-old, three-time All-American UCLA center turned down a $3.25-million five-year contract offer from the American Basketball Association to negotiate with the NBA which has offered him just more than a million dollars for a similar period.

OBLIGATION

"Lew decided to fulfill his moral obligation given in New York to the Milwaukee club," was the only comment yesterday of his adviser, Sam Gilbert.

Gilbert, a Los Angeles contractor, said Alcindor would begin private negotiations with the NBA and the Milwaukee Bucks by tomorrow.

Gilbert said the decision to rule out the ABA offer was made yesterday after Alcindor received a telegram from ABA Commissioner George Mikan. The telegram, Gilbert said, outlined an offer made by the ABA last week.

DETAILS

Mikan detailed the ABA plum last Saturday as he waved a million dollars cashier's check in the air at a news conference.

He said the offer including the million dollars, a $500,000 bonus, five per cent of the stock in the New York Nets, an annuity payment of $65,200 for 20 years beginning at the age 41, and 10 per cent of the ABA national television contracts totaling at least $500,000.

Although details of the NBA offer never have been made public, it is reported to be about $1.4 million.

BY TOMORROW

Officials of the Bucks were reported to be on the way to Los Angeles. A spokesman said the club hopes to sign Alcindor by tomorrow.

Texan Donnie Anderson was given a $600,000 to $700,000 contract with the Green Bay Packers of the National Football League in the top pact to date.

Giants Tie Cleveland In 8 Innings

AMARILLO, Tex. (UPI)—Pitching coach Larry Jansen of the San Francisco Giants has a few pointers to offer pitchers Bobby Bolin and Mike McCormick.

He wants Bolin to work a little faster on the mound to avoid runners from stealing on him. Bolin allowed three stolen bases at Albuquerque, N.M., yesterday as the Giants and Cleveland Indians played to a 5-5 tie in a game called after eight innings due to darkness.

SIX THEFTS

In his last two starts, Bolin has allowed six thefts. Runners get a big lead during his long, slow stretch and delivery.

McCormick relieved Bolin in the seventh with the Giants ahead 5-4 and threw one a little high to rookie outfielder Rich Scheinblum who powdered it over the left field fence. Jansen is suggesting that McCormick keep his pitches a bit lower.

Catcher Dick Dietz and first baseman Willie McCovey whacked two-run homers for the Giants who play the Indians today at Amarillo. Dietz and McCovey have each hit three homers so far this spring.

Analy Wallops San Marin Nine

San Marin High School's baseball team battled in the consolation bracket of the Healdsburg Invitational Tournament this afternoon after catching a knockout blow from Analy High School of Sebastopol yesterday.

The Mustangs, now 7-3 on the season, were bombed by Analy, 11-2, in yesterday's semifinals.

Pitchers Steve Francis and Wade Gomes were raked for 13 hits while the Novato nine got only five hits and committed seven errors. Chuck Jacobsen got three of the five hits.

King Better Be Ready For King-Sized Rent

PHOENIX LEFTOVERS — Clyde King, the scholarly new pilot for the San Francisco Giants, still has no residence in the Bay Area and has been taken aback at some of the rentals he's been offered.

His predecessor, Herman Franks, offered a helping hand the other day. "I can get you a great deal on this place I had," the wealthy Herman said. "The guy (landlord) likes ball players and he'll cut the price from $1,000 to $800 a month."

Replied the incredulous Clyde, "Holy Cow! I'm just a country boy. I never paid over $200 a month for rent in my life."

Wait til he gets here!

King also took time out to explain how secretly he went about moving super Willie Mays from third in the batting order to leadoff, the Great Experiment, as it's called.

Willie Got The Word First

"I didn't say a word about it until Willie got to camp," he said. "I wanted to give him the privilege of turning down the idea in private. I didn't want anyone blaming Willie for not cooperating with the new manager. If he had said no, no one would ever have known.

"Instead he said, 'I'm willing to do anything to help the ball club.' That's the kind of guy he is."

LEO DUROCHER, manager of the Chicago Cubs, was asked about the expansion of the major leagues. "Fine by me," he told several hundred fans last week in Scottsdale, including Northern California Giants' Boosters, "that means we have to hire several new umpires and I'm all for hiring the handicapped."

At the same affair, Jack Brickhouse, the noted television sports announcer, told about the first time he saw the Cubs' great and ageless Ernie Banks in action. "Somebody said to me, 'That kid's going to be a great one,' and I replied, 'I'll drink to that.' Now Banks is still going strong and I have an alcohol problem."

Getting Ready For Atlanta

THE AMAZING Giants' Boosters leaders, Paul Hartman of San Rafael's GTS Travel Service and Allan Murray, just got back from nearly a month in the Arizona training camps and already are busily organizing another big tour to Atlanta for the Giants' opening series against the Braves next week.

Later in the season will be a blue-ribbon junket to follow the team to Montreal and New York.

THE GIANTS played a rare night game last Thursday because, explained coach Larry Jansen, "we open the season with four night games and wanted to get some work under the lights."

THE TREMENDOUS pressures on young ball players trying to make good with the major league clubs was told the other day by Mrs. Bobby Etheridge, whose 26-year-old hubby is a strong candidate for the Giants' third base job.

Bobby played 40 games for San Francisco in 1967

Comeback Talk Over For Clay

MIAMI (AP)—Former heavyweight champion Cassius Clay, acknowledging his role as the "humble servant" of his religious leader, says he won't talk anymore about a boxing comeback.

Clay, who prefers to be known as Muhammad Ali, was slapped down by Elijah Muhammad, head of the Muslim sect, after Ali said he wanted to fight again to pay some bills.

Ali told John Crittenden, sports editor of the Miami News, "He's got a right to spank all of us. I'm his humble servant. What I said was out of place."

Elijah said in a Muslim newspaper that Muslims would not be with Ali "in his desire to work in the sports world for the sake of a little money."

San Rafael Braves To Return

San Rafael, and Marin County, will have a semi-pro baseball team all its own this year.

The San Rafael Braves will return, more or less solvent, but not as members of the Western Baseball Association.

With $4,000 of a proposed $7,000 already raised from private sources, the Braves management figures to be in business this year, with a team composed primarily of local aces.

TOURNAMENT

Instead of competing in the WBA, the Braves will shoot for the state and possibly national title. Enroute, they'll sponsor and compete in a two-week invitational tournament to be held at San Rafael's Albert Field.

Earliest activity on the part of the Braves will be their second annual baseball clinic, set for Saturday, April 12 at Albert Field under the auspices of the parent Atlanta Braves, with instruction from professional athletes and scouts.

A huge baseball night is also being planned by the Marin County Chapter of the Barber Shop Quartet. The group is offering to put on their annual show at Dominican College Auditorium in San Rafael, May 10, as a benefit for the San Rafael Braves.

Quarterback Hadl Looking For Job

SAN DIEGO (AP) — John Hadl played out his option at midnight yesterday with the San Diego Chargers and became the first established pro quarterback on the open market.

Hadl, 29, who has been with the American Football League Chargers seven seasons, said today he will waste no time seeking new employment.

TELEPHONE

"I'm going to get on the phone and call some teams, just a couple of 'em," he said. "I'm pretty sure I won't be on the phone long."

Hadl declined to say which teams he would approach.

"I've had a couple of months to think of it," he said. "I hope it isn't a disappointing day."

Hadl became a free agent because the Chargers refused to accept his contract demand which reportedly is a three-year pact in the $60,000-$70,000 range, plus a $250,000 loan.

With Hadl gone, the Chargers are left with two relatively inexperienced quarterbacks, Jon Brittenum and Marty Domres, the club's No. 1 draftee from Columbia.

WAITING

Brittenum, a three-year pro who has thrown only 17 passes in league games, said:

"Here's the thing about it: Even though John is a free agent, there is no reason he can't sign with San Diego again. I know what can happen. I'm waiting to see how it turns out."

Hadl has said there is almost no chance he will return to the Chargers.

Quarry Vs. Frazier Bout Considered

LAS VEGAS, Nev. (UPI)—An agreement for a title fight between Jerry Quarry and Joe Frazier, heavyweight champion in five states, appeared near today.

Representatives of the two boxers met last night to discuss the bout, which will probably be in New York or Los Angeles in June.

Jack Quarry, father of the 23-year-old Bellflower fighter said that only the question of television rights and revenue stood in the way of an agreement. Quarry, who is co-manager of his son along with John Flores, wants to reserve West Coast television rights for an unidentified firm.

UNDER CONTRACT

The elder Quarry and Flores talked with Teddy Brenner of New York, who is understood to have Frazier under contract for a 15-round fight with the Bellflower slugger.

Quarry was offered a guarantee of $100,000 against 20 per cent of the gate with Frazier getting $150,000 against 40 per cent, according to Jack Quarry.

Brenner would like to stage the bout either in New York's Shea Stadium or a Los Angeles arena where a gross gate of $500,000 would be possible.

Connolly Trying For Cal Track Job

BERKELEY (AP) — Harold Connolly, the 1956 Olympics Games hammer throw winner, has applied for the track coaching job at the University of California, the San Francisco Chronicle said today.

A's Take Short Game From Angels

MESA, Ariz. (AP)—The Oakland Athletics, on the heels of a 7-1 exhibition season win against the California Angels, take on the San Diego Padres tomorrow.

It was A's pitcher John "Blue Moon" Odom who held the Angels to three hits yesterday in a game called after 5½ innings because of darkness. The contest's start was delayed three hours because of memorial services in Washington, D.C., for Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower.

Odom gave up only three singles. The Angels' lone run was unearned.

The winners scored three times in the first inning on three hits, and three more in the third on a trio of hits and an error. Campy Campaneris belted a leadoff homer in the fourth.

FISH AND GAME

By AL GIDDINGS

It's Tough To Figure Striped Bass Angling

This striped bass fishing is a tough thing to figure out!

Craig Thompson and two friends took three limits Saturday. He must have been anchored in the right place. Hal Delma, the fishing school teacher who uses a fly rod, took five with two friends, along with a 62-pound sturgeon. There were 52 boats out of Buck's Landing on San Pablo Bay, Saturday. Hazel Eddings, who runs the landing, estimated that approximately 52 bass were checked in. Lots of people missed while others really connected.

LAST WEDNESDAY, Joe Mello and wife took out his brother-in-law and nephew, Rocky Nelson, and son, who came all the way from Idaho to go fishing. At the end of the day, they had four limits, largest fish 23 pounds. The excited Joe called me and we made a date to go Friday. Joe took Rocky along and Marty Medin came with me.

We fished from separate boats with the usual bets going for first, largest and most fish. In the first hour I took the only fish, a 10-pounder. By this time Joe figured he was anchored in the wrong place so he moved about a mile out. We stayed, and in about 10 minutes I think every bass in San Pablo Bay came around our boat, surfacing everywhere.

In two hours, Marty and I, using fly rods landed nine bass, releasing three and keeping six — largest 19 pounds. Marty broke his fly rod on one fish; used a second rod I had brought along and broke it too! We lost two other fish also.

ABOUT THIS time Joe came cruising back without a fish. When we told him to come over to the boat to see our two limits, he thought we were kidding. When he finally saw the fish, Marty and I both learned some new Portuguese words.

MAX SUMPTER of San Rafael talked his wife, Sue, into going bass fishing over the weekend on San Pablo Bay. This was Sue's first trip. Max had bought a dozen ghost shrimp for three bucks, so when his wife used two of them, catching a flounder and then a bullhead, Max thought he better stick the bullhead on his wife's hook and save those good shrimp baits for himself. This was okay with Sue, who didn't know the difference anyway. Of course you know what happened. She nailed a 15-pound striper, then used the same bullhead and picked up an eight-pounder to prove once again that nothing's sure about fishing.

So if you missed over the weekend, try it again and one of these times you will be anchored in the right place at the right time.

SALMON FISHING slowed some what with maybe one fish to the customer. Different friends of mine who went out, thought the fishing was tough. They were catching about two fish for a boat carrying four people. The party boat skippers will soon find a new school — that's their business.

TWO HUNDRED anglers at Nicasio Lake over the weekend. About 15 black bass checked. All weighed about 2 pounds. The bluegill fishing really picked up, a few anglers with up to 25 fish. The limit on black bass is five per person; there is no limit on bluegill. You must have an angling license along with the seasonal lake permit. And only one rod with not more than three hooks is limited to each angler. Some trout may be caught accidentally; these should be returned, as the season for trout doesn't open until May 3.

Davis' Fracture Not Too Serious

VERO BEACH, Fla. (AP) — Los Angeles Dodgers officials were told yesterday that Willie Davis' hairline fracture of the right arm is not as serious as first thought and he should be able to return to play within three weeks.

Dr. Frank Jobe, team physician, told vice president Al Campanis the break won't require a cast.

Henry Is No. 5 In Golf Winnings

Gene Littler, winning only $2,400 for 19th place while Henry was grabbing the $40,000 jackpot, held on to the money winning lead by a narrow margin over Miller Barber.

The top ten and total winnings:

BASEBALL ROUNDUP

Red Sox Go From Scratch

By ASSOCIATED PRESS

With the opening of the major league baseball season a week away, the Boston Red Sox are starting from scratch. So is Bo Belinsky.

Manager Dick Williams, complaining his Red Sox were "goofin' up and not playing baseball," yanked his players from the field yesterday during an intrasquad game and let them know who's boss.

FROM SCRATCH

"We'll start from scratch," he said after a 10-minute lecture in the clubhouse.

Belinsky, the playboy pitcher who has bounced around four major league clubs, found out from General Manager Bing Devine of the St. Louis Cardinals that he'll start from scratch, too.

The Cards asked waivers on the 32-year-old left-hander and said they'll decide today or tomorrow whether to assign Belinsky to the Cards' Tulsa farm club.

"The Astros told me they don't want him back," Devine said.

Later, the Chicago White Sox, helped by two key hits from rookie Bill Melton, defeated the Cards 5-3 in an exhibition game. Melton raised his spring average to .406 with a first-inning double that drove in one run and a single in the fifth that started another rally.

CANCELLATIONS

The Red Sox confined their action to the practice field at Winter Haven, Fla. Their scheduled game with Washington was one of five cancellations because of the national day of mourning for the late President Eisenhower.

The other games started late because of the Eisenhower funeral. The New York Mets blanked Cincinnati 3-0 and San Diego defeated the Chicago Cubs 5-3.

The San Francisco-Cleveland game was called because of darkness after eight innings and a 5-5 tie. The Oakland-California game was also called because of darkness, with Oakland in front 7-1 after six innings.

4-1 RECORD

Jim McAndrew scattered seven hits over the first seven innings and picked up his fourth exhibition victory as the Mets trimmed the Reds. McAndrew, 4-1 this spring, lowered his earned run average to 0.93 before giving way to Ron Taylor, who completed the shutout with three scoreless innings of relief.

Four San Diego homers helped the Padres break a five-game losing streak. Ollie Brown tagged two homers, his sixth and seventh of the spring; Clarence Gaston hit a two-run homer; and Nate Colbert stroked one with none aboard.

Invitational Golf Tourney Is Success

The first Terra Linda High School Invitational Golf Tournament was a big success although Marin County Athletic League teams failed to reap any first-place rewards.

Washington High of San Francisco won the team title in a 20-team field, getting a 403 total at San Rafael's Peacock Gap golf course yesterday.

Tamalpais of Mill Valley and Acalanes High School of Lafayette were tied for runnerup honors with a 410 total. Lincoln of San Francisco was fourth at 416, followed by Terra Linda, fifth.

San Rafael was sixth, Redwood eighth and Drake ninth.

Individual honors went to Steve Decker of Richmond, who shot an even par 71.

Tops for Marin players was Mike Ahern who paced the Hornets' three-man team with a 77. Chris Cardenal of San Rafael, Dean Hamilton of Drake and Wayne Smith of Tamalpais all had 78s.

Stewards Accept Robyn's Papers

Miss Smith, 24, is scheduled to ride for the first time Thursday aboard Swift Yorty, a 3-year-old colt.

Stewards are holding her license for two races and if they approve of her riding, she will get riding papers.

As an apprentice, she would have a 5-pound weight allowance.

The age limit for apprentices is 25. Since Tuesdee Testa, who already has ridden winners at Santa Anita, is beyond that, she doesn't qualify for the differential.

Oaks To Host Nets Tonight

OAKLAND (AP) — The Oakland Oaks, heading into the American Basketball Association Western Division playoffs, take on the New York Nets tonight in their next-to-last regular season play.

Having clinched the division title a while back, the Oaks will meet third-place Denver in the first games of the playoffs here Saturday and Sunday.

After meeting the Nets in the Coliseum at 8 tonight, the Oaks end the regular schedule Thursday against the Los Angeles Stars.

NEW YORK (UPI) — The Jacobs horse-training clan of New York is in its second generation. There are brothers Hirsch, Sidney, Eugene and Al; John, Hirsch's son; Robert, Sidney's son, and Buddy Jacobson, whose mother is a sister of the older Jacobs.

Belgian Sailor Returns

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — Rene Hauwaert, the 37-year-old Belgian who started March 15 in the first solo transpacific yacht race to Tokyo, returned to San Francisco Bay yesterday with a broken mast.

He and four other sailors in their boats had made the start beneath the Golden Gate Bridge on a 6,000-mile race expected to take from 60 to 90 days.

"I will go again," said the plucky veteran single handed sailor.

Hauwaert said the crisis aboard his steel 31-foot gaff ketch Vent de Suroit (Southwest Wind) came after he was six days out, about 450 miles from the start.

Seals Vs. Kings

By DAVID DIETZ

BERKELEY — Earl Ingarfield of the Oakland Seals took a pass from coach Fred Glover and glided to his left toward goalie Chris Worthy, who was crouched in anticipation. Gathering momentum, his breath steaming in the cold and dingy practice arena, Ingarfield swooped across the goalmouth, faked Worthy cleanly and lifted the puck into the net.

An hour earlier, Ingarfield was seated in a banquet room of Spenger's Fish Grotto, smoothly answering newsmen's questions. Dressed in a white turtle neck and blue blazer and wearing brown-rimmed glasses, he looked more like the president of the Seals than a player.

FINESSE

"I think," he said unpretentiously, "that this team can skate with any in the league."

On or off the ice, Ingarfield, 34, an 11-year veteran of the National Hockey League, is cool and confident. On the ice, he is a paradox among his teammates. His play glimmers with finesse, while most of the Seals are skaters and diggers in the mold of Glover. Off the ice, Ingarfield exudes the happy, winning spirit shown by all his teammates.

The Seals placed Ingarfield and other Oakland players on display yesterday at a news luncheon and then at practice at Berkeley Iceland as the team opened final preparations for the start of the Stanley Cup playoffs tomorrow.

IN COLISEUM

EARL INGARFIELD
Cool, confident

A veteran on a young hockey club, Ingarfield, who scored 16 goals this season, is expected by the Seals' management to provide inspirational play in the playoffs. This will be his third Stanley Cup series, having been with the New York Rangers during the 1962 and 1967 playoffs.

"Goaltending plays a big part," Ingarfield said of the Seals' chances. "The club that comes up with the hot goaltending seems to win.

BIG POT

"It's a close-checking type of game, too. There's not as much of the free-skating play you see during the regular season. I guess that's because teams are really up. Let's face it, there's a big pot at the end of the rainbow."

Oakland faces a big first round hurdle in Los Angeles. Tall and burly, the Kings gave the Seals fits during the season, winning or tying the first six games before Oakland won, 4-0 and 5-4.

MORE SPEED

"I think we have better overall speed than Los Angeles," Glover said yesterday. "We also have a more mobile defense and I think our goaltending has proved itself."

William Torrey, the Seals' executive vice president, said a crowd of about 7,000 is expected for tomorrow's game. The teams will play in Oakland again Thursday night before traveling to Los Angeles for the next two games Saturday and Sunday.

All the Seals' weekend games during the playoffs will be broadcast on KGO radio, it was announced. Negotiations are continuing with radio KEEN in San Jose, which aired the regular season games, to broadcast all home and away playoff games as well.

but spent last year in the Phoenix farm club, where his performance was limited by illness.

Mrs. Etheridge, one of many players' wives who went to spring training camp, said: "The pressure is really hard on Bobby. I just have to keep telling him that I know he can do it and eventually they'll see that he can. Bobby developed an ulcer last year. He really wants to make it."

DONALD STETSON MASON, a 24-year-old flash, could become the "Darling of Candlestick" in future seasons. He's got great speed, a good bat and talented glove, but the thing that should win him a warm spot in the hearts of fans is his choir boyish looks. He's 24, but looks more like 16. One Giant Booster cooed, "Oh, isn't he cute," and another lady wanted to adopt him until she found out he was a major league ball player.

Tax Reforms Aimed At Higher Incomes

By ROGER E. SPEAR

Q. I am married with three dependents and earn under $15,000. Will any of the proposed tax reforms help me? — M.A.

A. Hearings now underway in the House Ways and Means Committee will affect primarily the very high and very low income groups. A 3-volume study by the U.S. Treasury Department thoroughly details the many inequities and loopholes that have developed in our income tax structure. The report also points up the 2.2 million poverty-level families who incur tax liability under our present laws.

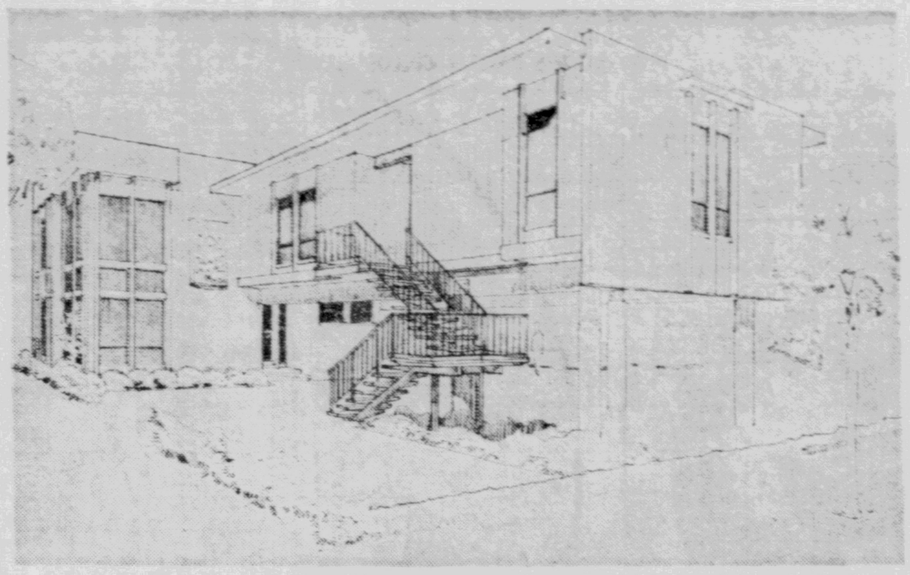
One proposal designed to alleviate this situation will raise the minimum standard deduction from the present $200 to $600 — plus $100 for each exemption — up to $1,000. This reform would eliminate any income tax for 1.25 million families and reduce it substantially for the others at the poverty level. However, the main thrust of the proposed reforms will be aimed at eliminating the now legal methods by which the very wealthy can escape large tax liability.

A case in point: the operating losses on "hobby farms" which can be used to offset high-bracket nonfarm income. One proposal would limit these losses to $15,000 in any one year but would allow losses to be applied toward other years.

Another proposed revision, aimed at high-bracket individuals would apply on "expanded income base" for a minimum individual income tax." The revision, if adopted, is estimated to apply to about 40,000 taxpayers but would garner additional revenues of $420 million.

Other recommendotions are: relating deductions to the total income rather than to taxable income only; increasing standard deductions from 10 per cent to 14 per cent with an $1,800 maximum; special exemptions for older people and liberalized rules regarding job-related moving expenses.

If your company frequently relocates employees, this latter possible tax revision could be of some help. It would allow up to $1,500 for moving-related expenses including costs of house-hunting trips, temporary living quarters and certain expenses incurred in the sale of a previous home.



NEW HOME DUE

Construction will get under way on this two-story redwood rustic and stucco office building at Second and E Streets, San Rafael, for Nipper and Marchant. The structure was designed by Hageman-Thomas-Eklund and will be built by Edward W. Burgar, Inc. Completion is scheduled for June.

Market Finishes Low In Heavy Turnover

Steels were no better than mixed despite a step-up in production and a strong demand, while chemicals moved in similar fashion.

Motors traded in both directions and generally in small fractions. Ford, which introduced its new Maverick car with a price tag aimed at making it competitive with the Volkswagen, showed a steady undertone.

Building materials moved lower on the prospect of a slowdown in the record pace of building contracts stemming from government credit tightening measures.

Airlines and aircrafts were narrowly mixed, while Motorola and Fairchild Camera were among the weaker electronics. Burroughs, planning to construct a multi-million dollar parts plant on the west coast, was on the plus side in late trading.

Prices on the American Stock Exchange were firm in brisk trading.

Today is Tuesday, April 1, the 91st day of 1969 with 274 to follow.

The moon is approaching its full phase. The morning stars are Mercury and Mars. The evening stars are Venus, Jupiter and Saturn.

On this day in history:

In 1853 Cincinnati set a precedent by deciding to pay members of its fire department a regular salary. Ordinary firemen were paid $60 a year.

In 1918 the British Royal Air Force was founded and two months later began World War I bombing of industrial targets in Germany from French bases.

In 1939 Generalissimo Francisco Franco, leader of rebel forces, announced the end of the Spanish Civil War.

In 1946 some 400,000 coal miners struck for higher pay.

Spirit Is Wrong During Holiday

Patrolman John McAnon reported someone stole a tire and rim and a set of tools from his private automobile on Christmas Day.

Police Capt. Errol Baca said his badge and police identification papers were taken from his automobile. They were returned to him about a week later.

WINNING BRIDGE

By ALFRED SHEINWOLD

By Refusing The First Trick, South Can Handle Bad Break

If you try to persuade the average bridge player not to win the first trick of his long suit with the ace, he may just look the other way. If you ask him to duck the first trick of his long suit when he has both the ace and king, he will send for a strait jacket and a man in a white coat.

HEART TRICK

The average good player wins the first trick with the king of hearts and draws two rounds of trumps with the king and queen. Then he takes the top diamonds and ruffs a diamond. If the six missing diamonds break 3-3, South will win all 13 tricks.

When the diamonds fail to break 3-3, South must abandon the suit for lack of enough entries to the dummy. Instead, South must lead a trump to dummy's ace in order to try the club finesse.

Unfortunately, the finesse loses. South must give up a club and a heart, and all is lost save honors.

BETTER CHANCE

After winning the first heart and drawing trumps with the king and queen, South should lead a diamond from his hand and should duck in dummy. East overtakes with the jack of diamonds in order to return the ten of clubs.

Now South should put up the ace of clubs because the chance of a reasonable break in diamonds (either 3-3 or 4-2) is greater than the chance of a successful finesse in clubs. Declarer leads a diamond to the ace, discards a heart on the king of diamonds and ruffs a diamond.

Dummy's last diamond becomes established despite the 4-2 break, and South gets to dummy with the ace of trumps to discard the queen of clubs on the fifth diamond.

Dead Timber Wolf Puzzles New Yorkers

CAROGA LAKE, N.Y. (UPI) —A timber wolf, a species which had been believed extinct in New York State since 1899, was killed recently by a car on route 10 in this northeastern New York community.

The adult male, weighing 84 pounds and measuring 71 inches long, has caused some puzzlement among state fish and game officials. The State Conservation Department has suggested the gray wolf may have escaped from a zoo or game farm, or while it was in transit through the state.

Army Barge Clears Bay Debris

By ANNE BARDWELL
(Second of two features)

Sweeping the deep is nothing new for the Army Corps of Engineers which has been cleaning up the San Francisco bay since the Gold Rush Days.

The corps' first job on the bay was to remove the huge rocks blocking the Golden Gate and scattered throughout the bay, a major hazard for early sailing vessels.

After creating a mess by blowing up the rocks, the Corps started to clean things up — and have been at it ever since.

To keep the bay's surface clear of the 10,000 tons of driftwood and other debris which obstruct navigation for small and large craft, the corps operates two 100-foot barges five days a week, 52 weeks a year.

The barges use large steel mesh nets to scoop up the debris. Each net weighs approximately two tons and can hold between 10 and 12 tons of debris. On a good day, the Raccoon, for example, manuevering with great agility under the direction of Capt. Russell I. Tucker of San Francisco, can pick up approximately 60 tons of debris.

Twice a day, on an average, the Raccoon, or its sister ship, the Coyote, will dump its load of debris on the Sausalito waterfront next to the huge incinerator the corps operates at times up to 24 hours a day to dispose of the trash.

The incinerator, which has been criticized for adding its share of smoke to the smog problem, also disposes of other, more glamourous items including contraband cigarettes, marijuana, counterfeit money and pornography.

Tucker, who keeps the Raccoon far more spotless than the average housewife keeps her best silver, says that at times, especially after a bad storm, "I've seen the debris so thick out here you could walk to Alcatraz on it."

Almost anything can be found floating on the bay at one time or another, according to Tucker, but the most common items in the daily debris load are driftwood, furniture, plastic toys, ("anything you can find in a store window that'll float"), dead animals and an occasional human body.

The Raccoon's crew sights an average of five bodies a year floating on the bay and reports them to the Coast Guard for recovery.

The larger debris, particularly uprooted piles or utility poles, is ignored by the two dredges and left to be towed to Sausalito by the Lobos, a 45-foot diesel tugboat.

Although the Corps spends most time and money on channel dredging and debris gathering, the job of maintaining the bay also includes such chores as testing the bay for pollutants, including agricultural wastes, sewage and other harmful material; watching for and controlling oil spills, and patrolling docks, levies and other man-made intrusions into the bay to watch for construction deterioration.

The Corps also requires permits for construction of docks, structures on piles, levies and such miscellaneous things as the rapid transit tube, utility and pipeline crossings in or on the bay.

Finally, as a preventive measure, the Corps works on flood control prijects throughout Northern California to keep less debris from coming into the bay so that eventually, less will have to be cleaned out of it.

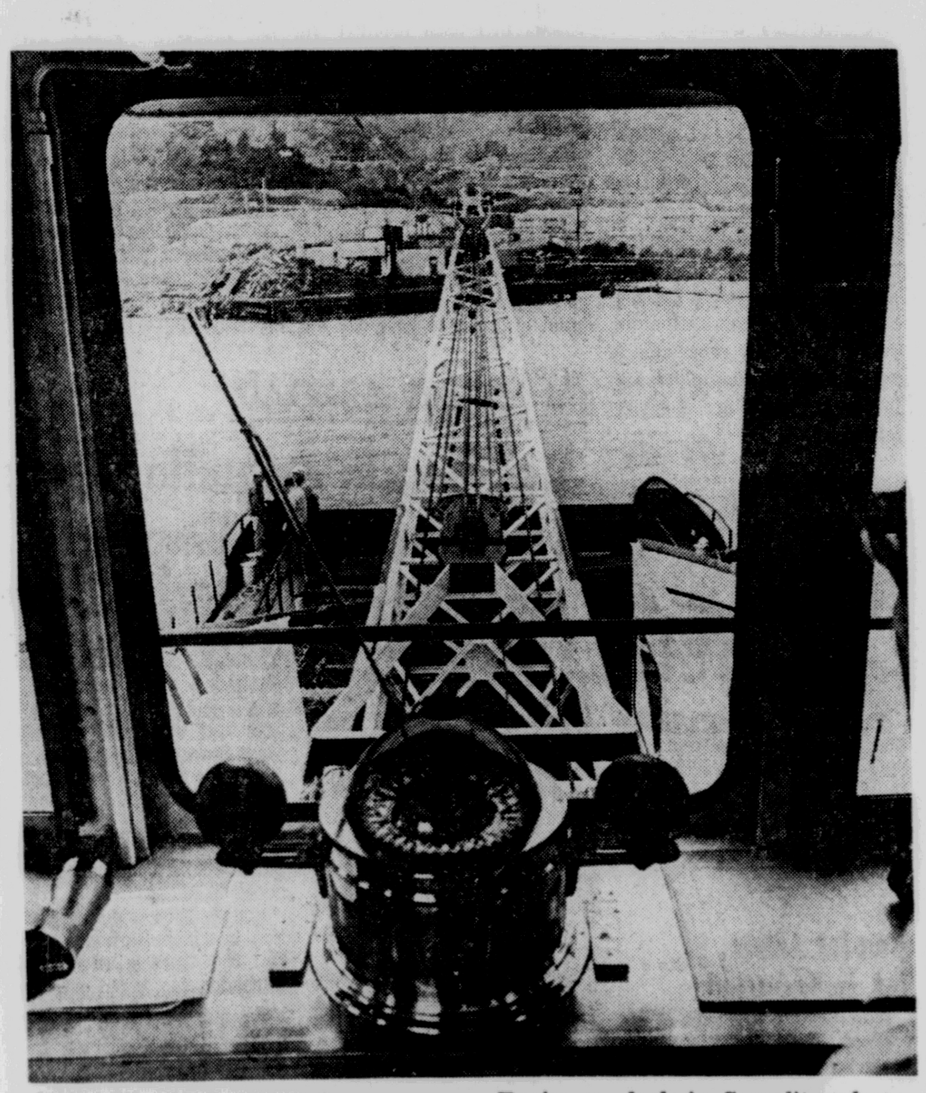
BULLDOZER—Affectionately termed a seagoing bulldozer by its captain, Russell I. Tucker, the barge, Raccoon, gathers a full load of debris from the bay.



CRANE—The Raccoon's huge crane points the way to the Army Corps of Engineers dock in Sausalito where the debris is dumped for burning.

MAVERICK—Upended logs are a worry to crewmen on the Raccoon because the logs have jammed the gears of the shallow draft barge.

TODAY'S EDITORIAL

What Have We Here —A Non-Campaign?

Candidates for the boards of Tamalpais High School District and all its component elementary school districts are arguing the merits and demerits of a proposed three-district unification plan — and have found ample audiences at public hearings on the plan.

Candidates for Lagunitas School District Board are talking principally about taxes, as are those in the Marin Junior College District.

Racism is an issue in the campaign for Sausalito School District Board. Spending policies, progressive education, and the ungraded school are being debated in the race for Reed School District Board.

Candidates' nights in some of these districts have drawn small attendance, but almost everyone by now is aware that campaigns are under way — and that there are issues involved.

IN SAN RAFAEL, however, the campaigns for mayor and city council so far look more like non-campaigns.

Three men are vying for the mayoralty, and eight are in the race for two openings on the city council. In addition, six charter amendments will be on the ballot.

Up to now, however, the candidates have been most noticeable by their silence. And the proposed charter changes have received no airing since the council voted to put them on the ballot — unless one counts a window sign in the downtown shop of one of the mayoralty candidates.

Most of the candidates have signs out—with Mayor C. Paul Bettini and Councilman Frederick C. Robbins Jr. definitely ahead in the sign department. There are bumper stickers for mayoralty candidates Bettini and Charles W. Aby and council candidates Robbins, John J. Adams, and Ray White. But that hardly constitutes a campaign.

White has put out mailers to tell the voters who he is. Since he is not well known, it might be he would welcome opportunities for public appearances — if anyone offered them.

Maybe somebody is ringing doorbells. If so, they haven't reached us yet.

THE LACK of activity seems to indicate a lack of interest. And the lack of interest causes us to wonder if San Rafael citizens just don't give a hang about who manages their $4 million-a-year city business.

The election is two weeks from today — for San Rafael mayor and two councilmen as well as for school board members throughout the county.

The election results can mean progress or retrogression. They can mean waste of the public money or its careful spending. They can mean many things important to the citizenry — too important, certainly, to be decided by blind guess among candidates who have presented neither their qualifications nor their views.

'Gentle April'

According to folklore, gentle April follows blustery March. In Marin this particular legend is often shattered by April rains and gales. But, if April in Marin is not always gentle, it is always beautiful.

For, in this month of months, the blooming season in this bloomingest county in the United States reaches its peak. Flowers are flowering all over the place. Periwinkles are winking. Forget-me-nots will not be forgotten. And roses have risen in glorious profusion.

All in all, there are many of us for whom April is the finest month of the year, and this in spite of regular outbursts of California heavy dew.

Senate Committee May Prove Graveyard Of Bay Fill Control

By PAUL E. PETERZELL

Conservationists cheered four years too soon when the San Francisco Bay Conservation and Development Commission was created in 1965.

That was only a skirmish compared to the crunch that powerful economic interests are mounting this year to bury the commission and its plan for the future of the bay and shoreline.

"There is a lot of real opposition to our plan," commission chairman Melvin Lane conceded recently. Sponsors of legislation to continue the commission and to adopt its plan, he said "have their work cut out."

Sacramento insiders report that "an impressive array" of talented, influential lobbyists have been hired to clear the way for wholesale filling of the bay. And the lobbyists have taken a strong position against all bills extending the life of the commission, due to go out of existence late this year.

Their opposition may only be tactical — leaving them something to throw to the conservationists later — but so far they have opposed even the weak bills to continue some control over bay fill.

AS USUAL, the stumbling block to all the bills is the Senate Governmental Efficiency Committee (whose name apparently derives from its smooth executions of so many bills it considers.)

Its chairman, Sen. Richard J. Dolwig, R-San Mateo, is shelving all BCDC bills as they reach his committee, and is planning to push his own version of a bill setting up some sort of regional agency to regulate use of the bay.

Proponents of strong bay fill controls, noting that Dolwig has not been a strong friend of conservation measures, expect his bill will be unacceptable to legislators who have introduced the BCDC bills. The probable result will be a stalemate, with authors of the other BCDC bills counting on conservationists' pressure on Dolwig to force him to sit down with them and work out a compromise.

The 1965 law that set up the BCDC, incidentally, is being used as a model by the New York and Maryland legislatures to set up similar commissions for Jamaica and Chesapeake bays.

SPEAKING of stumbling blocks, San Francisco Supervisor William C. Blake promised last week to block any change in the 1952 policy of his board calling for turning the Golden Gate Bridge over to the state after the bridge and highway district's bonds are repaid in 1972.

Only if the bridge district agrees to his plan for an immediate start on a train tube link to Marin will he let the policy change out of the transportation committee, of which he is chairman, he said.

Otherwise, Blake told us, "we'll turn her over to the state, which can build a bridge to Catalina Island and we won't care."

He also said he will work to defeat state legislation that would reserve freeway lanes for commuter buses.

WHAT OUR READERS SAY

Orderly Society Alternative To Force

Your editorial, "Police Cannot Carry Society's Responsibility," is one of your very best, in my judgment. It explains and points up so well the very different role of the police, as they are called upon to maintain or restore order and safety in our community.

If people would think and behave with respect toward other people, and toward the property of others, we could avoid the "confrontations" the police have been called upon to solve and resolve.

True social progress can only occur in an orderly society. Until conditions of disorder cease, police protection and police force is absolutely essential.

'Battered Child' Needs Legal Aid

I recently read in the Independent-Journal an article on the injuring of little children. That young children are subjected to such treatment is almost beyond the comprehension of the average citizen.

I also note Marin County does not supply legal representation for the "battered child." I believe this legal representation is very important.

As the Independent-Journal is purely a local paper, this issue would be an excellent crusade for the Journal to instigate. . .

Billions For Arms, Not For Schools

School boards in Marin and throughout the country are pleading locally for urgently needed funds, but they are not forthcoming. Meanwhile, back at the Pentagon, when they want a few billion dollars to develop an XB11 bomber system or a supertank, they are given what amounts to a blank check with never nore than a few congressmen dissenting. Apparently the rest of our representatives think this is how we want our taxes spent — or is it that they have a vested interest in military spending?

To my way of thinking the only justification of taxation is to meet the genuine needs of the public. Funding so-called defense projects that are obsolete before they are in production meets only the needs of this military-industrial complex, not us taxpayers.

I believe in high quality public education and appreciate the thankless job the volunteer school board members do. I would like to help them by voting "yes" on bond issues and tax increases. But I believe, and recent elections demonstrate, that the limit on individual and property taxation has been reached. I would ask that the school boards address their pleas to the federal government, calling for a redistribution of present taxes and the closing of the notorious loopholes thus making more federal money available for local use.

Until this approach is tried and bears some fruit, I will not vote "yes" to increase local taxation.

RONALD N. BURNETT

Lagunitas School Tax Rate Down

Thank you for the generally accurate report of the Lagunitas School board candidates' night, March 27. The confusion during the meeting probably resulted in the misleading tax rate figures used in the article. To clarify the matter for the citizens of the San Geronimo Valley the county superintendent of schools office gives the following Lagunitas District taxes:

	1965	1968
General Fund Tax	$2.605	$1.81
Areawide Tax	.670	1.11
Bonds	.270	.325
Physically Handicapped	.015	.035
	$3.560	$3.280

The amount of tax paid by the homeowner has undoubtedly gone up due to increases in assessed valuation; however, the rate has gone down.

Reader Likes I-J Indignation

Now that the incidence of increased drug use had been discovered at Hamilton Air Force Base, may I reasonably expect an editorial exposing the military authorities for allowing enlisted men as well as officers to indulge in drug use "under their very noses." One would expect, of course, a statement of comparable quality and expressing the proper indignation of your recent editorial condemning school personnel.

'Pacification' Takes New Tack, But Success Still Problematical

DALAT, Vietnam — During the 70 years of their colonial empire in Indochina — Laos, Cambodia, North and South Vietnam — The French did very well for themselves. The big rubber plantations were highly profitable, as were other enterprises worked by docile natives.

Among the intellectuals they spread some French education. Aristocratic families sent their sons and daughters to Paris to school. French citizenship was conferred on a favored few. It was all very cozy in the French style.

Dalat was their mountain resort. In this mile-high city with a vista of mountain ranges in the distance, their pleasant villas, little ravaged by the war, are evidence of their knowledge of the good life, whether in France or in the far reaches of the empire. The central highlands were a buffer between the Indochinese and the mountain people, the Montagnards, and the French allowed almost no southerners except for their servants to settle in Dalat.

NOW THE responsibility for pacifying this mountain area, or trying to bring the Montagnards into the 20th Century to live at peace with the Vietnamese, for trying to get the economy on an even keel, is jointly that of the South Vietnamese government in Saigon and the United States mission. William E. Colby, in charge of the pacification program, is in Dalat for conferences with the local province chief, a colonel in the Vietnamese army, and with his own officials stationed here.

Pacification has for long been a sneer word. It was bureaucratese for a costly venture in idealism which was erased by the Viet Cong shortly after the pacifiers left the pacified village. Colby's predecessor, Robert Komer, was a tough-talking salesman who could marshal charts and graphs to show just what percentage of territory and people had been pacified. He met any challenge by mowing down the challenger with strong language. Komer went from here to be ambassador to Turkey, where the Turkish Vietnam protesters celebrated his arrival by burning the embassy car.

SINCE LAST November pacification has taken a new and more realistic tack. The intial effort is to root out the Viet Cong infrastructure, bureaucratese for the Mafia-like organization holding many villages in a discipline of terror, so pacification by day becomes submission to the VC by night. The rooting out is done by various organziations of the Vietnamese People's Police and by Operation Phoenix directed by the CIA. Phoenix undertakes to do to known terrorists what they have done to villagers collaborating with the government — reprisals such as beheading and disembowelling.

After at least comparative security has been established the work of pacification begins. Various forms of aid are made available. Each district chief is given one million piasters — at the legal rate close to $100,000. He can use this for any form of improvement in his villages he sees fit.

A 48-year-old foreign service officer, Colby is the best type of civilian American working in Vietnam. He brings to his difficult — perhaps, in the long pull, impossible — task dedication and tireless effort. Besides the long hours and the seven-day week in his Saigon office, he travels widely through the country for a firsthand appraisal of how pacification is going.

HERE IN DALAT the problem seems to be security and a lack of troop protection. That is the complaint of the province chief, who is about to be relieved by another army appointee coming from Saigon.

For three hours through the night the firing goes on. To the ear of the newcomer it sounds like mortaring mixed with small-arms fire. In the morning the old-timers say it was only outgoing artillery fire in support of the defenders of a hamlet five miles down the road who came under VC attack.

Colby visits the mayor, he inspects the police training school where recruits are squirming through the wire under live ammunition, and then he is off for Saigon with a briefcase full of papers to be studied during the hour's flight.

If there were more men like Colby and fewer of the time-serving advisers who are legion and whose so-called advice is like dust in the fierce wind of the war, the chances for arriving at a Vietnam free of war and terror would be greatly improved.

Landing In Anguilla Opens New Cracks In Empire

By PHIL NEWSOM
UPI Foreign News Analyst

In the British House of Commons a Conservative member arose, and with sardonic humor demanded of Foreign Secretary Michael Stewart, "will you congratulate the prime minister for at last taking on someone his own size?"

It was a question reflective of the mood of many another Briton but for the Labor government of Prime Minister Harold Wilson it was no laughing matter.

For a nation trying to divest itself of empire, plagued by a division of opinion over Britain's role in the Nigerian civil war and with the question of Rhodesian independence still unsolved after three years, the British troop landing on tiny Anguilla island in the Caribbean promised to create more problems than it solved.

THE LANDING of some 500 paratroops and policemen on the 35-square-mile island seemed likely to have an effect opposite from Stewart's claim that Britain had acted in the interests of Caribbean stability.

The black residents of Britain's dependencies and former dependencies in the Caribbean were quick to charge the action proved a two-faced policy—that Britain would use force against blacks but not against the whites of breakaway Rhodesia.

Further, the British were having trouble substantiating a claim that 6,000 islanders on Anguilla were being intimidated by Americans of dubious character.

THE AGUILLAN affair was a teapot illustration of problems that have plagued the British for 20 years in the Caribbean.

The problems stem from the fact that many of the islands are small, thinly populated, poor and without the resources to support themselves.

Larger islands, such as Trinidad, Jamaica and Barbados were unwilling to sacrifice their own economies and thus went their separate ways toward independence.

First to fail was a proposed federation of islands including Jamaica on the north and Trinidad to the south. Jamaica pulled out first, quickly followed by Trinidad.

Britain then tried a federation in which Barbados would be the largest island. Barbados, too, opted out.

THAT LEFT a string of islands for which Britain tried various groupings, retaining foreign affairs and defense in London's hands but with home rule. These were called associated states.

The Anguillans accused the St. Kitts administration of tyranny and with ignoring Anguilla's economic needs. In 1967 they declared their independence.

Despite British efforts to restore old friendships, the Anguillans have demonstrated they much prefer to go their own way, even though their way may be in limbo. And other restless islands are threatening to follow suit.

Petaluma Election In June, But Ballot Already Lengthy

It may take Petaluma voters a little longer than usual to cast their ballots on June 10 as the document has grown nearly to the proportions of normal statewide ballots.

In deliberating possible bond issues, the city council at first considered one or two. In final action, the number had doubled to four and then was raised to five on the advice of bond attorneys.

Also on the ballot will be three council seats and the office of mayor. Early announcements indicate the list of candidates may be lengthy.

Three seats on the Petaluma Board of Education will be open and indications show at least four or five will be in the running.

TWO CHARTER — amendments are nearly firm, with a third still in the discussion stage. They will include two involving the library. One would give the library trustees the authority to enter into a merger with the Sonoma County library system when an agreement is reached, and the other would permit the trustees to accept gifts for the library in forms other than books.

The third charter amendment which may make the ballot would change the vote required to introduce an ordinance from a majority to a two-thirds vote.

Emerging as the principal issue in the election is the controversial core area plan to revitalize the downtown business district by relocating Petaluma Boulevard to a route along the river from D Street to Washington Street.

The split in council opinion on the merits of the plan is reflected in public opinion. Some say the time is right and that residents will overwhelmingly approve the $1.5 million measure to move the city ahead. Others see it as a means of saving ailing businesses at the expense of the taxpayer.

FOR THE FIRST time in the history of Sonoma County, automatic voting machines will be used. The city council made that possible at the March 19 meeting when it voted to accept the free offer of the Automatic Voting Machine Co. of New York.

In addition to supplying the machines, the firm will train election workers and assist the city in preparing printed material for the machines. After the June 10 test, the city will, of course, be urged to purchase the equipment.

ALTHOUGH ELECTIONS in Cotati are a year away, students at Sonoma State College are already making plans to gain a council seat.

They figure that with only 550 registered voters, the growing proportion of student residents will be more than enough to elect at least one councilman — assuming they can agree on one.

Looking at the prospect as a lesson in practical politics, several of the student senate members are devising creative methods of election campaigning. They feel success is unquestionable in the politically unsophisticated city.

Student residents of Cotati have great affection for the city and often contrast its rural charm to neighboring suburban-flavored Rohnert Park. The aspiring councilmen would vow to improve Cotati, but to retain the country atmosphere and open spaces.

Examination Set For Apprentices

An open competitive examination for would-be apprentices in the Sheet Metal Workers' Union will be held May 24 at the Labor Administration Building, 331 Keller Street, Petaluma.

Applications for the test must be in by May 22 and forms may be obtained at Sheet Metal Workers' Local 75 at 445 Nebraska Street, Vallejo.

Students Mull New Protest Technique: Nationwide Sleep-In

FORT LAUDERDALE, Fla. —Beatle John Lennon and his bride Yoko Ono told newsmen that they will stay in bed in their Amsterdam hotel for seven days and seven nights during their honeymoon to protest violence in the world.

This sleep-in, if it catches on, could turn out to be the most popular of protest ever thought up by the peace movement, and the authorities are not too sure yet how to handle it.

Since anything the Beatles do seems to be adopted, it's quite possible that Mr. and Mrs. Lennon's tactics will soon become part of the student nonviolent scene.

I WAS LUCKY to interview students at Fort Lauderdale who were on Easter vacation to get their reaction.

One said: "I wish we had known about it in Chicago. We would have had a lot less casualties."

But his friend disagreed. "Knowing the Chicago cops, they would have probably come into our rooms and busted our beds."

A third student seemed doubtful that Lennon's tactic was practical. "You can't get that kind of protest on television, except maybe on educational TV. And if you don't get on television there doesn't seem to be any sense in protesting."

THIS OPINION was shared by a University of North Carolina sophomore. "I could sleep in a park for seven days and seven nights, but I don't think it would work if I had to stay indoors. Like I mean, man, the fun of the protest is to be with your friends. It's no kick holding up a picket sign if nobody is going to see it."

But a coed from Swarthmore disagreed. "If all the students disappeared for seven days and seven nights, we'd have this country really uptight. They would have no idea what was happening."

An MIT engineering major shook his head. "I'd be for a sleep-in only if Secretary of HEW Finch assured me I would not lose my federal aid for doing it. They're going to have to put out some guidelines before I get into bed."

"They can't take your federal aid away from you for sleeping," a Harvard law student said. "As long as you do it peacefully."

"Sure," the MIT student said, "that's what they tell you now, but who's going to say if you were sleeping peacefully or not? Suppose you have a restless night?"

AN OBERLIN music major said: "That shouldn't be our concern. If sleeping is going to make this country wake up to the fact that we want peace, then I say we should sleep."

Her girl friend said, "After a week in Fort Lauderdale I'll need seven days and seven nights of sleep, even if it isn't for peace."

"I think,," said an Amherst student, "we should wait and see. After all, the only reason Lennon is doing it is because he's on his honeymoon. I think we should see what the other three Beatles do before we get involved."

A senior from Princeton said: "We tried everything else. At least it'll be more fun than burning draft cards."

Sanitary District Dissolution Session Is Set

A meeting to discuss the pros and cons of the dissolution of the Novato Sanitary District into the North Marin County Water District will be held at 8 p.m. Thursday in the Novato Community House.

The meeting is being sponsored by both the committee for the dissolution and the committee opposing the dissolution which will come before the voters on April 15, according to J. Wayne Womack, opposition chairman of the committee.

The North Marin County Water District board started the action to absorb the sanitary district into the water district. The sanitary district board voted against it, taking the position that it would rather that it be a part of the City of Novato. The Novato City Council has also gone on recore as opposing the dissolution of the sanitary district.

Hoover Warns Of New Chaos

WASHINGTON (AP) — Unless citizens put up united resistance against criminal forces, says FBI Director J. Edgar Hoover, "We face chaos."

Writing in the monthly FBI Law-Enforcement Bulletin, Hoover said law enforcement cannot be effective without adequate public support.

"Our fight against crime can be no stronger than the courage and commitment of our citizens," he said.

Warning that "fear and apprehension prevail in the streets of most major cities," Hoover said that the situation would be even worse if it weren't for tremendous strides in the training of enforcement officers and the modernizing of police facilities.

Future Of Gnoss Field On Agenda

Frances E. Torr, manager of Gnoss Field, will discuss the airport and its future before Novato Chamber of Commerce directors at a luncheon at noon Thursday at Cloud Five restaurant.

The chamber board also will discuss changes in the by-laws as proposed by the by-law committee.

STATE HALTS OIL, GAS HUNT IN BAY

Drilling Disapproved 'At This Time'; State To Enter San Rafael Title Suit

By JOANNE GRANT

SACRAMENTO — The controversial proposal to permit oil and gas drilling in San Pablo Bay was rejected today by the State Lands Commission.

The commission followed a staff recommendation that consideration of drilling cease at this time. The staff, blamed the Santa Barbara oil disaster for widespread opposition to the San Pablo proposal.

Drilling had been proposed along the Solano and Contra Costa county shore and at one time had also been proposed along the shore of Marin County.

However, Marin vehemently opposed the plan and, on January 13, 15 days before the Santa Barbara disaster, the commission staff reported the Marin side was no longer under consideration.

Mrs. Franklin Miller of Black Point appeared before the commission today and listed reasons why the North Marin Federation of Improvement Clubs opposed the drilling.

Mrs. Donald Jenkins of Sonoma County criticized the phrase "at this time" in the staff recommendation. "Are we going to have to go through this every six months?" she asked.

"Ceaseless vigilance" is the price you have to pay to prevent oil drilling, Caspar W. Weinberger, commission chairman, told her. Weinberger said the commission could not commit future commissions to interpret the phrase under attack.

In other action, the commission authorized the state to intervene in the suit of Marina Vista Improvement Club against the Marin Yacht Club in the City

FINAL JOURNEY BEGINS — A simple Army steel casket bearing the remains of Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower is put aboard a black-draped baggage car for the trip to Abilene, Kan., for burial tomorrow. The 1,300-mile trip began last night, and is expected to be completed about midnight tonight, with Eisenhower's widow and other family members riding in a presidential car on the train. (UPI Telephoto)

A Slow Train Carries Ike Home Again

Trackside Vigils Follow Solemn State Funeral

ABILENE, Kan. (AP)—Past hushed clusters of townsfolk who had called him Ike, the body of Dwight David Eisenhower was borne today in a black baggage car toward burial tomorrow in his home soil of Abilene, Kan.

In groups of hundreds and crowds of thousands gathered at towns and crossings throughout the long night-time pull across Virginia, through the Alleghanies and over the Ohio, Americans paid silent homage at the trackside to the 34th American president. (See related stories, pages 7 and 9.)

Only a handful waited when the 10-car train reached Cincinnati's Union Terminal in a steady rain, there to transfer from the Chesapeake and Ohio tracks to those of the Baltimore and Ohio.

MEMORIAL SERVICE

A memorial service at the terminal planned by Ohio Gov. James A. Rhodes and the dignitaries of nearby cities had been canceled at request of the widow and family, worn by the tears and strain of three days of funeral pomp and homage in the nation's capital.

Instead . . . the rust-flecked and dust-streaked baggage car was shunted to a wash rack in an industrial area a mile north of the terminal. A score of the surprised diners abandoned their breakfasts in a nearby restaurant and rushed outside to stand silent in the drizzle until the car, its paint gleaming again, was recoupled to the train.

At Mrs. Eisenhower's request the C&O also draped the funeral car with black bunting and an American flag on each side during the Cincinnati stopover.

MOVED BY CROWDS

A family spokesman explained that Mrs. Eisenhower was moved by the hundreds of children seen along the tracks waving flags at the passing cars. She wanted the car more easily identified for them.

During the Union Terminal stop, Edgar Eisenhower, older brother of the late President, left the special presidential car briefly to transmit the family's thanks, through newsmen and C&O officials, to the city authorities of Cincinnati and neighboring communities for the planned

Abilene Set To Honor Its General

As the funeral train rolled westward from Washington, Abilene made ready to accord the nation's 34th president both public and private memorial services tomorrow. (See related stories on pages 7 and 9.)

Up to 100,000 persons were expected to jam their way into this northern Kansas community of 8,000 which once served as the terminus of the old Chisholm cattle trail.

The train was expected to arrive at the Union Pacific depot late tonight or early tomorrow after a 1,300-mile journey bearing the body of Eisenhower, members of his family and a few friends.

It will remain parked the rest of the night near the freight station.

An honor guard composed of men from all the armed services will watch over the $80 steel Army casket during the night.

President Nixon and his party plan to arrive at 9 a.m. tomorrow at the airport in nearby Salina and come by helicopter to the waiting train about 45 minutes later.

Shortly after 10 a.m. the coffin will be transferred to a hearse.

Then will begin a slow procession as some 450 military personnel on foot and official guests in limousines travel 12 blocks through the Abilene business district to Eisenhower Center at the southeast edge of town.

The general's casket will be removed from the hearse and placed on the front porch of the two-story Eisenhower Library for a public memorial service

Coast Guard Plans West Marin Stations

The Coast Guard plans to buy two West Marin sites from Radio Corporation of America to build major communications stations by 1972.

The proposed stations will be the major West Coast communications stations for the Coast Guard, replacing the present station on San Bruno Mountain, south of San Francisco.

Proposed are a 75.5-acre transmitting site on the RCA property north of Bolinas and 266 acres at RCA beach on Point Reyes Peninsula for receiving. Seventy-one men will serve the two stations and will be housed in West Marin, probaby in the vicinity of Point Reyes Station, the Coast Guard said.

Donald Stackhouse, assistant district manager for RCA, said the Coast Guard has surveyed the land sought but no negotiations are in progress now.

Stackhouse said RCA, which owns 494 acres on the peninsula has no plans to shut down its own transmitter operations in West Marin.

Lt. (j.g.) Robert Philpott of the Coast Guard's communications branch in San Francisco said the land has been appraised and the Coast Guard is waiting for RCA to set its price on the land.

The San Bruno station, Philpott said, is being phased out because of growing radio interference cause by development of housing tracts and a college campus nearby. The West Marin sites presumably will be free of such problems, he said. Philpott said the Coast Guard has written the Department of the Interior explaining its plans.

U.N. Mideast Issue Splits Russia, U.S.

UNITED NATIONS, N.Y. (AP) — The Soviet Union split with the United States and Britain in the U.N. Security Council today on the eve of Big Four peace talks on the Middle East.

Soviet Deputy Foreign Minister Jacob A. Malik threw his country's support behind an Asian-African resolution demanding condemnation of Israel for an attack on a Jordanian village last Wednesday.

The United States and Britain objected to the resolution on grounds that it did not mention attacks by Arab guerrillas on Israeli territory that provoked the Israeli retaliatory raid.

The United States said it would abstain on the resolution, and similar action was expected by Britain.

Malik declared what was needed was even a stronger resolution than the one before the 15-nation council.

Yosef Tekoah, the Israeli ambassador, asserted that his country would not change its policy of reprisal against what it considered Arab terror tactics.

"Israel does not intend to allow itself to be executed," he declared.

Ambassador Agha Shahi of Pakistan formally introduced the resolution asking condemnation of Israel. He said he was doing so despite the threat of the Big Four split.

San Rafael Vote Again To Say Whether Chief Runs For Office

By DAVID DIETZ

The City of San Rafael is one of only five cities its size in the U. S. with an elected police chief. The chief, 57-year-old Charles J. Chiesa, likes it that way, but the city council thinks the system is outdated and wants to make the job appointive, as it is in nearly 500 other comparable cities.

"The elective way is best," said Chiesa, twice re-elected but in danger of losing his job if the council wins the fight. "They shouldn't take the vote away from citizens."

"I feel a man in his position shouldn't be spending time running for election," Mayor C. Paul Bettini said. "He should be spending time enforcing the law."

For the third time in seven years, the council will ask voters at the April 15 municipal election to approve a charter amendment relinquishing control over selection of a chief. Similar proposals were defeated handily in 1963 and 1967, although the one in 1967 was packaged with amendments to make the jobs of city attorney, treasurer and clerk appointive as well.

All will be on the ballot separately April 15, with most attention focused on the police chief issue.

The controversy appointed vs. elected chief divides police and municipal officials and authorities on police science. An elected police chief in Albany, Alameda County, for instance, enjoys his independence from city hall, he says, but would rather be appointed, while the mayor of that city said he prefers the chief answering to voters.

San Rafael, which has elected a chief at least as long as the 56 years of the city charter, is one of only three cities in California which still picks its top police executive at the polls. The third community is Santa Clara.

The principal issue of the controversy is whether an elected chief is more susceptible to political vagaries than an appointed one, although Chief Chiesa's illness certainly will be a factor in the San Rafael election.

Despite the fact that the state Workmen's Compensation Appeal Board considers Chiesa 75 per cent disabled as a result of a heart attack last year, the chief says he does not plan to retire.

Remarked City Mgr. Dan E. Andersen, plaintively: "Under the elected system we have, a guy could draw full pay even though he showed up only an hour a day. What can we do? The only thing is to start a recall."

Chiesa, a 30-year police veteran, denied politics interferes with his job and said he campaigns on his own time.

But former Councilman Charles W. Aby, a candidate for mayor April 15, argued that an elected chief can become too independent and "do what he pleases." Dr. Aby also said a candidate for police chief need only be a registered voter in the city for three years to qualify.

"He doesn't even have to be a cop. A police chief should have broad administrative training. But we can't recruit for a good administrator."

Prosecution Psychiatrist Denies Sirhan Psychotic

LOS ANGELES (AP) — At the time he shot Sen. Robert F. Kennedy, Sirhan Bishara Sirhan was not—and is not now—clinically psychotic, a psychiatrist said today.

Dr. Seymour Pollack, testifying for the state at Sirhan's murder trial, said the Arab-born defendant falls under a classification known as "psychosis—nonpsychotic."

A large number of people suffer minimal signs of abnormality and are not clinically psychotic, Pollack said—only "psychosis— nonpsychotic."

Psychiatrists and psychologists who testified for the defense have said Sirhan was so mentally ill—psychotic—that he could not have meaningfully premediated Kennedy's slaying.

Pollack said he did not believe Sirhan suffered from delusions, which he defined as false beliefs of an illogical nature.

"The question is whether Sirhan's belief was a delusion—his belief that Senator Kennedy was the bad person . . . that Sen. Kennedy was anti-Arab, that the American people were supporting the Palestine Jews, that the American government was a hypocritical setup," Pollack continued. "I don't share these beliefs, but there are large numbers of people in the United States who do . . .

"It is my belief that Sirhan's ideas and attitudes about all these were not psychotic delusions.

"If he believed that Sen. Kennedy was not just a bad man, but really a devil, a man who came from outer space, I would

Nixon Sees Foreign Leaders On Wide Range Of Topics

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Richard M. Nixon, receiving a procession of foreign leaders for day-long talks, canvassed with them today on topics ranging from the search for peace in Vietnam to problems involving Europe.

Vietnam and security relationships in Asia were major topics during Nixon's 51-minute conference with Prime Minister John Gorton of Australia, as they were to be at a meeting between Nixon and South Vietnam's Vice President Nguyen Cao Ky.

Prior to the death of former President Dwight D. Eisenhower, Gorton had been scheduled to make an official visit to Washington today and tomorrow

The White House has announced the formal Gorton visit has been rescheduled for May 6-7.

Of the dozen foreign leaders calling on Nixon in his oval office, the first was Prime Minister Mariano Rumor of Italy.

Press secretary Ronald L. Ziegler said their conversations "were something of an extension of the very full and frank discussions" they had on Feb. 28 when Nixon visited Rome. Ziegler said they talked about the search for peace and the need for close and continuing transatlantic consultation on matters of mutual interest.

With Foreign Minister Joseph Luns of the Netherlands, the press secretary said, topics included problems involving Europe and the North Atlantic Treaty Organization and the need to deal with restive young people around the globe.

The guests were getting a red carpet welcome at the diplomatic reception entrance on the south side of the executive mansion, after driving through the grounds between ranks of a saluting military honor guard. From the arrival point, they were escorted to their appointments in Nixon's office.

Luci's Husband Ends Viet Tour

Friends in Washington learned his wife, Luci Johnson Nugent, is expecting Nugent to arrive at the Austin, Tex., airport at 7:40 p.m. tomorrow night aboard a commercial plane from the West Coast.

The young Nugents—she is 21 and he is 25—were married in August 1966, while Johnson was president and they had their wedding reception in the White House. Their son Lynn will be two years old June 21.

Laird Again Trims Viet War Budget

WASHINGTON (AP) — Secretary of Defense Melvin R. Laird, moving to cut military spending another $613 million, announced today plans to reduce B52 bomber sorties and trim several naval ships in the Vietnam war.

Laird also told the House Armed Services Committee he is postponing purchase of a short-range, bomber-launched missile call SRAM until tests show whether it will work.

These actions, repeesenting about half the $613 million, brought to more than $1.1 billion the amount of spending pared by Laird from the Johnson administration's final defense budget for fiscal 1970.

The new total stands at $77.9 billion for the bookkeeping year starting July 1. Pentagon officials indicated more slashes are under study.

His action to reduce the number of B52 sorties in the Vietnam war was a switch from his March 19 position and amounts to at least a partial reinstatement of a Johnson administration plan.

Two weeks ago, after returning from a trip to Vietnam, Laird said "on the basis of my own observations" he had concluded enough money should be provided to support the current rate of B52 sorties through June 1970 as recommended by Gen. Creighton W. Abrams, U.S. commander in Vietnam.

But Laird said today, "As much as I would like to support his recommendation, the budget stringencies under which we must operate in fiscal 1970 will not permit a continuation of that rate beyond June 1969."

The defense secretary did not repeat his March 19 statement that Abrams "considers the B52 to be one of his most important weapons."

There was no indication of how much of a reduction will be made in the current 1,800 bomber sorties a month against enemy targets in South Vietnam and Laos. A sortie is a single flight by a single plane.

The original Johnson defense budget assumed the average number of sorties would decline beginning last January. Laird is willing to pay for the higher monthly number only until July.

His comments were made in a statement for delivery at a closed committee session and released earlier to newsmen.

Laird made it plain the fresh spending reductions were related to President Richard M. Nixon's call for extension of the 10 per cent income tax surcharge.

"The nation is confronted with an extremely difficult and dangerous economic and fiscal situation," Laird said. He noted Nixon had ordered "significant reductions" in federal budget estimates to cope with the problem.

The Pentagon chief's second whack at the defense budget in two weeks was a patchwork including stretching out some projects, deferring others—and in some cases reversing actions Laird announced to the Senate Armed Services Committee only two weeks ago.

Hike In Cable Car Fares Is Before Panel

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — A proposal to raise cable car fares by 10 cents, to 25 cents, was before the city's Public Utilities Commission today.

The proposal also includes increasing the basic Municipal Railway fare from 15 cents to 20 cents, with a 25 cent fare on express buses.

A 5 cents senior citizen fare, based on presentation of a Medicare card during off-peak hours from 10 a.m. to 3 p.m. daily, is included in the proposal. Senior citizens now pay the standard 15 cents fare.

Pact Reached For Anguilla

LONDON (AP) — Acting president Ronald Webster and other rebel leaders of Anguilla have agreed to work with British Commissioner Anthony Lee in governing the tiny Caribbean island, the Foreign Office announced last night.

A Foreign Office spokesman said the agreement was worked out in meetings between Britain's representative at the United Nations, Lord Caradon, and the Anguilla Council.

He said Lee will remain on the island as commissioner, but the British government will recognize the local council elected last year. Lee had been planning to govern Anguilla with a board of appointed advisers.

The metropolitan New Orleans population jumped 21 per cent from 1960 to 1968, to 1.1 million.

168 Mexican Miners May Be In Shaft

MONTERREY, Mexico (AP) — Officials reported 168 miners are believed trapped today in a coal mine ripped by a tremendous methane gas explosion in the state of Coahuila.

The blast tore through the mine yesterday afternoon. As of this morning six bodies had been brought out, said officials of the company, Altos Hornos de Mexico. They added that one of the bodies was that of a rescue worker who was overcome by gas.

Gas still lingered in pockets of the two mine shafts where, according to work list data supplied by the company, the 168 men remained trapped.

The lists showed 43 miners trapped in the No. 3 shaft, where the explosion occurred. Officials said it was probably caused by a short circuit.

Another 125 were trapped in the nearby No. 2 shaft, officials said. All were believed to be at a depth of about 1,700 feet.

Troops were rushed out to control victims' families who rioted at the tunnel extrances. The crowds calmed down later.

The mine is at Barroteran, with a population of 8,000 people, about 75 miles southwest of the Texas border town of Eagle Pass.

Cost High, But Reds Lose Major Mountain

CAN THO, South Vietnam (London Express) — The million-dollar mountain was conquered yesterday after 28 years of Communist control.

It was taken with an incredible blend of sheer guts, fifth Century war dances and 20th Century napalm bombing raids.

It was one of the most significant victories ever achieved in South Vietnam's Mekong Delta where the Viet Cong still control at least 2.5 million people.

The price was high. It was a six-month campaign of fearful attrition for the American Green Berets and the tribal forces they lead.

In the last brutal days alone they lost 37 killed and more than 200 wounded.

The jagged crags and boulders rising 400 feet out of the flat delta were nicknamed million-dollar mountain by the Americans because of the cost of the tons of bombs and shells hurled against the target.

But to the Vietnamese the landmark was superstitious mountain a legendary Viet Cong chieftain, Chau Kem, had made it his fortress. The locals said it was impregnable and he was invincible.

A physical giant and a born leader, Chau Kem played on the fears of the Vietnamese who believed that the spirit of Buddha had left the mountain. Anyone who had died there would wander forever in purgatory.

As a result, regular South Vietnamese troops did not attack it. The Americans had to bring in Montagnard tribesmen to prove the legend meant nothing. The Montagnards performed one of their ancient war dances and were then satisfied they had sufficiently purged the superstition to get on with the fight.

Chau Kem is still alive after the battle, but he has been forced to flee, his image of invincibility shattered.

In their years on the mountain since 1941, the Viet Cong have become crack snipers, fending off first the Japanese then the French and finally the Americans. They knew every inch of their home.

What will happen to the million-dollar mountain now? The Americans will stay. They are dropping leaflets on surrounding villages saying that they and the Saigon regime are the new invincible masters of the somber granite pile.

Fire Hits Flats In San Francisco

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI)—A three alarm fire swept through a three story flat in the Mission district today, causing an estimated $20,000 damage. Two families were evacuated safely.

Firemen said the blaze broke out at the rear of the structure at 17th and Valencia streets. It houses a Mexican restaurant on the first floor and apartments on the second and third.

Fire Chief William Murray summoned 26 pieces of equipment and 150 men to fight the flames. One fireman was slightly injured and was treated for particles in the eye.

In Good Condition

James A. Taylor, 54, of 36 Canyon Road, San Anselmo, was reported in good condition today at Marin General Hospital after treatment for an overdose of pills taken at his home shortly before midnight last night, police reported.

WIRE NEWS BRIEFS From Everywhere

Strike Jams Paris

PARIS (AP) — Lights went out and traffic piled up in Paris today in the first of a series of regional strikes by utility workers ordered by the Communist General Confederation of Workers. The workers want more money.

The electrical workers pulled the switches on most of the Paris area for brief periods. When the traffic lights went dark, cacophonous traffic jams resulted.

Copter Crash Kills 11

SAIGON (AP) — A U.S. helicopter attempting an emergency landing crashed and burned in a busy street near Tan Son Nhunt air base today killing the four American crewmen and seven Vietnamese motorists and pedestrians.

A witness said the helicopter crash in a busy Cach Mang Street sent up "a wall of flame and smoke."

Initial reports said the four Americans and two Vietnamese were killed and five other Vietnamese were injured. A U.S. spokesman said later that the five injured died.

Truck Driver Heart Patient In Good Shape

PALO ALTO (AP) — A Crescent City truck driver continues his satisfactory recovery at Stanford Medical Center, with hopes he can follow the route of three other heart transplant patients here — they went home.

Campbell's new heart came from a donor whose name was not disclosed by the hospital. The Palo Alto Times reported the donor was Ralph D. May II, 21, a Foothill College student killed last Tuesday in a traffic accident.

Uproar Over Bases

TOKYO (AP) — Prime Minister Eisaku Sato's outspoken older brother, former Prime Minister Nobusuke Kishi, stirred up a hornet's nest here when he gave some of his personal opinions at a Washington news conference.

Kishi, in Washington to attend the funeral of former President Dwight D. Eisenhower, said he favors letting the United States keep its bases on Okinawa after the island is returned to Japan if the installations are stripped of atomic weapons.

Sato, whose government has carefully avoided taking a stand on the sensitive issue, said his brother's comments came as "a complete surprise" and that the had instructed Foreign Minister Kiichi Aichi to advise the former prime minister "to use discretion."

Test Ban Sought

The draft, introduced by Swedish delegate Alva Myrdal, calls for "inspection by invitation" and exchange of seismological data between the nuclear powers. Any nation suspecting a nuclear power of cheating could complain to the U.N. Security Council.

The proposal was viewed as an attempt to compromise between the positions of the Soviet Union, which refuses to allow foreign inspectors on its territory, and to the United States, which contends that such inspections are necessary to insure compliance.

48,000 Cut By Agencies

WASHINGTON (AP) — Employment in certain federal agencies was cut by about 48,000 in the first eight months since a bill to trim government spending was passed.

In releasing the preliminary figures today, Rep. George H. Mahon, D-Tex., noted the cutback was partially offset by increases of about 15,000 in employment exempted by the Revenue and Expenditure Control Act of 1968.

The act which went into effect in July required many federal agencies to trim the number of permanent employees on the payroll.

Fairfax Council Fails To Rename Rec Panel Leader To New Term

The Fairfax City Council last night in effect fired the head of its parks and recreation commission by not reappointing him and named a new member to replace him. The action sparked the resignation of a third member and may lead a fourth to quit, it was learned.

The action followed an inconclusive meeting on March 10 during which Stanley W. Little, ousted last night as chairman of the parks and recreation panel, expressed disappointment that the council did not take action than to reappoint him and Dolores Dollahite. Mayor Robert R. Souza said then that he wanted more time to evaluate the appointments.

Little was removed when the board voted 4 to 1 last night to appoint Joan Brown and reappoint Mrs. Dollahite. A move later by council member Frank J. Egger to reconsider the appointments failed by a 3-2 vote with Adelaide P. Wilson siding with Egger and members Francis J. O'Connell and Cornelus Van Vliet joining Souza. Mrs. Wilson was the only member who voted against the appointments.

Mrs. Brown, a teacher in the Miller Creek School in San Rafael, has been a group counselor at Juvenile Hall. She lives at 165 Bolinas Road in Fairfax.

Louis Soldavini, parks and recreation commissioner, told the Independent-Journal after the meeting that he intended to resign because of the removal of Little and would do so at the commission's meeting at 8 p.m. today at the Fairfax Women's Club.

There were also indications that Mrs. Dollahite would resign as a result of last night's action. She was not available for comment today.

The only discussion of the action was brief when Egger moved to reconsider. After the meeting, Souza said he had nothing personal against Little but he though the move was in the best interests of the city. He said he and Little did not have "a fundamental difference" about parks and recreation policies but said they disagreed on "overall programs."

Souza said he had not conferred with Little before making his recommendations last night. Little was not at the meeting and was unavailable for comment today.

The appointments were the only controversial actions taken by the council in an unusually short 89-minute meeting marked by rare unanimity. The split votes on the parks and recreation appointments and the motion to reconsider were the only votes in more than a dozen on which the members failed to agree.

A potentially divisive discussion on a request by David A. Smith for a 7-11 Store at 161 Bolinas Road was postponed until the April 7 meeting because Smith was not present. The location, which has been zoned commercial but never used for business, is scheduled to be zoned residential in the city's master plan.

The modern calendar owes its basic form to Julius Caesar. In 46 B.C., Caesar decreed at 365-day year with an extra day every fourth February. Until then, the year had 355 days, plus added months or days to make it conform to the solar year. To start 45 B.C. in alignment with the seasons, Caesar extended the year 46 to 445 days.

The Fairfax City Council Also:

ORDINANCE — Held a four-minute puublic hearing during which no one appeared on a proposed zoning ordinance amendment to continue a requirement for special use permits for major development or improvements in the downtown area. Final action will be taken on the amendment at the April 7 meeting.

DRUNKS — Agreed with Mrs. Wilson that "it's not our responsibility to protect any house from any drunken driver coming off the road" in refusing a request by Max Weissenberg for a city-erected guard rail in front of his property on Ridgeway Avenue.

NUISANCE—Declared a septic tank which has slipped into a creek behind the Edward B. Edsberg residence at 36 Merwin Avenue a public nuisance and ordered Edsberg to remove it.

PERMIT — Denied a request for a building permit from Joseph Rosenberg at 27 Holly Road because of lack of adequate water tor fire protection.

APPOINTMENT — Named Jack Utey, last year's Fairfax Senior Citizen, as liaison man for the city to the California Commission on Aging.

LEGISLATION — Backed proposed legislation to provide $25 million in state aid to cities and counties for flood damage and delayed consideration of legislation to set the voluntary retirement age for policemen and firemen at 50.

TOPLESS — Decided to take no action for or against a proposed state law to regulate the apparel of employees of establishments serving food and beverages, a proposal aimed squarely at topless waitresses. Souza said the topless problem in Fairfax had "died a cold death" long ago.

HIPPIES — Asked the city attorney to come up with a proposed ordinance governing activities on public property, a move aimed at loitering hippies in the city. An ordinance to control hitchhiking was also discussed and the city attorney was asked to prepare an opinion on whether such an ordinance would be legal.

Navy Weighs Revamping Missile Subs

WASHINGTON (AP) — Secretary John H. Chafee disclosed today the Navy is considering a new long-range submarine missile system to meet the increasing threat from the Soviet Union in the 1970s.

Chafee told the Senate Armed Services Committee of plans for the new, multi-billion dollar system, even as work is beginning to convert the first of 31 ballistic missile submarines from the Polaris to the new multi-warhead Poseidon.

His testimony was given to a closed committee session but was made public.

Chafee said "It is quite clear that the Soviet Navy presents a serious and growing threat to our continued supremacy on the seas," including a nuclear that that "he's grown more rapidly than expected, both in quality and in number."

He cited the possibility of an extensive Soviet antisubmarine warfare effort against the U.S. fleet of 41 Polaris and Poseidon submarines and said, "In preparation for such Soviet efforts, we are examining a longer-range submarine launched missile system."

Group To Fight Unification

An organization called the Committee for More Competent People has been formed in the Tamalpais High School District to elect school trustees who oppose the proposal that would split the Tam district into three separate unified high school districts.

The group, headed by Priscilla Gray of Fairfax and Sophia Spencer of San Anselmo, specifically wants to defeat trustee David D. Ring, a member of the County Committee on School District Organization which proposed the split.

The committee will back candidates Gloria Melbostad of Mill Valley, Robert Corlett of San Anselmo, and Brice Pace of Fairfax, for election to the Tam High board. All are opponents of the split.

Tactical Squad Boss Sees Rioting Summer

By LARRY D. HATFIELD

San Francisco is in for a long summer of disturbances and police-demonstrator confrontations — particularly in areas like Haight-Ashbury, according to the commander of San Francisco's much-maligned tactical unit.

But, added Lt. James Curran, a 22-year veteran of the city's police force, he is confident any violence can be contained without calling in federal troops.

"The way things stand right now," Curran said in an interview after he spoke to the San Rafael Rotary Club yesterday, "we won't have to depend on outside help. But you never know, things could explode. . . ."

He said that several incidents in the city since the weather turned warm — including a tense Haight disturbance Sunday during which a black youth was shot — indicate "we'll have a busy summer."

"We've been rather busy in the (Golden Gate) park since the nice weather," he said. Fifteen of Curran's 34 tactical unit men were at the scene of the Sunday shooting.

Expressing confidence in the ability of Bay Area police to contain any summer disturbances without federal help, Curran, a native of San Rafael, said there had been "more than enough" police — state and local — to handle the uprising on the San Francisco State College during the winter.

During his speech to the Rotarians, Curran warned "there is an all-out campaign to build and foment" discordance amond the nation's youth.

Urging citizen participation in upholding the law, Curran said, "Apparently patriotism is now a bad word and has been watered down by those people who say it is some kind of extremism."

Asked what he was doing to upgrade the image of the tac unit, which has been reviled as "racist," fascist," "pigs" and other epithets, Curran replied, "I'm not doing a thing. In my mind, it (the unit) is doing a wonderful job . . . the best possible job."

He added that he would like to see the size of the unit doubled but said he did not see how it could be done because of the police force's manpower pinch.

Curran, a San Rafael native who attended Coleman School and the old St. Raphael's High School, also said he thought criminals are being protected too much by the courts. "We have to start protecting the people," he said. "Laws are to protect the citizen and not the criminal. I think it's swayed too far the other way."

On police brutality, Curran said, "There is a thin line between police brutality and self-defense."

On the "bad cop," he said, "Once in a while, we get a bad officer . . . (and) he gets bad publicity and all of a sudden, he becomes the symbol of the policeman when actually he is the exception."

On demands by many that the tac unit be abloished: "I can't understand why a person would not want the law enforced."

On the tactical unit itself: "We are nothing special. We are policemen. This is our main job and this is what we're trying to do."

Cat Door Burglar Gets Off With $200

Ivan J. Silverberg told Corte Madera police last night that someone kicked in the cat door on the door of his house at 273 Summit Avenue yesterday, crawled through and made off with $200 in coins.

The money was in wrapped rolls, Silverberg told officers, and entry was made between 7 a.m. and 7:30 p.m., yesterday.

Boston Dock Strike Ends With Pact

BOSTON (UPI)—Longshoremen were reporting for work in the Port of Boston today for the first time in 101 days under a new three-year contract with a no-strike clause said to be unique in the American shipping industry.

The striking longshoremen voted 486-113 yesterday to accept the contract. Some 1,500 members of the International Longshoremen's Association (ILA) have been on strike against the Boston Shipping Association (BSA) since Dec. 20.

Except for the no-strike clause, the new contract is essentially similar to one which ended a walkout at New York. Boston was the last major port on the East Coast to settle the strike, which initially affected facilities from Maine to Mexico.

A union spokesman said work crews would start returning to the docks today, with all of the men expected back by Thursday. The port itself was not expected to resume normal operations until tomorrow at the earliest.

Youth Is Cited On Marijuana Possession

A 14-year-old San Rafael boy has been cited to juvenile authorities after officials at Davidson Junior High School said they found marijuana cigarette in his locker and a quantity of the weed in a plastic container in his wallet.

Principal Hanlon P. Tharp said the boy told him Friday he was holding the marijuana for an unidentified friend.

Eisenhower Train On Slow Trip Westward

memorial service that was canceled.

At the rear of the train, came the private railroad car of the former President, this time carrying his widow on the long trip west from Washington.

At midnight the funeral train will reach Abilene, the last scene for the five days of farewell to the general who led history's mightiest armies to victory in World War II.

The burial, beside his first son who died in infancy, will be tomorrow in the Eisenhower Center, a memorial library and chapel built on what was a cornfield when the world leader was a boy in this frontier cattle town at the turn of the century.

President Richard M. Nixon was blinking back tears as he left the train station in Washington yesterday after the flag-covered coffin was carried aboard the funeral car to begin the 1,300-mile trip in the twilight of a chill spring day.

The presidential widow, Mamie Doud Eisenhower, veiled in black, held onto the arm of her son John during the services and wept quietly at the last hymn: "Onward, Christian Soldiers."

Lyndon B. Johnson, one of the nation's two surviving ex-Presidents, returned to Washington for the first time for the funeral, exactly one year to the very day after his historic announcement that he would not run again.

With Nixon and De Gaulle as mourners in the cathedral were the Shah of Iran, the king of Belgium, the grand duke of Austria, the prime ministers of Canada and Australia, the chancellor of Germany.

From the towering Gothic cathedral, the body was borne by hearse to the train station in sight of the majestic dome of the U.S. Capitol, where Eisenhower had lain in state for the last day.

A 21-gun salute at dusk, the measured cadence of military footsteps, a hush amid the mourners, accompanied the simple soldier's casket to its black catafalque in the baggage car.

The family perhaps recalling the deaths of two onlookers as the funeral train of Robert F. Kennedy threaded its way through the throngs from New York to Washington only a year ago, had sought to avoid the crowds in a trip barren of ceremony.

At the rear of the train was the plush private railroad car that had carried Eisenhower to Abilene in 1952 to announced his candidacy for the White House.

Only a year ago it had carried him westward to the golfing vacation to California where he was stricken with the first of a series of heart attacks resulting in his death.

Now it bore his widow, his son, and his grandson, David, who became 21 on the day of the funeral.

Boy Saves Two; Adults Ignore Pleas

A 15-year-old San Anselmo boy rescued two children from drowning in heavy surf Sunday at Stinson Beach while nearby adults refused to help, he said.

The rescue was made by Tim Thompson, son of Mr. and Mrs. W. G. Thompson of 19 Oak Avenue, a sophomore at Marin Catholic High School, where he is an honor student and athlete.

The two children were about 7 and 9 years old, Tim told the Independent-Journal. They were brothers, and their last name was Page, he said, but he got no other details about them after the rescue.

The two children had been walking on some rocks at the south end of the beach when they fell in the surf. The younger one had a cast on one leg.

Their cries for help were ignored by about 15 nearby adults, Tim said, and by the time he reached the water the older boy already had been swept about 30 yards out to sea.

Tim first got the younger boy back up on the rocks, then swam out and managed to bring in the older one. In the process, Tim said, he lost his pants, which became too heavy to wear.

Meanwhile, Tim's friend, Marie O'Donnell, 14, of Kentfield, pleaded in vain with the adults on the beach to help Tim. "They didn't say a word" in response of her pleas, Tim reported.

Other friends, however, ran and got the lifeguards further up the beach. By the time the lifeguards arrived, however, Tim had both boys back on the beach.

Tim, noting he has a pool at home, conceded he was a "pretty good swimmer." Also, he added, he took a junior life saving course at Tamalpais High School one summer.

SIRHAN

consider more seriously that sirhan had delusions.

"Had I as a psychiatrist met Sirhan before the shooting I wouldn't have been able to determine any serious psychopathic distrubances," he testified. "I would have been unable to forecast prior to the time of the shooting that Sirhan would have done what he did."

Sirhan's defenders are trying to show his mind was incapable of plotting the June 5, 1968 assassination and therefore he should not be convicted of first degree murder, in which premeditation is an important element. The sentence for first degree murder, to be set by the jury, is either death or life imprisonment.

There has been testimony that Sirhan began going into trances during childhood in Palestine when he witnessed scenes of war. The defense claims he was in a similar trance when he mortally wounded Kennedy.

Kenneth Hahn, a member of the Los Angeles County Board of Supervisors said Monday the Sirhan case has cost the county $858,595. He estimated the cost eventually will top $1 million.

Robbins Sets Series Of Coffee Meetings

Osborn of 275 Center Street; 10 a.m. April 10, Mr. and Mrs. Lloyd Hennen, 63 Lucas Park Drive, and 8 p.m. April 11, Mr. and Mrs. Frnak B. Peebles, 31 Maywood Avenue.

came here to attend funeral services for Eisenhower were largely ceremonial in nature.

Ky will be flying from Washington to the Vietnam peace talks in Paris and it seemed certain he and Nixon would discuss that parley, as they did when they met in Paris a month go during the chief executive's European tour.

Another ally in the Vietnam war, President Ferdinand Marcos of the Philippines, said enroute to Washington that he had unspecified "urgent" matters he wanted to discuss with Nixon.

Others to see Nixon today were:

Chung II Kwon of South Korea, Marcello Caetoma of Portugal and Suleiman Demirel of Turkey.

Also Chancellor Kurt Georg Kiesinger of West Germany, the Shah of Iran, President Habib Bourguiba of Tunesia and Former Prime Minister Nobusuke Kishi of Japan.

Today's talks followed a large diplomatic reception Nixon gave at the White House last night for the heads of state and other dignitaries who came for the Eisenhower state funeral.

LAW IN ACTION

From the State Bar Of California

Crimes May Be Torts As Well

Assault and battery is a crime in California, but it is also a "tort." A criminal court may sentence a person who punches your nose to jail, and you may also sue him for money damages in a civil court.

An assault is "an unlawful attempt, coupled with a present ability to commit a violent injury on the person of another," says California's Penal Code. A battery is any willful and unlawful use of force or violence upon another person. One crime is the attempt; the other, the completed act.

What about people engaging in sports, such as two boxers. Are Battling Bill and Grizzly George committing assault and battery as they whack away at each other? No, because they have each legally consented to the acts of the other.

But what if the presumed victim cannot give consent? For example, a man is injured and unconscious. A doctor sees that an operation is essential. Can he operate without consent?

The California law says the doctor has "implied consent" to perform an emergency operation. However, whether he has implied or real consent, a doctor cannot go beyond the necessities imposed by the emergency.

Here is a difficult borderline area of the law. How far may the surgeon lawfully go when he finds unexpected conditions that need remedy? There is no precise definition; each case must rest upon the facts.

Can a person consent to an illegal assault? Suppose that in the heat of a quarrel a husband said to his wife, "If you don't like me go ahead and shoot me! I dare you!" And she does. Is this consent? No, because the act is illegal and the law will not permit a person to consent to an illegal act.

expected to last about 25 minutes.

The service will be conducted by the Rev. Robert H. MacAskill of the First Presbyterian church of Gettysburg, Pa., and the Rev. Dean Miller of Palm Desert Community Church.

Then the casket will be carried along the broad sidewalk to the tiny chapel about 100 yards west of the library.

The coffin will be placed on a temporary wooden platform built over a sunken crypt some 15 feet inside the chapel door. The body will lie next to that of the Eisenhowers' first-born son, Doud Dwight Eisenhower, who died of scarlet fever at the age of 3 in 1921.

There is room inside the chapel for only about 80 invited persons. No news coverage of the 15-minute final rites there will be permitted. A loudspeaker will carry words of the clergyman—yet to be chosen—to those outside.

Just before the benediction, a battery of cannon placed east of the library will fire a 21-gun salute. Following the benediction, a rifle squad will fire the traditional three volleys and a bugler will play "Taps."

Then "West Point, Alma Mater" will be played and as the last notes fade away, Lt. Gen. V. P. Mock, 5th Army commander, will present the folded flag from the casket to Mrs. Eisenhower with the simple words uttered at all military funerals:

"This flag is presented to you on behalf of a grateful nation as a token of appreciation for the honorable and faithful service rendered by your loved one."

of San Rafael after leaning of an opinion from the attorney general's office that the state must enter the litigation.

The suit, filed in November 1966, accuses the city of betraying its residents by allegedly establishing a careless and inaccurate tidelands boundary for the yacht club.

A pretrial conference has been scheduled for 4 p.m. April 16 in Marin Superior Court and the lands commission staff indicated it would try to postpone any action pending introduction of legislation.

Paul M. Joseph, deputy state attorney general, said Assemblyman William T. Bagley, R-San Rafael, would introduce legislation during the current session on problems with the San Rafael Canal.

"It's quite vital that these boundary problems be settled," Joseph said.

Weinberger indicated that legislation under consideration would have the state paying for a survey currently the responsibility of the City of San Rafael.

State Is Hit By Outbreak Of Meningitis

BERKELEY (UPI) — A severe outbreak of meningitis — with the death rate running as high as one in five — is sweeping California, the state Health Department said today.

So far, at least 13 persons have died from the disease this year and the tabulations are far from complete, according to Dr. James Chin, a department specialist in epidenics.

Chin said there were 227 reported cases through March 22 — a rate triple that of last year. And then final figures for the first three months of the year are in, Chin said, the number of meningitis cases will almost certainly exceed last year's total of 244.

"Epidemic is a word I don't like to use," Chin said, "but it is at least fair to say we are concerned about a marked increase that has hit California."

Chin said the death rate "is running between 15 and 20 per cent."

California appears to be unique in experiencing the outbreak and "sticks out like a sore thumb," the doctor said. "I don't really have any theories as to why we're in the lead, so to speak."

In its early stages, meningitis symptoms include respiratory congestion and a measles-like rash. Infants and children under 5 are its prime target with teenagers and young adults of military and college age a close second.

Chin said meningitis outbreaks generally occur in cycles and it "does not look as if we've come close to reaching the peak yet."

Sales Indicate Type Of Weather

Roy G. Oliver, chairman of the S. G. Taylor Chain Co., Hammond, Ind., said sales of chains to dealers and distributors are running ahead of normal.

He attributes the early interest in tire chains to the fact that motorists have experienced severe snow and ice conditions in various parts of the country the last couple of winters.

"So dealers now are apparently figuring old fashioned winters are on the way back and they want to be ready for another bonanza for tire chains," Oliver said.

A private survey shows that 2,620 political subdivisions were leavying property taxes in Missouri in 1968.

The University of Iowa was the first state university to admit women on an equal basis with men.

Safeguard's Foes Hope Nixon Shifts

WASHINGTON (AP) — Sen. Albert Gore, D-Tenn., a major foe of the Safeguard missile defense plan, suggested today the administration might "move to get itself off this hook" by shifting its position.

President Richard M. Nixon seeks funds to go ahead with deployment of antiballistic missiles around two U.S. missile bases, but faces strong opposition.

"I wouldn't be surprised if the administration didn't move to get itself off this hook," Gore told newsmen. "I don't know how."

But the Senate's leaders, Mike Mansfield, D-Mont., and Everett M. Dirksen, R-Ill., said they knew of no change in Nixon's position.

Mansfield said he had no hint of administration reconsiderations, but added there might be a reassessment at the White House if arms control talks with the Soviet Union are initiated.

Gore said such talks might provide an avenue to change the administration plan. "An obvious way would be to initiate negotiations and, in view of that, not press it," he said.

Mansfield said meanwhile he will not "put profits before peace" and permit himself to be swayed toward support of the Safeguard system by financial benefits to his home state, proposed site of one Safeguard base.

"To permit considerations of some local monetary gain to enter into the ABM decision would be tantamount to deciding to continue the Vietnamese war because it has kept the helicopter industry prosperous," he said.

Mansfield said the grave doubts about the feasibility, the cost, the necessity, the international impact of the ABM plan should be explored before the Senate decides whether to approve funds for the system.

But he said the Senate should not consider the economic benefits "which presumably will flow to certain states in the form of federal expenditures for the missile system."

AT EISENHOWER'S FUNERAL

Milton Eisenhower Misses Ike's Rites

WASHINGTON (AP) — Dr. Milton Eisenhower spent the night under medical observation in Walter Reed Army Hospital after he complained of feeling dizzy just before the funeral of his older brother, former President Dwight D. Eisenhower.

"He was taken to Walter Reed simply for rest prior to leaving for Abilene," said George S. Wills of Johns Hopkins University in Baltimore where Dr. Eisenhower is president emeritus. "His hospitalization is purely precautionary."

Burial of former president Eisenhower will be tomorrow in Abilene, Kan.

Dr. Eisenhower, one of two surviving brothers of the former president, was with the Eisenhower family in a hotel yesterday when he became ill.

MILTON EISENHOWER
Rests in hospital

He was taken by military ambulance to the hospital where his brother died last Friday.

"I think it was just a case of tiredness," Hagerty said on ABC television.

Dr. Eisenhower, a noted educator who was president of Johns Hopkins University for 11 years, had a close relationship with his brother and served as an informal adviser when he was in the White House. Dr. Eisenhower went on three missions to Latin America for his brother.

Watches Stolen

Two watches valued at $25 each were stolen from the glove compartment of Dr. Thomas Hart's car while parked at United Market, 100 Red Hill Avenue, San Anselmo, Saturday, he told police yesterday. Dr. Hart, who lives at Upper Road West, Ross, said he parked at the market at 12:50 p.m.

Tougher Smog Control Rules To Get Hearing

I-J Speciel Reaport

SAN FRANCISCO — A tough new yardstick for measuring the quality of air, proposed by the state Department of Public Health, will be reviewed by Bay Area Air Pollution Control District directors at 10 a.m. tomorrow at district offices at 939 Ellis Street.

Air quality now is measured by "adverse levels," or levels of pollution at which health effects are noticed. The proposed "air quality standards" are about one third tougher, thus the district's enforcement program would have to be stepped up considerably.

The Department of Public Health proposed that its "air quality standards" be adopted by the state Air Resources Board, but the board asked that statewide public hearings be held first by the department on its proposed standards.

IKE TO REST IN UNIFORM

ABILENE, KAN. (AP) — Former President Dwight D. Eisenhower is being buried in his World War II uniform, with the short-waisted coat he made famous as the "Eisenhower Jacket."

The jacket is adorned with only three of his medals — the Army Distinguished Service Medal, the Navy Distinguished Service Medal and the Legion of Merit.

Injuries Minor

Jack W. Newman, 50, of 107 East Strawberry, escaped with a scraped left cheek yesterday when his car plunged 110 feet down a bank off Bolinas Ridge Road in Mount Tamalpais State Park, the California Highway Patrol reported. Newman was taken to Marin General Hospital after the accident at 12:45 p.m. but did not require treatment, according to the hospital.

Train Stations Thronged In Last Tributes To Ike

HUNTINGTON, W.Va. (AP)—Thousands of West Virginians stood hushed in predawn cold this morning to pay their last respects to Dwight D. Eisenhower.

Brief memorial services were conducted here as the general's funeral train paused 12 minutes for a change in crews before entering Kentucky and winding along the Ohio River to Cincinnati.

Earlier, hundreds of persons stood near the Chesapeake & Ohio Railway tracks in White Sulphur Springs, Hinton, Ronceverte, Montgomery, Charleston and St. Albans, W.Va., to watch the 10-car train as it rolled from the nation's capital toward the former president's final resting place on the plains at Abilene, Kan.

In Huntington, a color guard from the American Legion, Veterans of Foreign Wars, Veterans of World War I and the Disabled American Veterans stood silently as the Rev. James C. Burchett delivered a brief invocation immediately after the train arrived at 5:40 a.m.

Mary Johnson, a young Negro from the Women's Job Corps Center here, sang a hymn, "How Great Thou Art," and the crowd of more than 1,000 joined in somber tones in the recitation of the Lord's Prayer.

Col. Clemence Riley, an Army representative traveling on the train, thanked the crowd on behalf of the Eisenhower family. Eric France, a high school teacher, played Taps just prior to the train's departure at 5:52 a.m.

The body of the two-term president, who last traveled through Huntington in 1952 on a campaign train, lay shrouded in a casket in the train's second car — baggage car No. 314.

In Charleston, police estimated the crowd at the city's small train station at about 600 persons. Most obviously had awakened early to pay their last respects. Many parents brought their children some still in pajamas but bundled in coats and blankets against the 20-degree cold.

A 60-man unit of the West Virginia National Guard and Gov. Arch A. Moore's four-man honor guard, dressed in frontier costumes of white buckskin, snapped to attention as the train came into sight, then presented their arms as it passed through the station.

The crowd was quiet. The time was 4:36 a.m.

Ike was right on schedule.

Court To Rule On Pool Uses

COMBINED AP & UPI

WASHINGTON — The Supreme Court, in a major civil rights move, agreed today to decide whether Negroes have a right to use private all-white community parks and swimming pools.

The pace-setting case comes from suburban Fairfax County, Va., where a Negro family renting a house from a white family was forbidden to use the subdivision's recreational facilities.

Both families sued and claimed violations of their civil rights. They said the 1966 Civil Rights Law, which the court has said bars discrimination in private housing sales, also protects the Negro family's right to use the facilities.

COURT ORDER

Last June, acting on an earlier appeal, the court directed Virginia state courts to reconsider rulings against the two families. The Supreme Court of Appeals of Virginia, in October, turned the cases down on procedural grounds.

Now the high court itself will settle the issue, in a ruling that undoubtedly will have broad national implications.

Last term's decision assured Negroes equal access to private homes in burgeoning developments. This case tests their right, when there to use all the benefits of suburban living.

In other actions today, the court:

Upheld the rights of unions to punish workers who go over production quotas. It said, 7 to 1, that fining or even expelling workers who exceed production quotas set by the union is a matter of internal union policy not forbidden by federal labor law.

WOLFSON CASE

Refused to throw out the federal securities conviction of Louis E. Wolfson, the junkyard owner's son who became a millionaire industrialist and now faces a year in prison Wolfson was convicted in 1967 in New York City of selling a large block of unregistered stock.

Rejected an attack on the constitutionality of a New York state law that bars strikes by public employees.

Gave Clark Clifford, President Lyndon B. Johnson's last secretary of defense and a prominet lawyer, what may turn out to be an historic assignment.

The job is to represent a Missouri convict who raises the constitutional claim that defendants in state trials should have the same protection against double jeopardy that federal defendants have enjoyed since 1791.

The prisoner, Bob Fred Ashe, is serving a 35-year sentence for armed robbery. He was granted a hearing last month and, from the Missouri State Penitentiary, asked the court to provide him with a lawyer.

TO PRESENT CASE

Clifford was assigned and will present Ashe's case at a hearing next fall.

The prominent assignment suggests the court may be of a mind to apply the prohibition against double jeopardy to the states. The provision, a part of the Fifth Amendment, is one of the few Bill of Rights guarantees that has been reserved so far for federal trials alone.

Reversed the conviction of a man found guilty of holding up a Fresno Western Union office on the ground that his pre-trial identification in a lineup violates "due process of law."

Justice Abe Fortas, speaking for the majority, noted that the convicted man, Walter B. Foster, was first placed in a three-man lineup. But Western Union's late night manager, Joseph David, could not positively identify him. Then Foster was brought into an office and faced David across a table. David was still uncertain.

Finally police arranged a second lineup of five men, all new to David except Foster. This time David was "convinced" Foster was the man and testified so at the trial.

CASE SETTLED

The Justice Department has settled its antitrust case against 18 publishers. However, damage suits have been filed by 35 cities and states claiming their schools and libraries were the victims of an unlawful price-fixing conspiracy.

The publishers challenged a ruling by Federal Judge Bernard M. Decker of Chicago, where one suit is pending, that the plaintiffs may use Justice Department documents and material subpoenaed by a federal grand jury.

Ordered a hearing for a Yugoslav student who the government said "fell into an electronic surveillance."

Emmanual Blaz Mrkonjic-Ruzic, a doctoral student at Hunter College in New York City, is under a five-year sentence for giving false information to immigration officials.

His otherwise routine case took on special significance when the government volunteered to the court last month that he had been "overheard" in an electronic surveillance. The government did not explain the bugging operation.

Hearing on a motion by the attorney for Frank Werber to suppress evidence seized during last October's narcotics raid at Werber's Marin County home has been continued until April 28.

The continuance was granted by U.S. District Judge William T. Sweigert Friday in San Francisco in order to give attorney Daniel H. Weinstein more time to develop his objections, according to Judge Sweigert's clerk.

Meanwhile, a trial date was to be set tomorrow for Charles P. Barrett of Sausalito and Stanley Mulligan of Corte Madera, who were arrested on suspicion of conspiracy to smuggle into the U.S. the marijuana seized during during the raid on Werber's home, according to Asst. U.S. Atty. Michael H. Metzger.

"Actually, we expect the time for setting a trial date to be reset until April 28," Metzger said.

Both Barrett and Mulligan are pleading innocent to the charges, according to Metzger, but are expected to testify against Werber who has pleaded innocent of conspiracy to import marijuana.

Werber has been ordered to be prepared to face trial within a week after the April 28 hearing, Metzger said.

Werber, 39, the former manager of the Kingston Trio, and five other persons were arrested on suspicion of narcotics possession at a raid Oct. 14 on his home at 4 DeSilva Island near Richardson Bay Bridge.

Werber, his girlfriend Judith Anne Sloper, Bryce Staples Wilson of Kentfield and Frank J. Mathieson of San Anselmo also are scheduled for trial in Marin Superior Court June 23 on charges of growing and possessing marijuana. All four have pleaded innocent.

Art Sleuth Named

It was Marin Sheriff's Deputy Russell Hunt, not Norman Johnson, who discovered pranksters had hidden a large exhibit of paintings in Bolinas Sunday, as reported in the Independent-Journal. The exhibitors had thought the collection was stolen.

E. Simpson, who conducted an investigation of the San Rafael Police Department in 1962 and recommended the first charter amendment to change the elective system, said in his report:

"I could not find an authority on police matters who believed it was correct procedure to elect a chief of police. All agree that open competitive examination properly conducted is the best known technique for insuring administrative competence."

With an elected chief, Simpson continued, "the public at large tends to be suspicious that police actions are political in origin or that police commissions are political in origin."

Professor Gordon Misner of the school of criminology at the University of California at Berkeley said he prefers the appointive system provided a "realistic search" is made for a chief, but says being elected has an advantage in that it "tends to make the officeholder more sensitive to changing community attitudes."

Misner said a study he recently conducted on the "Politics of a Metropolitan Sheriff's Election" revealed that about 90 per cent of the persons sampled believed the sheriff should be elected, but only about 10 per cent knew the sheriff's name.

Also opposed to the elective process is the International Association of Chiefs of Police. Executive director Quinn Tamm said that "very, very few" of the 18,000 cities in the U. S. have elected chiefs. In most cases, he said, the appointed chief is responsible to an appointed city manager or elected mayor.

"I would urge you to consider that police operate very often in a climate of emergency which calls for swift and courageous decisions and actions," said Tamm. "There is seldom time to consider the 'political' ramifications of the action. There is no time to debate or feel the public pulse.

"Opinions and feelings of the public must be carefully weighed and considered, of course, but these opinions are best directed to the determination of broad public policies by a legislative body or the elected executive head of the government, not an elected police executive."

Chiesa's defense of being elected is supported by Frank Sapena, the elected chief of the City of Santa Clara, but opposed by California's third elected chief, Ralph M. Jensen of the City of Albany.

Sapena, who has been chief 15 years, believed that elective sanction actually removes politics from the job. He said he had conducted several investigations within city government while chief and asked:

"How could you do this if your were appointed and responsible to people in city hall? It would place you in a very, very difficult position."

"The people here have said overhwelmingly in the past that they want an elected chief. It's worked here. I've never had a problem with the council or city manager."

Although Chief Jensen of Albany remarked that one advantage of being elected was that the city council "can't run you," he said he would prefer being appointed because "you have to run every four years and you may have to kowtow to others."

Further, he said, unqualified persons are eligible to run for the job and perhaps a "person with a lot of money could come in open up the town, reap the profits and get out."

Albany Mayor Richard O. Clark said he likes the elective system because Jensen is "under public scrutiny and responsible to the voters," although he wished the council had some voice in control of police personnel.

"We tried to get a police inspector shifted from the race track (Golden Gate Fields) to administrative duties and the chief said he'd handle the personnel," Clark said. "And he told us to take the issue to court if we wanted to."

Election Team

Patricia Gomez, Ann Goff and Fenimore Cady Jr. have been named area coordinators and Jean Husen, publicity chairman, for the April 15 Reed School District tax election, according to John S. Hoffmire, Reed School Citizens Tax Election Committee chairman.

$241,342 Hike Seen In Kentfield Budget

Kentfield School District trustees last night heard that total expenditures for 1969-70 have been estimated at $1,653,734 — or $241,343 above the current budget.

Within the expenditure is an estimated $98,000 for teachers' and classified salary increases, although these employees will not go before the board with their proposals until the board's April 14 meeting. Teachers now receive $712,804 in salaries.

Also in the $1,653,734 figure, reported Mrs. Elizabeth Beatty, business manager, is $72,791 for maintenance, repairs and replacements and $146,542 in capital outlay requests. These items are usually trimmed by the board.

Last year the board approved about $26,000 for maintenance, repairs and replacement and $41,322 for capital outlay requests.

Trustees set 9 a.m., April 26, to tour the district's three schools to evaluate maintenance and capital outlay reequests.

There is a $90,000 reserve estimated for 1969-70 which compares with the current year's reserve of $93,517.

Total tax rate is now $3.34 per $100 assessed valuation. The maximum general purpose tax rate is $2.50, now in effect, and which the board plans to maintain, Mrs. Beatty added.

The Kentfield District School Board Also:

TESTING PROGRAM—Heard from Jack Williams, district psychologist, that in Stanford Achievement tests given at the close of the 1967-68 year, 53 per cent of the district's first grade students, 54 per cent of the second graders and 58 per cent of the third graders, scored above the 75th percentile. These represent very high scores, Williams told the board.

TEACHER AIDES — Warren English, Kent School vice principal, reported an "extremely successful" teacher aide program at Adaline E. Kent School. The program has 80 volunteer aides and it was necessary to turn away volunteers, he said.

RESIGNATIONS — Accepted resignations from David Van Kriedt, instrumental music teacher, who is emigrating to Australia; Mary Jane Wright, Wolfe Grade primary teacher, on leave, to care for her newly adopted child; and Avanell Munch, Wolfe Grade intermediate teacher, on leave, who is going into theater work.

MINIMUM DAY — Approved a request from Adaline E. Kent School for a minimum day June 12 to allow orientation of all incoming seventh grade pupils.

Missing GI Is Arrested

Steven John Borner, 21, reportedly absent from the Army for more than a year, was arrested in Sausalito last night and held at Marin County Jail for the Federal Bureau of Investigation.

Borner was also booked on suspicion of possessing dangerous drugs. Sausalito police said the FBI asked them to arrest Borner at a Sausalito address he was visiting, but police saw him at a Gate 5 telephone booth and arrested him there at 10 p.m.

Police said Borner had 39 orange capsules in his pocket. The FBI said Borner left his post at the Presidio in San Francisco on Oct. 24, 1967.

Borner was held under $1,250 bail to appear in Marin Municipal Court today.

A Sad Train Ride For Mrs. Eisenhower

So, each fall as the winds sweeping off the Alleghenys grew chill, she and her husband would leave their farm in Gettysburg, Pa. and ride by private railroad car to their winter home in California.

Then, when melting snow swelled the Susquehanna on its springtime rush through Pennsylvania and black-clad Amish farmers returned to their fields, the Eisenhowers would come home again by rail across the nation.

Today, as a 10-car train highballs out of the great Appalachian range and threads its way along the Ohio and on toward the Great Plains, Mamie Eisenhower is making her last journey with her husband of 53 years.

She rides in the same private car she came to know so well in happier days.

The long ordeal of saying farewell to her husband almost over, the 72-year-old widow seemed to perk up yesterday as she boarded the train in Washington's Union station for the long ride out to his boyhood home and final resting place.

Lines of grief had etched her faced and she had seemed frail as she stood or knelt among bemedaled tunics and morning coats at the great state funeral in Washington's National Cathedral.

Through all the pageantry she kept her composure, wiping her eyes only occasionally and weeping quietly once.

Her 13-year-old granddaughter, Mary Jean Eisenhower, said it this way: "She's a very strong lady and I'm very proud of her."

Earlier in the day she had received in her hotel suite a long sucession of visiting foreign dignitaries—Mountbatten of England, Bernard of the Netherlands, Marcos of the Philippines and others.

At the cathedral she followed the words of the service and songs, holding the program in her hands. Once she joined in the singing of "Onward, Christian Soldiers," but stopped, hands trembling.

Homeowners Nod To Lucas Valley Recreation Bid

By overwhelming vote, Lucas Valley Homeowners Association members last night agreed to have 90 new homes join their association in exchange for a $62,000 recreation package from the developer.

Director Larry Cahn announced that the vote was 352 yes to 36 no. The vote represented a 90 per cent turnout of the 440 members of the association. The vote was canvassed last night by the election committee headed by association president William Reiner.

The membership of the association will be increased by 90 when Lucas Valley Units 7 and 9 are completed by Peninsula Master Builders on the north side of Lucas Valley Road at Mount Lassen and Mount Shasta drives.

In exchange for membership, the developers will deed three lots worth $27,000, install a tennis court for $8,000, and donate $27,000 to build a new swimming pool.

Lodge Recalls Ike's Duty-Bound Decision

WASHINGTON (AP) — Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower regarded his decision to run for president as his bitterest moment, but agreed to seek the office after being convinced it was his duty, according to Henry Cabot Lodge, who managed the 1952 campaign.

"If it became my duty to run for president," Eisenhower told Lodge in June, 1950, "I would do it. But it would be the bitterest moment of my life."

Lodge, then a Massachusetts senator, had gone to see the general at Columbia University, where Eisenhower served for a time as president. Ambassador Lodge, now U.S. representative at the Paris peace talks, told of the meeting today.

"I said that it might become his duty to run for president. I didn't think that Sen. Taft (the late Sen. Robert A. Taft, R-Ohio) could be elected. I considered that his foreign policy views were out of date.

"When I used the word 'duty' Eisenhower got up and walked up and down the room. And after he said he would do it but it would be his bitterest moment, he repeated again he would run if it proved to be his duty."

Lodge was not the first to ask Eisenhower to run for president. In fact, while he was running the allied war effort in Europe, both parties sought him out as a potential candidate.

There have been published reports that President Harry S Truman offered the 1948 Democratic presidential nomination to Eisenhower. Truman reportedly offered to run as Eisenhower's vice presidential candidate.

There were further efforts by the Democrats to get the general to head their ticket for the 1952 campaign.

To all these and other efforts Eisenhower said no in firm and seemingly complete tones.

Lodge said that he spoke to Eisenhower about running again when he visited him in September 1951 in Paris where Eisenhower, on leave as Columbia president, was organizing NATO forces.

In the Paris meeting, Lodge said, "I told him he had until January to make up his mind."

"I'm glad I've got that much time," Eisenhower replied.

As the day of decision approached a group of Eisenhower backers met in New York in November 1951, including New York Gov. Thomas E. Dewey, the Republican presidential candidate in 1944 and 1948.

"This group had been looking for a manager to run General Eisenhower's campaign," Lodge said. "I had thought the manager should come from Kansas or Missouri. It never crossed my mind that I would become the manager. But in the end the Midwest people agreed on me.

"Then we started in putting on a campaign. And we put it on without any permission from Ike. He knew about it—but we didn't have any permission from him to do it."

In January 1952, Lodge held a Sunday afternoon news conference. He said he was satisfied that Eisenhower was a Republican and had therefore entered the general's name in the New Hampshire GOP presidential primary.

"Naturally the newspapers wanted to know what Eisenhower thought about all this so they called his headquarters in Paris," Lodge said. "They got hold of some colonel who said that Eisenhower had never heard of it."

"On Wednesday following the Sunday announcement, Ike said 'Yes' he was a Republican and that he knew me and liked me. That made his position, of course, pretty evident.

"We had the New Hampshire primary and I didn't want Eisenhower even to come back for it. There had been some optimistic talks and we could've looked badly if Taft had gotten one or two votes. So we who were running the campaign didn't want to involve him in it. But we carried the primary all right, taking all the votes.

"I went to see him in April 1952, and he came back in June and made a speech at Abilene, Kan. It was his first speech in a political context."

Overhauling Of Juvenile Hall Urged

Both the physical plant at Marin Juvenile Hall and the treatment of juvenile delinquents need an overhaul, in the opinion of the League of Women Voters of Southern Marin.

The league's position paper on juvenile justice in Marin, released yesterday, calls for an improvement of detention facilities, but not at the expense of adequate probation department personnel.

Mrs. Roy D. Knapp, public relations chairman, said the league strongly urges the Marin County Board of Supervisors to set up a master plan for modernization and improvement of Juvenile Hall.

"The plan should provide for living quarters as attractive and homelike as possible in so far as this is practical and compatible with necessary security precautions," the league members announced.

Here are the other recommendations in the League's consensus and position paper:

Workloads of supervisory deputy probation officers should be reduced, even though this might require an initial increase in cost. If the program of the intensive supervision unit shows that fewer cases and more intensive casework result in fewer repeat offenses and/or shorter detention, the initial added expense would be justifed.

The probation officer who files the petition in court and presents evidence for the prosecution should be a person different from the one who makes the social investigation and recommends disposition. Distrust which might be felt by the child or parents when they find that the person in whom they confided is prosecuting the case in court could be detrimental.

New concepts of rehabilitative treatment are needed. Increased county subsidization of additonal private agency group homes might help keep within the county the court wards who must be cared for outside of their own homes. The community should be more involved in rehabilitation.

Superior court judges should serve as juvenile court judges on a rotation basis, but the tenure as juvenile judge should not be less than two years. A shorter tenure would not provide enough consistency, and a longer one would tend to make the bench autocratic.

The league plans to continue its juvenile justice study for another year.

Judge Orders Boycott Ended At Coast Docks

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI)—Longshoremen now are liable to fines and other penalties if they continue a selective boycott of teamster-packed cargo that is piling up on West Coast docks.

Dederal Judge Robert Peckham yesterday ordered the dock workers to end their boycott. The ruling "confired and permanently enforced" an arbitrator's ruling which, almost two weeks ago, ordered the men to handle the goods they have ignored since March 17.

Union officials declined immediate comment and their attorney said only that the ruling "will require study and consultation."

An arbitrator's ruling is described as "final and decisive" in the union's contract with the employers Pacific Maritime Association, but there are no penalties to back up such a ruling.

But the association will be able to complain to the judge if his order is not followed, and he can penalize them with fines or other judgments.

Judge Peckham, prompted by "the urgency of the matter" made his ruling even though all courts were closed in memory of ex-President Eisenhower.

Employers had argued that the longshoremen's contract clearly gives the arbitrator the final say on waterfront disputes and that the contract requires longshoremen to load and unload all cargo that comes to them.

Union attorneys argued, however, that the men have a right to act "to protect their economic interest."

Rec Program Schedule Set

Registration for the Mill Valley Parks and Recreation Department's spring recreation program will be from 1 to 4 p.m. Monday through April 11 and from 9 a.m. to noon April 12 at the community recreation center, Camino Alto at East Blithedale Avenue.

Classes offered during the eight week program include tennis, karate, yoga, slimnastics, ballet, judo, preschool tumbling, dance therapy, a tiny tots class, joggers club, and a cross country track and field team for children, ages 8-18.

The recreation department will also sponsor a county track meet in cooperation with junior high schools throughout Marin on May 24 at Tamalpais High School.

Apartment Plans Will Be Reviewed

The Cotati Planning Commission will review plans for a 24-unit apartment building on East Cotati Avenue at its meeting at 7:30 p.m. today at the Cotati Elementary School.

The commission will also review an application for a small subdivision on Industrial Avenue requested by Paul Golis of Cofego Enterprises. Also to be studied are plans for a dog kennel planned by Mr. and Mrs. R. B. Malone at 7960 Gravenstein Highway.

Candidates' Night Set On April 9

A candidates' night for the Mill Valley Elementary and Tamalpais High School district board elections will be held at 8 p.m. April 9 in Ruby Scott Auditorium at Tamalpais High School.

Sponsors of the forum, the League of Women Voters of Southern Marin, the Mill Valley Parent-Teacher Association Council and the Mill Valley branch of the American Association of University Women, have asked candidates to discuss the role of a school board member, the financing of education and the proposed three-way split of the high school district.

In the high school district, also with three seats open, the candidates are incumbents Gloria W. Melbostad and David D. Ring, and challengers William H. Bentley, Robert W. Corlett, Richard W. Jahnke and Brice Pace.

Producing Books For Children

By MAYBELLE SPECKMANN

Another outlet for creative energies has been discovered by two Marin housewives — writing and illustrating books for children with photographs.

Just off the press is "When I Grew Up," a book for children from kindergarten through second grade with the story written by Mrs. David Ainsworth (Judy) of San Anselmo, illustrated with photographs by Mrs. Michael Durrie (Belinda) of Mill Valley, and published by the Children's Press of Chicago, Ill.

A second book, "The Lost Smile," is being submitted to publishers, and they are working on a third, "A House by the Sea."

How did it all start?

Having met through a neighbor, they say that during one rainy winter afternoon in 1967 they discovered that each had been thinking about doing a children's book through inspiration gained from their own children.

Judy has two children, a son Gray, 5, and little girl, Erin, 2. Belinda, or Bindy, as she is better known, has four children; three girls, Robin, 8; Jennifer, 5; and Jessica, 3; and a son Nick, 6.

Said Judy, "I had got an idea for a story through listening to my son, and Bindy had thought about a book through taking pictures of her children. It was sort of by accident that we got it done."

Bindy added, "Having four kids, I had lots of photographs of them because they are a natrual for taking pictures. People kept saying how good the pictures were, and it grew from there. I was entirely self-taught and learned by trial and error.".

"We didn't know how to go about getting the book published," Judy explained; "so we sent it to my mother-in-law, who is an elementary school district librarian in Morena Valley, and she suggested several publishers, one of them being Children's Press in Chicago.

"If we had taken the evening course in creative writing for children that we are now enrolled in at Sir Francis Drake High School that is taught by Glen Dines, we might never have sent the book, because it was submitted in such an unprofessional condition.

"In the class we have learned how to submit books in a professional manner and where to submit them by reading books in a style like ours and then sending ours to those publishers.

"AS FOR THE actual writing for children, the secret is just to listen to children. For example, when I talked to Gray about why he wanted to grow up, his first answer was 'so I can stay up late at night.' Some of his other reasons were so that he could go to work in his own office, be big and strong like daddy and so that he could take his children for a drive in the country."

Judy also noted that as a story teller at the San Anselmo public library under the parks and recreation department, she had read about 50 books a week and learned what good writing for children is.

The two young women — Bindy a blonde and Judy a brunette — have quite different backgrounds.

A native of Montreal, Bindy is the wife of Michael Durrie, son of Charles H. Durrie, a member of the American Institute of Interior Designers, whose family has lived many years in Belvedere and before that in Mill Valley. Michael is a credit supervisor for the General Motors Acceptance Corp. in San Francisco.

Bindy attended the University of California for three years, majoring in psychology, before her marriage. She and her husband and children have lived in Mill Valley three years.

Until she became very active in the Mill Valley Cooperative Nursery School, Bindy made pottery as a hobby, a skill she learned in classes at the College of Marin and in Oakland.

"I love to hike," she says, "but mainly my life revolves around my home and children.

JUDY WAS BORN and grew up in Kansas City, Mo., and is a graduate of the University of Kansas, with major in international relations. After graduation she worked in the Washington, D.C. office of the Peace Corps, an experience she found fascinating because it was something entirely new then.

She is the wife of David Ainsworth, an administrative assistant for Mason Terminals in San Francisco. They have lived in San Anselmo three years.

"Besides my family, camping, hiking and writing I am interested in the League of Women Voters and am vice president this year of the Central Marin branch," she said.

THEIR OWN CHILDREN and neighbors' are subjects for pictures illustrating their books for children by Mrs. David Ainsworth and Mrs. Michael Durrie. In this picture from their book "When I Grow Up", Gray Ainsworth, 5, kisses his "wife" Jennifer Durrie goodbye as he leaves to go to work in his office. Being able to go to work in an office like daddy is one of the reasons he says he wants to grow up and be a man.

ONE OF GRAY Ainsworth's reasons for wanting to grow up is so that he can take his children for a ride in the country. This is one of the illustrations in the book "When I Grow Up" written by his mother, Mrs. David Ainsworth of San Anselmo, with pictures taken by Mrs. Michael Durrie of Mill Valley.

Glamor Queens Tell Their Style Secrets

By GENE HANDSAKER

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — What's most important in being well dressed?

The scene: The movie Costume Designers Guild's third annual awards this week. Through an elegantly attired throng a reporter threaded, asking screen glamor queens their chief secrets for looking stylish.

Said Anne Baxter: "A sense of yourself, of what looks well on you. With today's fashions and very little effort, you can look like a clown. You have to decide what is good for you. Within any fashion period you will always find some look, some style, that fits your body and personality and will make you look attractive."

Barbara Stanwyck's scintillating silver hair and gown exemplified her advise: "For man or woman, be well groomed to the very utmost of your budget. In this day and age it can be done on a low budget. To look neat, as a lady or gentleman should, is most important."

Jane Wyman: "Women should look very feminine—like women." Miss Wyman did—in a black chiffon gown she described as "easy and comfortable."

Sondra Locke, Oscar nominee for her supporting role in "The Heart Is a Lonely Hunter": "To maintain simplicity. To me, simplicity means elegance."

Barbra Streisand, given the costume designers' award later in the evening as best dressed actress, said:

"I think it's always to have the woman still the most important subject. In other words, that she rule the clothes rather than the clothes rule her."

The $100-per-person dinner dance raised about $40,000 for the National Cystic Fibrosis Research Foundation, a spokesman said.

Mother-In-Law Gets Blamed

By MARTIN EDMUNDS
London Express

LONDON — Who smooths over the tiffs of marriage, from Amsterdam to Adelaide, from Dublin to Dunedin? Who helps to keep husband and wife together? Who look after young children when their parents want some time away together? Who comes to the rescue when there is accident or illness in the home?

It's friendly, tactful mother-in-law — yet how badly she needs a new image!

Families everywhere know she can be a kind, helpful personality, yet all over the world she is disliked, condemned — and often secretly feared.

The universal anti-mother-in-law joke (Juvenal, the Roman satirist, said about 112 A.D. "Give up all hope of peace so long as your mother-in-law is alive") did not arise by chance.

Anthropologists think it is a fragmentary survival of the primitive belief that if a man speaks to or even looks at his wife's mother he will suffer terrible misfortune.

Missionaries have seen people in South West Africa and New Guinea hiding at the approach of their mothers-in-law. A traditional belief among the Navajo Indians has been that a man went blind if he looked mother-in-law in the face.

He called her "doyishini" or "she-whom-I-must-not-see." The belief faded in time — but the instinctive fear of breaking the taboo remained — so a man was allowed to go through a form of marriage with his mother-in-law before marrying her daughter.

In New Guinea a missionary found a boy of six suddenly falling to the ground and hiding under a table during lessons. The boy had seen his elder brother's mother-in-law approaching the school.

More advanced societies take a less harsh view but still blame mother-in-law for a lot.

DR. R. K. DOIG, the head of a Melbourne, Australia, medical research center, has made a special study of why young married people — apparently in the best of health — get ulcers. Often, he found, mother-in-law was directly to blame.

In one case he found that a young wife's ulcer dated back 10 years. He traced its beginning to the day when the wife heard that her "domineering" mother-in-law was coming to stay with her.

The young wife was questioned about what she wanted to do about her mother-in-law.

She flushed and with rising voice and tense face said, "I wanted to kill her."

A Tokyo newspaper warns that "mother-in-law trouble" is the commonest cause of divorce in Japan. It says, "the mother-in-law should not force old customs on the bride. It is important that she remembers that the bride is her son's wife and not merely a source of labor for housework."

Just how awkward can mother-in-law be? English social scientists have surveyed 25 families with what is politely termed a "dominant mother." Nearly all the couples surveyed were in the 18-30 group and began married life living with the wife's mother chiefly because of the housing shortage. The husbands sought help from a social agency when they failed to establish a home of their own — away from their mothers-in-law.

THE REPORT has made it clear that the trouble began "before marriage —" the courtship was characterized by strong disapproval on the part of the mother-in-law in which her own dissatisfactions were clearly shown. Marriage was presented as something that "would not have happened (to me) if I had my time over again."

The couples determined to get married in spite of her. Once married, husbands complained that their mothers-in-law read their private letters, others that they were belittled all the time or that their wives took sides with their mothers against them. Mother-in-law was always jealous; one unfortunate husband sharing a home got smaller portions of food than anybody else.

The pressure built up until the husband walked out in despair. The wife, torn between loyalty to her mother and to her husband, tended to let him go. Mother-in-law would say, self-righteously, that she had interfered "only for the best."

What was mother-in-law's real motive? The survey said it was a feeling that the marriage of her daughter, with its new loyalties, implied a loss of reduction in her own prestige.

IN EGYPT THE law has sought to cope with this age-old human problem. Bride and mother-in-law must sign legal agreements for peaceful co-existence.

The bride has to recognize that mother-in-law's love for her husband is just as valid as hers, though different in kind. She must not show disrespect to mother-in-law, must call her "mother" and greet her with a kiss. She must remember her birthday. She must promise never to criticize her when alone with her husband. She must concede that it is natural for mother-in-law to care for her grandchildren.

On her side mother-in-law has to agree not to give her daughter-in-law unasked advice, not to "spoil" the grandchildren, never to prolong visits and never to criticize the wife when alone with the son.

She had also to promise to treat her daughter-in-law as if she were her own — and in turn to remember her birthday.

A special tribunal awards damages to parties injured by violation of the agreement. Egyptian lawyers and social workers are confident that such an agreement, universal in its spirit, could cut separations and divorces by half in any country where it may be enforced.

HELEN HELP US!

By HELEN BOTTEL

DEAR HELEN:

"Psyched Out Over That Sound" asked what "In-a-Gadda-da-Vita" means. The Iron Butterfly's song was written by Doug Ingle, their organist and lead singer. Doug won't say what the words really mean and prefers to let people identify with them in their own way, but if you listen closely to the other lyrics, you'll know it has something to do with love and peace and life.

As to how the four guys can be one Iron Butterfly, the answer is unity: No one member is responsible for the sound.

When you ask the I. B., they are kind of vague and say the phrases's meaning is very personal.—ELF.

DEAR HELEN:

"In-a-Gadda-de-Vita" means "In a Garden of Life." I asked the Iron Butterfly.—KNOWS

DEAR HELEN:

"In-a-Gadda-de-Vita" means "In the Garden of Eden." Say it fast and you'll see. It's kinda like your old song, "Mairzy Doats."—PRETTY SURE

DEAR ALL OF YOU:

As I say, nobody knows for sure, but it's one find sound, anyway!—H.

DEAR HELEN:

I'm 18 and I married a 19-year-old Marine last year. He went to Vietnam right away, and I haven't seen him since.

Last week I heard he was injured, and later that he'd lost his leg. Helen, I hardly even knew him, and now am I doomed to live the rest of my life with a cripple.

Please tell me how I can get out of this, and if he gets a pension, will a divorced wife be entitled to some of it?—NOT A NURSE MAID

DEAR NOT:

You're not even human! Get lost fast — and let's hope your Marine has already put you down as the worst mistake he ever made!—H.

P.S. You're entitled to nothing but a bouquet of poison ivy!

DEAR HELEN:

I have noticed that when a girl is having an illegitimate child, you have all sorts of reasons why she shouldn't put the father's name on the birth certificate.

I have such a child and the father's name is right there where it should be. Whether it's proven legally or not, my baby deserves the right to a name! We haven't gone to court yet, but we will!

You'd be surprised at the number of people who think I'm right. Any girl who has the guts to do this is usually not lying. What can she lose? She won't be talked about any more than she already is, and the guy gets a share of the blame, this way. —C.B.

DEAR C.:

All sorts of reasons? No — only one. When revenge is the motive, the child will probably be the victim. Nasty court cases are remembered. They leave a stigma that can make a child's life pretty grim.—H.

This column is dedicated to family living, so if you're having kid trouble or just plain trouble, let Helen help you. Address Helen Bottel, in care of the Independent-Journal.

Gardening Takes Toll

Spring gardening ranks as a primary outdoor activity for many homemakers when winter landscapes start turning green.

Producing a beautiful garden is a desirable objective—but the work involved plus exposure to wind and weather can take its toll on your appearance.

Rough skin, ragged cuticles, broken nails, and red, irritated eyes make beauty lose its luster quickly. You can avoid this by taking a few advance precautions.

Even though days are mild, bright sunlight can irritate your eyes. Wear a pair of properly fitted sunglasses to protect the eyes, and help prevent development of unwanted "squint lines."

Some gardening jobs require bare hands, but most of the time you can and should wear gloves.

For an extra measure of protection, apply hand cream to skin and under nails, before donning gardening gloves.

Keep an extra set of first aid supplies handy in the garage or tool shed. Any open scrape, bruise or cut should be treated immediately.

Take an occasional "eye break" by lifting your eyes and focusing on distant objects for a few seconds. A few drops of eye lotion will provide soothing relief for eyes irritated by weather, or visual concentration.

Don't spray dust or chemicals on windy days, and make sure that all containers are tightly closed when not in use.

Use a suntan lotion on warm spring days, and give your skin and hair added protection with a broad-brimmed hat.

As for planting, seeds of radishes, peas, pollies, conflowers and similar plants should go in early. Late March is good for early flowering perennials and biennials, most other plants in April.

MRS. EDMUND MAHON

THE BETTER HALF By Bob Barnes

Lack Of Calcium May Be Cause Of Aged Shrinkage

It is an old wives adage that one starts to shrink as soon as growth stops. It's a medical adage as well, and now medicine is finding something that can be done about at least one aspect of it.

Persons who watch their parents or older friends, especially those who reach and live beyond bench-mark years of 60-65, can literally see them shrink.

What is happening is that their bones are changing, becoming less dense, more porous — and, of course, smaller. The condition is called osteoporosis.

Shrinkage caused by it is especially notable in the spinal column. A man whose insurance examiner may have measured his height as 5 feet, 8 inches at age 30 may discover at age 65 he is now 5 feet 5 inches.

Physicians are inclined to place the blame on lack of sufficient calcium in the diet and its transfer into bone — as rickets in infants may be caused by lack of calcium or its failure to concentrate in the skeleton — generally because of Vitamin D deficiency.

A research study reported in the American Journal of Clinical Nutrition lends support to the assumption that osteoporosis is a calcium-deficiency disease. This study was carried out at the Brookhaven National Laboratory, Long Island.

The scientists selected a group of elderly patients ranging in age from 58 to 89. All had osteoporosis confirmed by X-rays, and other diseases as well. All were hospitalized, all diets were measured, as well as excretions and each patient was "counted" in the Brookhaven whole-body counter to measure retention of calcium.

First the experimenters established that all patients received 500 milligrams of calcium daily. But they lost up to more than 700 milligrams a day.

When, however, each patient was given additionally 2 grams daily (2,000 milligrams) of a calcium replenishment medicine, the retention rate rose dramatically — to as high as 515 milligrams a day.

The scientists concluded, "In as much as the high calcium diet produced a positive calcium balance and acted to inhibit bone resorption, it can be considered to be beneficial to osteoporotic patients."

Mrs. C. P. Stark Is Family Services Volunteer Of Year

Mrs. Carl P. Stark, wife of an Air Force captain stationed in Vietnam and mother of four children, has been named the 1968 outstanding family services volunteer of the year for Hamilton Air Force Base's Fourth Air Force.

She is coordinator for Hamilton's Family Services, an organization designed to help military families get settled in a new community.

During the year, Mrs. Stark, who lives in Novato, contributed 443 hours of time at Hamilton's Family Services Center, base officials said, and began a program to assist wives whose husbands are stationed overseas.

The new program, entitled "Wives of Husbands Overseas," provides activities and social outlets for waiting wives. Currently 150 women in Marin and Sonoma Counties are active in the program, Mrs. Stark said.

To get the program underway, Mrs. Stark supervised the publication of a brochure designed to acquaint the unaccompanied wives with the services and recreation facilities available at Hamilton and in the surrounding communities.

Goldwater's Son In Key House Race

By ASSOCIATED PRESS

Congressional districts in California and Wisconsin choose new representatives today in a test of the drawing power of some of the best-known names in American politics.

And in the prairie town of Abilene, Kan., the municipal election went on as scheduled despite the pall cast by the death of its favorite son, Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower, and preparations for his burial there tomorrow.

National leaders of both parties worked for their candidates in Wisconsin's Seventh District, which Secretary of Defense Melvin R. Laird held for 16 years until he joined the Nixon administration.

One television spot showed President Richard M. Nixon, his arm around Republican Walter L. Chilsen on the White House lawn, saying, "I need you here in Washington."

Former Vice President Hubert Humphrey went to Wausau to speak and raise money for Democrat David Obey, a 36-year-old state assemblyman, and Sen. Edward M. Kennedy of Massachusetts contributed television and radio tapes.

Goldwater, a Republican, make frequent reference to his father—who didn't carry the district in 1964—but the senator hasn't campaigned for his 30-year-old bachelor son.

The best-known candidates are Goldwater, City Councilman James Potter Jr. and Assemblyman Pat McGee, all Republicans. If no one gets a majority a runoff will be held April 29 between the top Democrat and top Republican.

Los Angeles Mayor Sam Yorty, 59, is in what promises to be a tight battle for re-election to a third term. A weekend poll showed him trailing City Councilman Thomas Bradley, a 51-year-old Negro veteran of 21 years on the police force, by 16 per cent. The top two men will face each other May 27 if none of the 14 candidates gets a majority in the nonpartisan race.

In Abilene, the election was shoved into the background by preparations for Eisenhower's burial. "I almost forgot about it," said Jewell Isley, one of five candidates for the three seats on the City Commission.

Elsewhere, there were these races:

In St. Louis, Democratic Mayor A. J. Cervantes was considered likely to win re-election by a top-heavy margin over electronics distributor Gerald G. Fisher.

In Dallas, Tex., a Citizens Charter Association, a local party that has dominated city politics for four decades, was expected to win a majority of the 11 City Council seats, and the council is expected to re-elect Mayor Erik Jonsson.

In San Antonio, Tex., nine city councilmen will be elected from 36 candidates. The council chooses the mayor and W. W. McAllister, 80, is running for re-election. He has been mayor since 1961.

Buses Only For Transit

REDWOOD CITY (AP)—West Bay Rapid Transit Authority directors voted yesterday for a $20 million buses-only system instead of a $350 million buses and rail line.

If given final approval next Monday, the resolution will go before San Mateo County voters on June 10.

Previously directors had considered a $120 million rail line linking San Francisco International Airport and the rail line being built by the Bay Area Rapid Transit District.

They had also considered a $210 million rail line from the airport to the Santa Clara County line.

"WHERE SERVICE IS A MATTER OF PRIDE"

Muskie Being Blitzed By Talk Invitations

WASHINGTON (AP) — Sen. Edmund S. Muskie's wide-ranging political travels have paid off with a blizzard of speaking invitations and aides say "he has to be taken seriously" as possible 1972 presidential candidate.

By the end of April, an aide said, the Maine Democrat who was his party's 1968 vice presidential nominee, will have made 60 speeches in 27 states this year, an average of one every two days.

He has also made speeches in Japan, Britain and Canada and is solidly booked into June.

"At least," one Muskie aide said, "Democratic leaders in 27 states know there is an alternative for 1972 if he decides to run."

By expanding his efforts outside Washington, the senator is following the route that led John F. Kennedy and Richard M. Nixon to presidential nominations in 1960 and 1968.

The flood of speaking invitations, aides said, "has been noticeably increasing" in recent weeks to some 25-50 a day.

Muskie had planned to slow his speaking schedule after the congressional Easter recess this month But the aide said "he plans to keep at it into June because there's so little going on in Congress."

After appearances in New York last night, Chicago today and Salisbury, Md., tomorrow, he plans to take a week off to be with his family, resuming speeches next Wednesday at a dinner in Cleveland in honor of the city's Negro mayor, Carl Stokes.

The rest of his schedule through April 21 includes two college campuses, Brown and Vanderbilt; two Jefferson-Jackson Democratic dinners in Boise, Idaho, and Salt Lake City; an Oregon dinner to help pay off the campaign debt of defeated senatorial candidate Robert Duncan; plus two other speeches in Cleveland and two in Houston, Texas.

The pressure at the deepest part of the ocean is nearly seven tons per square inch, almost a thousand times the atmospheric pressure on the surface.

Nature Conservancy Rescues Sierra Tract

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI)—A 160-acre wilderness tract in the Sierra was slated for housing development until the Nature Conservancy, a national conservation organization, obtained funds to buy it.

Huey D. Johnson, the group's regional director, announced yesterday the tract of land in the Five Lakes area of the Sierra would be purchased with a portion of $387,000 donated by Rodney Johnson, 82, of Newport Beach, a former attorney, businessman and engineer.

Johnson said "the acquisition of this key tract in the midst of federally owned lands will enable the U.S. Forest Service to designate the surrounding 28 square miles as roadless area."

The tract, bought from a private party, lies seven miles west of Tahoe City and south of Squaw Valley. It will be named the "Rodney Johnson Preserve" after the donor.

The land will be held for the U.S. Forest Service until federal funds become available to repay the Nature Conservancy at cost.

Every day of the year 13,000 contributing agencies forward more than 21,000 fingerprint records to the FBI in Washington.

Kenneth Wells Reception Set

A reception for Kenneth G. Wells, candidate for the Reed School District board, will be held Thursday at 8 p.m. at the home of Mr. and Mrs. David Allen, of 3 Maybridge Road, Belvedere.

The reception is sponsored by Mr. and Mrs. Wells and Mr. and Mrs. William Horton.

Mariner Will Seek Out Star

PASADENA (UPI) — America's Mariner 7 spacecraft today was ordered to seek out the star Canopus and align itself in the proper position to scan Mars with its television camera.

The maneuver, controlled from jet propulsion laboratory, was expected to be completed today.

The original schedule called for Mariner 7 to "acquired" Canopus shortly after it was launched last Thursday from Cape Kennedy, but scientists decided to delay the maneuver because of three transitory irregularities in the spacecraft's performance.

Prosecutor Faces Court In Detroit

DETROIT (AP) — County Prosecutor William Cahalan was called today to answer a contempt of court charge arising from a shooting exchange in which a policeman died.

The contempt citation was issued by Judge George Crockett while dealing Sunday with more than 100 persons taken in for questioning in connection with the shooting at a Negro church. The judge freed all but two of them.

Judge Crockett said he acted when Cahalan sought to countermand an order for release of one of the men taken to court. The judge a Negro, said he thought Cahalan's actions had a racial motivation, and that he would leave the hearing on the contempt citation to one of his white colleagues on the Recorder's Court bench.

"I cannot see why he should inject a racial issue," Cahalan commented. "I have never given him any reason to inject this race issue in this matter."

About 100 policemen picketed police headquarters yesterday protesting the mass release. Signs read, "Crockett Justice-Release Killers. Prosecute Prosecutors. Give Licenses to Kill Policemen."

Carl Parsell, president of the Detroit Police Officers Association, wired Gov. William Milliken, Atty. Gen. Frank Kelley and leaders of the state legislature demanding an investigation.

"The public deserves to know all the facts on whether the judge stepped over his authority, abused his discretion and went beyond the limit of the law or if the judge was correct and only the law needs changing," the telegram said.

The shooting centered around a meeting of a Negro group called the Republic of New Africa which wants to establish a black nation in the southern United States.

Most of those arrested were freed on $100 personal bond which does not involve posting actual bail. Judge Crockett let eight others go because he said the police had violated their constitutional rights by taking nitrate tests of their hands without first advising them they had the right to legal representation.

Nitrate tests are used to determine whether the subject has fired a gun recently. Police said tests on five of those released were positive.

Agnew Is Kept Busy At Airports

WASHINGTON (AP) — Dashing between widely separated airports in a weekend marked by 16-hour days, Vice President Spiro T. Agnew acted as the nation's top greeter to foreign leaders arriving for the funeral of former President Dwight D. Eisenhower.

The vice president met 15 overseas delegations, including those led by the Shah of Iran and King Baudouin of Belgium.

An associate of the vice president said Agnew waited at Dulles International Airport until 3 a.m. Sunday for the arrival of Prime Minister Zalman Shazar of Israel and others.

Easter Brunch Is Scheduled Sunday

A family Easter brunch will be held from 10:30 a.m. to 1 p.m. Easter Sunday at the Woodacre Improvement Club.

An Easter egg hunt, sponsored by the San Geronimo Valley Lions Club, will follow at 1:30 p.m. at Lagunitas School.

Wallace Pardon Expected By Ray?

Huie, an Alabaman who bought publication rights to Ray's story of his life, says Ray considers himself a political prisoner and expects to be freed within four years. He pleaded guilty and was sentenced to 99 years.

JUDGE W. P. BATTLE
Death snarls case

Huie said last October, "Powerful men probably made the decision to kill Dr. King." But he has changed his mind.

'LITTLE CONSPIRACY'

"One or two men other than James Earl Ray may have had foreknowledge of this murder, and that makes a little conspiracy," Huie said this week. "But if there was a conspiracy, I now believe that James Earl Ray was probably its leader, not its tool or its dupe."

Look also carries articles by Percy Foreman, of Houston, who was Ray's lawyer when he pleaded guilty, and Arthur J. Hanes, one of Ray's earlier lawyers. Foreman agrees with Huie that Ray was the lone killer, but Hanes dissents.

"I still believe that Ray killed Dr. King because he was direted to do it," Hanes, a former mayor of Birmingham, Ala., wrote. "Despite his plea of guilty in court, I also feel that Ray did not carry out the murder entirely alone."

'THE FIRST SHOT'

Foreman wrote, "I don't believe there was any conspiracy,"

He added, "Ray thinks that the war between the races is imminent, and he wanted to fire the first shot."

Huie agreed with Foreman on that. He said:

"Ray took what he regards as a political action approved by millions of Americans. Ray thinks he fired the first shot in a social or racial conflict, a second civil war, which will eventually result in his being freed."

Judge's Death May Cause Ray Retrial

MEMPHIS, Tenn. (UPI)—The death of the trial judge in the James Earl Ray case could bring the convicted slayer of Dr. Martin Luther King, Jr. a new trial under Tennessee law, an Appeals Court judge said today.

The key apparently was the contents of a letter mailed by Ray to Judge W. Preston Battle, who collapsed in his chambers and died of a heart attack yesterday. Battle, 60, recently had returned from a vacation following the Ray trial three weeks ago.

99-YEAR TERM

Ray pleaded guilty to the April 4, 1968, murder of King in Memphis and received a 99-year prison sentence during a jury trial required by Tennessee law in all criminal cases. Ray said his lawyer, Percy Foreman, advised him to plead guilty to avoid a possible death penalty.

But after Ray began serving his sentence in the state prison at Nashville, he reportedly had second thoughts and considered seeking a new trial. He wrote Battle asking, sources said, for a new trial. Battle's office confirmed receipt of the letter, but did not divulge its contents.

Judge Charles Galbraith of the state Court of Criminal Appeals said in Nashville that Tennessee law provides any motions for a new trial pending before a deceased judge must be granted. The law does not define a motion, or how it must be filed, he said.

BLOW TO CASE

The state supreme court last week had dealt a blow to Ray's hopes for a new trial, ruling in a case "that fits Ray's case like a glove" a defendant cannot get a new trial on grounds he was talked into pleading guilty by his attorney. Ray reportedly contends Foreman pressured him into his guilty plea.

Battle, who had been picked by lot from among five Shelby County Criminal Court judges to preside over the Ray trial, apparently had been dead about two hours when he was found slumped over his office desk. An autopsy was ordered although officials said there was no evidence of foul play.

Oregon's 26 million acres of commercial timber could rebuild every house in the United States.

White Is On Critical List

Col. George H. White, retired chief of the Federal Narcotics Bureau in San Francisco, was reported in critical condition today at Marin General Hospital after a heart attack Sunday.

White, 60, now a fire warden of Stinson Beach, was stricken a few hours after he assisted in the rescue of Ruwe Halsey who fell 75 feet while scaling a sheer cliff a mile or so south of Stinson Beach Sunday.

"He had a heart attack of classic proportions," said Dr. Thomas W. Stone, White's physician. "He had a near call last night but he rallied this morning. His condition is critical."

Officers in the Soviet Union forces spend almost twice as much time in schools as their western counterparts.

Mao In Full Charge At Party Session

HONG KONG (UPI)—The Chinese Communist Park convened its Ninth National Congress today to complete the cultural revolution by ousting President Liu Shao-chi and cementing Mao Tse-tung's grip on a nation embroiled for three years in near civil war.

It was a Mao show all the way. He delayed the congress until he considered he had won the titanic battle for power and Peking radio announced the congress met for the first time today in 10 years although the constitution says it must meet every five.

One of the first acts of the 1,572 delegates today was the unanimous reelection of the 75-year-old Mao as chairman of the central committee and the party. As expected, Defense Minister Lin Piao was elected vice chairman, thus affirming his role as Mao's chosen successor.

Premier Chou En-lai, also a vice chairman of the party until August 1966, was elected as secretary general.

The cultural revolution as proclaimed by Mao was the greatest struggle within a Communist party since the early days of the Bolshevik revolution was just as bloody. There were no official figures but there were informed estimates that tens of thousands—some said a million—died in the Maoist purges.

Peking, Shanghai, Canton, the great cities of China, were torn by street rioting, strikes, open rebellion, massacres and open air executions as the cultural revolution raged from the far reaches of Sinkiang province to the industrial regions of Manchuria.

Woman Swallows Lighter Fluid

A San Francisco woman was treated at Marin General Hospital Sunday after she reportedly drank some lighter fluid thinking it was water while camping on Mount Tamalpais, Corte Madera police reported today.

Mary Garrison, 21, reportedly swallowed "a good amount," her companion, James D. Hurwitz, also of San Francisco, told officers.

Hurwitz was en route to the hospital with Miss Garrison at 8:55 p.m. when his car broke down on Highway 101 and Paradise Drive, police said. He called officers and they took Miss Garrison to the hospital.

First Mainline Rail Installed By BART

HAYWARD (AP) — The first 1,518-foot length of mainline rail for the 75-mile San Francisco Bay Area Rapid Transit System was installed ceremoniously here today.

The continuously welded rail —each length about four city blocks long—will be fastened to concrete ties with a combination steel and rubber cushion, intended to absorb any vibration generated by trains moving 80 miles an hour.

The first 23 miles of the double track system will be constructed between Hayward and Oakland by Dravo Corp. of Pittsburgh, Pa., for $8.7 million.

Half the mileage of the original stretch will be on concrete aerial structure and the rest in subways or on surface lines. There will be a total of 104.6 miles of rail in the initial line, including mileage in the Hayward yard.

BART President Arnold C. Anderson termed it a milestone for the entire field of transit technology. First service is scheduled to begin in 1972 between Hayward and Oakland.

The final mid-bay connecting link of BART's 3.6 mile underwater trans-bay tube linking Oakland and San Francisco is to be lowered into place Thursday. The 57th 10,000-ton steel and concrete section will link up previously constructed portions of the tube which extend outward from both sides of the bay.

Drug Workshop Set For Teachers

A workshop designed to provide teachers with knowledge of drugs and narcotics will be held for Marin County teachers at San Rafael High School sponsored by the Sonoma State College Extension Division.

The workshop will be conducted by Harlan Smetzer, welfare and attendance consultant for the Napa County Schools from 8 a.m. to noon and 1 to 4:30 p.m. April 12 and 19.

Registration for the one unit course will be held at the first meeting. Reservations may be made with Dr. James Nelson, assistant superintendent of San Rafael City Schools.

Americans Fly Aid To Biafra

Americans have been aboard relief flights sponsored by church groups for several months, but this was the first time they had manned a Red Cross plane.

The C97 was piloted by Capt. Ernie Anderson of La Jolla. His crew included Carl Nastoupil of Minneapolis, and Lloyd Anderson and Roy Jewett, both of Van Nuys.

The supplies were delivered without incident.

Hub Trustees Due A Progress Report

San Anselmo School District turstees will hear a progress report by Patrick O'Donnell, director of instruction, on proposed programs and facilities for the district at their 7:30 p.m. meeting today at Red Hill School.

Requests for five and one-half portable classrooms from four schools will be discussed and the board will hear a report on multi-ethnic education by trustee Cornelia B. Busse.

Mission Gift Shop Is Looted

Burglars have broken into the gift shop at St. Raphael's Mission in San Rafael and stolen about $700 in religious articles and $20 in change, it was reported today.

Among the items taken from display cases were Rosary beads, gold and silver medals, Bibles and prayer books. The change was snatched from a register.

Police believed the thieves used a screwdriver to enter through the front door of the gift shop overnight Sunday.

King's Widow Urges War Funds For Ghetto

NEW YORK (UPI)—Mrs. Coretta King has called on "well-meaning Americans," black and white, to force an end to the Vietnam War and use the billions of dollars available to solve the problems of the black ghetto.

A total coordinated approach fueled with the billions diverted from war has the only possibility of creative solutions," Mrs. King told a group of psychiatrists and psychologists yesterday in a wide-ranging speech.

The widow of Dr. Martin Luther King, assassinated almost a year ago, was applauded more than a dozen times by the 1,000 mental health experts gathered for a luncheon meeting of the American Orthopsychiatric Association.

The luncheon had been designated as a memorial to King, slain last April 4, but two moments of silence were observed, one for King and the other for former President Dwight D. Eisenhower.

Calling the Vietnam War a "hideous and disastrous adventure" Mrs. King urged that billions now spent for war be freed as "the first element of a campaign for new life."

"Well meaning Americans, black and white," she said, "have the task of forcing an end to the war and diverting the billions available not to Pentagon programs, but to life giving opportunities."

Mrs. King also attacked step-at-a-time measures taken to ameliorate deficiencies in housing, health, education and discrimination.

Alto Fire Losses $4,517 Over '68

Fire losses in the Alto-Richardson Bay Fire District increased by $4,517 during 1968 over 1967, Fire Chief Carl O. Heynen Jr. has reported.

In his annual report to the fire district board, Heynen noted that the department also responded to 55 more fire calls last year than in 1967.

Building losses in 1968 were $21,284 while content losses were $4,632, totalling $25,917 as compared to $21,400 for 1967, Heynen said.

The department fought 71 fires last year including 18 in dwellings, 17 in cars, 35 grass and brush fires and one boat fire.

Firemen also responded to 28 false alarms, 23 smoke checks, four mutual aid calls to other cities, 30 salvage and rescue calls and 10 resuscitator and first aid calls, Heynen said.

Puerto Ricans became U.S. citizens in 1917 under the Jones Act.

Mill Valley Fire Losses Reviewed

Fire losses for 1968 in Mill Valley totalled $69,397 of $5.79 per person, half of the national average of $10.62 per person, Asst. Fire Chief Joseph E. Regalia has reported.

In an annual report, Regalia said structural fires caused a loss of $66,695 while automobile and truck fires accounted for $2,702.

The department responded to 130 alarms, 40 of which were structural fires, 50 grass and brush fires, 12 automobile fires, three oven or furnace fires, 13 rubbish fires, three mutual aid calls and nine false alarms.

Bennett Is Making Pitch For Old Job

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI)—William M. Bennett, who has been acting as an unpaid "consumer spokesman" since he left the state Public Utilities Commission, wants back his old job as a deputy attorney general.

Bennett, 51, Kentfield, will appear before the state Personnel Board April 10 in an effort to regain the civil service post.

Atty. Gen. Thomas Lynch, who defeated Bennett handily in the 1966 Democratic primary, contends Bennett gave up his civil service status during his six years on the PUC.

During his stint as a commissioner, Bennett's chief targets were major utilities—Pacific Gas & Electric Co. and Pacific Telephone Co. in particular. He accused them of charging excessive rates to consumers.

Bennett went to Washington last week to ask the U.S. Supreme Court for permission to appear before it as a private citizen opposed to current plans for sale of El Paso Natural Gas Co.'s northwest pipe operations.

Bennett was appointed to the PUC by Gov. Edmund Brown after serving as chief counsel for the commission in his post as deputy attorney general. He won a court judgment requiring El Paso to return $155 million in overcharges to its customers. His six-year term on the PUC expired last Dec. 31.

Pay Phone Looted

A coin box containing approximately $20 in change was pried off the public telephone at the service station on Hamilton Air Force Base sometime between 5:25 and 6:30 a.m. yesterday, according to base security police.

Clues Sought On Abortion Ring In East

HARTFORD, Conn. (UPI)—"We'd like to know about women who were recently pregnant and have no babies to show for it."

State Police Maj. Samuel Rome made the remark yesterday in an appeal for public assistance to help break up an "abortion ring" in northern Connecticut which apparently operates by killing new-born babes.

Rome said the bodies of four infants have been found in the past four months. Two had apparently been smothered by paper stuffed in their mouths.

He said authorities believe the ring advises mothers seeking abortions to wait until the child is born, at which time they will place it with adopted parents.

Instead Rome said, the abortionists allow the infants to die after they are taken from their mothers.

The bodies of the four were found in Hartford, Wethersfield, Berlin and East Hartford.

Probe Promised After Police Shot Kills Boy

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI)—Police Chief Thomas Cahill has promised a full investigation into the shooting death of an unarmed teen-ager after a high-speed chase through the Bayview district.

Alvert Joe Linthcome, 19, was shot Sunday night by Patrolman Gerald Roberts, who was pursuing the black youth as a possible suspect in the robbery and murder of a grocery store owner. The victim's 15-year-old sister said she begged Roberts to spare her brother's life.

Officers said yesterday, however, that Linthcome and his companion, Michael L. Shambray, 20, definitely were not involved in the grocery slaying.

The two youths were first seen by officers Roberts and William Faust in a 1964 automobile with no lights. When they signalled the car to stop, Shambray, the driver, sped ahead, beginning a 31-block chase, which ended when the vehicle crashed into a light pole.

Linthcome ducked into a record store near his home where he and his sister, Lois, often spent their time listening and dancing.

"We were there most of the night," Lois said yesterday. "And then Alvert said he was going somewhere and would be back in about 20 minutes. He told me to wait and we'd go home together."

Twenty minutes later, the girl heard a crash outside.

"I saw Alvert get out of the car, and I saw the police car coming. So I opened the door for him and he ran in.

"Alvert ran up to the counter with his hands up and I got scared. I just ran outside to the police car and kept saying—'Oh please don't shoot him, please don't kill him!'

"The policeman already had his gun out and somebody yelled for me to get out of the way. I fell down and kept begging and I heard a shot."

The boy was dead on arrival at emergency hospital with a bullet in the chest.

Officer Roberts said Linthcome ran into the store and whirled around. The officer said he thought the boy had a gun, so he fired.

Police said the car the youths were riding in had been stolen earlier Sunday from a bowling alley in nearby Colma.

An angry crowd gathered at the scene, but dispersed about two hours later. There was no violence.

More Black Teachers Called For

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI)—More black teachers—not Negro teachers or colored teachers—are needed for both black and white students in America's schools, according to a white teacher at an experimental college in Chicago.

Judith Stein, instructor of English at the Urban Educational Center of Chicago City College, told the National Council of Teachers of English yesterday that her call for more black teachers did not mean she was inferring "all black teachers for all black students."

"It would be great if the black man came out and did some 'missionary work' in white schools," Miss Stein told some 450 fellow educators attending the council's three-day conference.

The speaker herself has spent about six and one-half years teaching black students — four of those at an all black high school.

Miss Stein said she experienced a "cultural shock" when she first began instructing at Du Sable High School, but added that a stronger adjustment has to be made by black teachers working in white schools.

The problem, according to Miss Stein, is not with individual teachers but with the whole white educational system.

"To hire a few black teachers is only appeasing the public," the instructor concluded before the council which ends its conference today.

San Francisco Police Deny Undue Roughness In Arrest

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI) — A 527-page police report into the use of mace on the daughter of a prominent black family has concluded that no unnecessary force was used.

Patrolman James Aligo, a member of the police department's elite tactical squad at the time, described circumstances of the Feb. 7 arrests of Mrs. Hazel Fuller, 50, and her two daughters, Winifred, 26, and Wayzel, 23.

It was Wayzel who was sprayed on the chest with Mace in a police wagon during a routine traffic investigation involving an automobile which struck the Fullers' car.

The report said Wayzel defied police orders to quit taking pictures. It accused her of "physical violence and mob-baiting."

The Fullers asserted that excessive police force was used and that they were treated with discourtesy during their booking at city prison.

The three investigating captains who compiled the five-pound report conceded that the use of Mace was "questionable" and asked that the department publish "specific written instructions" on when the chemically disabling spray may be used.

But it concluded that "it was the unanimous opinion of all witnesses interviewed that at no time did the officers use any more force than was necessary under the circumstances."

Aligo and Patrolman William Hardeman said the three women had resisted arrest, kicked and screamed while being placed in the police wagon.

Charges against the Fuller women were dropped after a meeting of Mayor Joseph L. Alioto, Cahill and Dist. Atty. John Ferdon.

Police Chief Thomas Cahill had objected to release of the report. He transferred Aligo off the tactical squad after the incident, explaining that he thought the use of Mace during the incident showed bad judgment.

The San Francisco branch of the NAACP yesterday condemned the three-captain investigating team, and termed the report a "whitewash."

Meeting Reset

The Strawberry Recreation board will not meet Wednesday night as scheduled because it will not have a quorum. The meeting has been rescheduled for 8 p.m. April 9 at Strawberry Point School.

Vote Awaited By Probe Panel

WASHINGTON (AP) — The old House Committee on Un-American Activities operating under a new name, awaited its annual vote of confidence from the House today with little doubt about the outcome.

Renamed the Internal Security Committee last month, the panel expected no trouble getting $400,000 of the $425,000 requested to finance its activities this year. The $25,000 cut was imposed by the House Administration Committee. Last year the committee had a $375,000 budget.

Not since it was created in 1934 has the committee had difficulty getting all or most of the money it requested, despite sporadic opposition from members who accused it of dictatorial procedures and advocated its abolition.

Gunman Robs Clerk In Sheraton-Palace

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI)—A gunman held up the cashier at the Sheraton-Palace Hotel in downtown San Francisco Monday and escaped with an estimated $1,000.

The man, described as young and wearing a suit, brandished a gun in the bold holdup of the cashier's desk in the ornate lobby of the historic hotel.

Los Angeles Bank Bandit Nabbed After 16th Holdup

LOS ANGELES (UPI)—For six years, the police robbery detail hunted the notorious "G.M. bandit," described by one detectives as the "biggest bank bandit to hit Los Angeles."

The nickname was based on the modus operandi used in 16 bank robberies since Oct. 3, 1963. In each holdup, the robber first stole a General Motors car which he used in his escape. The vehicle was then abandoned near the bank.

The search ended yesterday when Kerry K. Platt, 56, a grocery salesman, walked out of the Security Pacific Bank branch in suburban Reseda and promptly was arrested by waiting police officers.

A shakedown revealed Platt was carrying (1) a top pistol (2) a brown paper bag containing $896 and 3) a set of master keys to G.M. cars.

Police said Platt admitted robbing the 16 banks and said he used the estimated $25,000 total to play the horses.

His wife expressed shock at the double life led by Platt during the last six years.

"He is a fantastic salesman and never has had any trouble getting a job. He is well liked. Everybody thinks he is a great guy."

But she said that gambling was the "curse" of the family. "It started with cards and then went to horses," she said, adding "It's been a hell of a life."

Hours For Park Use On Agenda

Larkspur City councilmen will introduce an ordinance at their 8 p.m. meeting tomorrow to limit park use to daylight hours and permit persons aged 12 and under only on play equipment.

Councilmen will consider adding regulations regarding the legality of living on boats and arks. At present boat and ark dwellers are required to have utility hookups and occupancy permits.

Bids are to be awarded on the widening of Magnolia Avenue from Bon Air Road to Murray Avenue and on the Oak Road widening project. Councilmen will also elect a new mayor and vice mayor, City Mrg. Kent B. Bathurst reported.

SERVING ALL OF MARIN COUNTY

THIRD SECTION SAN RAFAEL, CALIFORNIA, TUESDAY, APRIL 1, 1969 19

ON THE JOB — Fred Zimbeck finds a wheel chair no handicap as he puts in a day's work at the Marin Community Workshop. Here, he prepares a candleholder for its coating of mosaic glass.

IMPORTANT CONTRACT — David Johnson removes a Kransco box label from the glueing machine, a step in box labeling Marin Community Workshop does for the South San Francisco firm, which used to send the work to Los Angeles. This contract and others like it are vital to the workshop — now in danger of folding up — which provides employment for handicapped persons in Marin. (Independent-Journal photos by Jim Kean)

FINANCIAL CRISIS

Center Restores The Handicapped

By JERRY MEGAHAN

The Marin Community Workshop, which provides employment and training for 35 handicapped persons, is facing a financial crisis.

The workshop has $3,300 in bills which fall due on April 1 and only $1,200 on hand to pay the bills. Owed will be $1,535 to the handicapped employees, $1,100 to the five-man workshop staff and $665 for rent, utilities and telephones.

The workshop, at 70K Woodland Avenue, San Rafael, is the only facility of its kind in Marin County offering the physically and mentally handicapped a chance to gain or regain a place as wage-earning, useful citizens, its operators say.

"Facilities like this are hard to come by," said Betty L. Presley, director of the county Public Social Services Department. "They deserve support."

Perhaps the best spokesmen on the usefulness of the workshop program are the handicapped people who work there.

Fred Zimbeck of Mill Valley fell from a roof nearly 11 years ago and has been confined to a wheelchair since.

"This is the first job I've had in 11 years," said Zimbeck, who now does decorative trim on glass candleholders for a company called Gregg Arts. "I felt like a vegetable just sitting around. Now I feel like I'm accomplishing something. It's given me a reason to live."

Bonnie Williams, a shy redhead from Novato, wouldn't talk to anyone when she came to the workshop a year ago.

"I was scared when I first came here," Bonnie said. "But I'm not afraid anymore. This is a good place."

Now Bonnie puts labels on boxes for Kransco of South San Franciso, which manufactures water lounges and games such as water basketball and Texas Toss. In November and December, she worked at the Handcrafts From Europe store in Sausalito. They liked her work and they are talking about future employment for her.

"I just stayed around the house after I got out of school four years ago," said Dorothy Morris, of Corte Madera. Dorothy, who has a cleft palate, now works in the box labeling department, supervising the other workers and keeping a tally on piece work. "I like working," she said, "and this is a good place to do it."

The beauty of the Marin Community Workshop is that it pays 80 per cent of its own expenses, said Mrs. Lorraine Barry, the workshop's rehabilitation coordinator. It's the other 20 per cent that's the problem.

The workshop employees do work such as assembling plumbing clasps for Kopty of Mill Valley, putting latches and drilling holes on binocular cases for Nicrometal Marine Hardware, making decorative package wrappings for Handicrafts From Europe; stuffing, trimming and packaging beanbags and many other forms of labor.

Companies who currently have some sort of work done by the workshop include Fun and Fancy, and E. D. Bullard. Kransco used to have to send its boxes to Los Angeles to be labeled, said Mrs. Barry.

However, the workshop also serves as a rehabiliation center for persons suffering disabilities such as mental retardation, cerebral palsy, epilepsy, brain injury, blindness and emotional disorders and that means that it will probably never be a profit-making operation.

"I'd like to make it clear to the public that the workshop's financial difficulties are not the result of mismanagement or malfeasance on the part of the staff or anyone else," said Thomas Rush, a member of the workshop's board of directors. "The workshop is suffering from growing pains. If the workshop is to continue providing the services it has, it needs some instant money."

In addition to providing jobs and a feeling of self-respect for the handicapped, the workshop supplies industry with a potential and actual work force for low-dollar production and maintains people who might otherwise be a tax burden to the county and the state.

This week (Easter Week), the workshop is operating with a skeleton crew and may have to cut back at least temporarily after that if it doesn't get immediate financial help from citizens and organizations.

Sausalito's Five School Candidates Take An Exam

By ALAN JONES

Sausalito School District board candidates took a five-part written examination last night before an audience of 120, but they won't get their grades until April 15 when voters choose three of them for four-year terms.

Candidates for the three seats are incumbents David E. Freedheim and Nathaniel Johnson, and Mrs. Martha B. Thomson, Charles Gerald Clear and Ken Elkington. Incumbent Bruce E. Woelfel is not running for re-election.

They were unanimous in answering one of the five advance questions asked by the Sausalito Citizens Council, which sponsored the meeting at Central School — they all promised to try to get $43,000 from Marin County again this year for district support.

But they split on nearly everything else, even on interpretation of statistics on pupil testing and attendance.

Tests show Sausalito pupils slightly above national averages on reading, Clear said. But Elkington cited the same tests and said they showed that one class in a two-year span dropped from 46 per cent to 56 per cent who read below their grade level.

Questioned about the difference, Clear explained that he was looking at median scores while Elkington referrred to the lower extremes of the results.

Asked about the district guidance center, Elington cited a 1968 report by Assistant Supt. Joseph Amato calling the guidance program a failure, while Clear and the two incumbent candidates defended the center.

The center is "avery effective way of dealing with discipline," Johnson said. Freedheim called the center "very valuable" but admitted mistakes were made in the center's operation last year.

Since them, the center program has been altered to include tutoring and handling of learning problems as well as discipline. Elkington said the center now is more efficient and "I don't see a substitute program" for it.

Clear said Amato's report assumed the guidance program failed because more pupils were referred to the center in its second year of operation. That is "a sloppy assumption," Clear said. He contended the program is working well.

Only one candidate, Mrs. Thomson, came out flatly against last year's controversial student field trip to Black Panther headquarters. Trips "to places with ideologies completely foreign to the homes the children come form . . . should not be taken," she said.

Elkington stopped short of that, "Good judgment" must be used in planning such trips he said, and he questioned whether pupils in lower grades should take such trips. "There is time enough later on to expose them" to political extremism, he said.

Johnson said the schools should not be afraid to study extremes, not for indoctrination but to show pupils where the faults of extremism lie.

Clear said he believes in "a maximum amount of knowledge," but said parents have the right to censor or veto field trips for their children. "But this board has seen to that," he said. The board last month directed that parents permission be obtained each time a child is scheduled for a field trip.

Elkington again advocated merging with the Mill Valley School District, citing the increasing percentage of black students in the Sausalito district, but he said such a move will be some time away. By then, he said, Sausalito may also have new facilities and a bond debt comparable to Mill Valley's so the merger would not mean taking on one-sided debt burden.

Candidates agains talked about the district decline in student population, but came no nearer agreement on the causes. Freeheim said all Southern Marin districts have lost enrollment in recent years, while Northern Marin districts are growing. This is due to land costs which drive families out, he said. He conceded some people have taken their children out of the district because they don't like the schools or because they don't like the desegregated program.

Clear agreed, but Elkington said little effort has been made to learn why people were leaving the district. The important question, Elkington said, is how to make the schools attractive to families. A new school facility would help reverse the enrollment trend, he said.

One question from the audience asked about rumored support in Marin City for an all-black school there, but candidates scotched the notion. "I don't think there would be any Marin City parents here if there was any move for an all-black school," Johnson said. Freedheim said there has been no board discussion of any such plan or request.

"It's news to me," a black woman in the audience said of the rumor.

Fair-Marin Session Set On Planning

The Fair-Marin board announced last night that its master plan committee, headed by E. T. Ryken, will meet 8 p.m. next Monday in Room 400 of the Civic Center to discuss future plans for the fairgrounds and auditorium area.

President Harold Stockstad said the Fair-Marin directors will attend the committee meeting.

Directors last night agreed that its 1969-70 budget request will be $93,450. They will meet tomorrow with the county administrator to discuss the budget. Asst. County Administrator Thomas F. Campanella has estimated the budget would be about $75,000.

Stockstad said applications for manager of Fair-Marin closed yesterday, and the hiring will follow civil service routine.

Collision Hurts Motorcyclist

A 26-year-old motorcyclist suffered facial cuts and a fractured right arm last night when his machine sped around a curve and rammed an auto in San Rafael, police said.

The victim, Charles H. Holland, who gave his address as 147 Bungalow Avenue, San Rafael, was treated at Marin General Hospital. (There is a Bungalow Avenue in San Rafael, but no street, and no No. 147 listed on the Avenue.)

The accident happened shortly before 10 p.m. in front of 257 Woodland Avenue, north of Seibel Street. Police quoted Holland as saying he was exceeding the 25 mile-per-hour speed limit when his motorcycle crashed into a car driven by Arturo L. Martinez, 26, who was turning into his driveway at 258 Woodland Avenue.

Extension Of Miller Avenue Hits A Snag

Miller Avenue extension across marshland to provide a straighter access to Shoreline Highway is unfeasible at this time because of high cost and uncertainty in state plans, Public Works Director Donald R. Frost declared this morning.

He told the Marin County Board of Supervisors the cost of the extension would be $800,000 to $1 million, much higher than originally estimated.

He said the other uncertainties, such as the state's plan for future realignment of Shoreline, makes it unwise to put in a large investment on Miller Avenue extension at this time.

Frost recommended interim provements by made at Dolan's Corner, such as an installation of signals.

Supervisors agreed that this would be the only feasible approach. Supervisor Michael Wornum of Mill Valley insisted, however, that money be accumulated for eventual work on the Miller Avenue extension.

The county supervisors also agreed that a five-acre parcel of land owned by the Marin Municipal Water District just east of Greenbrae interchange, near Hutchinson's Quarry, would make a good county corporation year. They instructed Frost to negotiate for the land. If the site is purchased, the existing corporation yards in Greenbrae and Mill Valley would be closed, said Frost.

Frost also reported that about $160,000 in Federal Aid Secondary System funds earmarked for Sir Francis Drake Boulevard widening, cannot be used immediately and should be reallocated elsewhere. He suggested that the money be used to realign Petaluma-Point Reyes Road just west of Lake Nicasio.

"Why move it from Sir Francis Drake to the boondocks?" asked Supervisor Louis H. Baar. He said the money should be used on Sir Francis Drake where the traffic is heaviest, not on a lightly traveled road.

Chairman John F. McInnis asked Frost to come back in two weeks with a report on how best the money can be used somewhere else on Drake, such as the area from White's Hill to Olema.

Car, Motorcycle Reported Stolen

Thefts of a 1964 Chevrolet convertible and a 1968 Honda motorcycle were reported to San Anselmo police yesterday.

Ronald A. Asleson of 1208 Sir Francis Drake Boulevard, Apt. 10, reported at 8:15 p.m. that someone had stolen his convertible while locked and parked at 21 Forest Avenue.

Henrik I. Olsgard of 53 Woodland Avenue told police at 8 a.m., yesterday, that his motorcycle was removed from his carport.

Proposed Zoning To Be Discussed

The Sausalito City Council will hold a hearing on proposed zoning amendments for the central waterfront when it meets at 8 p.m. today in city hall.

The planning commission last week recommended approval of the amendments, which were drawn by planning consultant William E. Spangle Jr. and Associates as interim zoning until adoption of the central waterfront plan and final zoning that goes with it.

The council also will discuss a proposed animal control ordinance and hear a report on a proposed bicycle trail route through Sausalito.

Tentative Site For Novato Fair

A site at Redwood Boulevard and Peter Court in the Scottsdale Development was tentatively selected last night for Novato's Western Weekend Country Fair June 12-15.

The location, picked by the fair's board of directors, must be approved by the city council.

In other fair developments directors decided on rules for the beard contest and entries were asked for Western Weekend queen.

Categories in the beard contest are longest, fullest, Van Dyle, Abe Lincoln, Mutton Chops, novelty, high school student and best of show. Application blanks are available at the chamber of commerce office at 867 Sweetser Avenue.

Winner will be named at 8 p.m. June 12 in the community house. A fair queen and two princesses also will be named that night.

Queen entry blanks are available from Mrs. Lloyd A. Loftus at 1848 Indian Valley Road and Mrs. James Prince at 5 Equestrian Court. Applicants must be Novato area residents, between 14 and 18, and never have married or modeled professionally. Candidates will be judged on attractiveness and riding ability.

Fire Alarm Error Clears Civic Center

A fire alarm at 10:30 a.m. today at the Civic Center sent county employees streaming out of the building, but they were immediately called back because the alarm was tripped accidentally.

Asst. Administrator John F. Barrows said one of the workmen in the new Hall of Justice had apparently hit the wrong wire, setting off the alarm.

HOW TO KEEP WELL

By DR. THEODORE R. VAN DELLEN

Glaucoma Detection Is Simple; Early Treatment Necessary

Glaucoma, a common cause of blindness, is suspected whenever vision becomes blurred, or discomfort is noted in or about the eyes. Excessive tearing, dissatisfaction with glasses, mild headaches, slow focusing, especially in dim light, ocular pain, and seeing colored halos around lamps warrant a thorough examination.

VAN DELLEN

In glaucoma, tension within the eyeball increases. This structure contains fluid that keeps the orb from collapsing. The substance enters through openings in one part of the eye and escapes through a series of drains in another part.

Glaucoma develops when the outflow is blocked and the excess fluid overdistends the visual compartment. The resultant pressure damages the delicate nerves of the retina, and unless recognized and treated early, blindness ensues.

Physical strain, overindulgence in coffee or tea, certain eyedrops, and tightfitting clothing such as collars, girdles, or belts makes glaucoma worse.

DARKNESS ALSO influences tension because a dilated pupil affects the area where fluid escapes from the eye. The sufferer is advised also to avoid excitement, anger, worry, and fear. Emotions affect the flow of aqueous humor and increase tension in much the same way as blood pressure rises with a psychic upset.

Once the diagnosis is made, it is advisable to visit an ophthalmologist at regular intervals. These visits continue for the rest of the person's life.

The disease is tricky and the penalty for neglect is loss of sight. When the disorder is detected in its early stages, satisfactory treatment keeps it in tow.

(Questions on medical topics will be answered by mail if stamped, self-addressed envelope accompanies request to the I-J.)

ONE SEX TO A FAMILY

REPLY

There is no explanation except chance. Most marriages result in a mixture of the sexes; some are predominantly one sex and occasionally all the offspring are either boys or girls. A large family of only one sex is so unusual it is brought to our attention. When the mother of 10 boys becomes pregnant again her chances of having a girl remain 50-50.

SENSE OF DIRECTION

L. B. writes: What causes a person to lose his sense of direction? Recently, while driving on a road I have used hundreds of times, it seems I'm going west when actually I'm going east.

REPLY

Changes in circulation in the blood vessels of the brain may cause this condition, especially in older persons. A thorough examination is in order.

YELLOW STREAKS AND KIDNEYS

H. R. writes: A friend of mine says every time her kidneys bother her, a yellow streak appears in her white hair. Can this really happen?

REPLY

Sounds fishy to me. Two-tone dye jobs are common but they have nothing to do with the kidneys.

COLOR-BLIND CHILD

T. T. writes: Is it true that a color-blind child is afraid of flashing red lights?

REPLY

Not to my knowledge. This child may be nervous for other reasons; perhaps he was born in a squad car. Send a stamped, self-addressed envelope for our leaflet on color vision.

STRIAE AT 12

W. D. writes: What would casue stretch marks on the body of a 12-year-old girl? I thought these only followed pregnancy.

REPLY

Striae (stretch marks) are caused by weight loss, redistribution of tissue as a result of growth, and glandular disorders. In women, pregnancy is the most common cause.

BLEEDING AND ANEMIA

R. S. T. writes: Can a heavy menstrual flow lead to anemia?

REPLY

Yes, an iron deficiency anemia. Send stamped, self-addressed envelope for our leaflet which explains the various forms of anemia.

TELEVISION REVIEW

Mental Indecency And All That Stuff

By RICK DU BROW

HOLLYWOOD (UPI)—As you may have heard, some public officials are concerned about decency on television.

Well, I guess we all are, in one way or another. It just depends on what area of decency you specialize in.

To me, for instance, it is grossly immoral when a cigarette firm tries to romanticize smoking for youngsters.

And, basically, video is still so relatively naive compared to the rest of society that it's not too likely many persons will be corrupted by its suggestiveness.

What may do far more harm, however, is much of the simplemindedness that some television series use to promote what is allegedly an admirable way of life.

This is what I would call mental indecency, and I think it is much more of a threat than the obvious stuff.

I don't mean programs that are frankly farcical or played strictly for comedy. But series like the old Patty Duke Show always struck me as somehow mentally indecent because of their insipid non-values that were supposed to be attractive.

In the end, it's pretty much like the old song say: It's not what you do, It's the way that you do it. Style, in short, indicates a sort of maturity that will let you get away with almost anything gracefully.

I am thinking now about a televised W.C. Fields movie, and of a very specific scene. It is the morning after a hard night's drinking. Fields is in a ship's cabin, half alive following his bout with the bottle. A friend comes in, and the dialogue is as follows:

Friend: "How do you feel?"

Fields: "Like a June bride."

Friend: "How does a June bride feel?"

Fields: "I wonder . . . I wonder . . . "

Well, you see, if the same dialogue were delivered in a burlesque house by a couple of rough comics, it would have a pretty raunchy flavor. But as played by the incomparable Fields, it is delicious.

If I were investigating television, I don't think I would relish getting into the semantical problems connected with what is proper, and what is not.

Fined Students Defy Stanford

The cards were handed to the students as they tried to register for spring semester. The cards noted the collegians owed the university money and could not register until it was paid.

The students were among 29 fined amounts ranging from $50 to $300 by the Stanford Judicial Council for disrupting a meeting of the board of trustees on Jan. 14.

Many of the fined students were members of the Students for a Democratic Society. They were joined in their attempt to register by about 30 other SDS followers.

Flood Readiness Reveals Old Dam

SAN FRANCISCO (AP)—Record snow in the Sierra is indirectly responsible for the reappearance of a dam that vanished more than half a century ago.

Pacific Gas & Electric Co. said today that Spaulding Lake's first dam, constructed on the South Yuba River in 1892, became visible again when water storage was reduced to 5,000 acre feet.

A higher dam that inundated the original structure was built in 1912. The old dam was constructed of rock fill to supply water through wooden flumes to gold mines in the South Yuba River region.

PG&E also is lowering the level of many of its other 140 mountain lakes to prepare for the melting of one of the heaviest snowpacks in Sierra history.

Moss Seeking Report On Head Start Plans

By ROBERT S. ALLEN and JOHN A. GOLDSMITH

WASHINGTON — Rep. John Moss, D-Calif., chairman of the House Freedom of Information Committee, is cracking down on the Office of Economic Opportunity to force release of a critical report it is trying to suppress.

OEO has been ordered by Moss to submit the report to Rep. Edith Green, D-Ore., head of the higher education subcommittee, and Rep. Albert Quie, R-Minn., who have been vainly asking for it for weeks.

The suppressed report reputedly asserts that the widely acclaimed Head Start program has little or no lasting effect on the educational development of disadvantaged children. It concludes that benefits resulting from Operation Head Start fade rapidly after the child enters the first grade.

The report is the work of the Westinghouse Learning Corp., a subsidiary of Westinghouse Electric Co. WLC was given a $548,000 contract by OEO to make a study of Head Start. Its findings were submitted to OEO last month, but so far the agency has refused to divulge them.

Existence of the suppressed study was revealed early this month by Daniel Moynihan, special White House assistant on urban affairs, at a meeting with members of the House Education and Labor Committee. He was briefing them on the administration's plans for shifting the Head Start program from OEO to the Department of Health, Education and Welfare.

Moynihan mentioned that one reason for this decision was the adverse findings of the Westinghouse Learning Corp. report on the long-range effectiveness of Head Start.

Committeemen thereupon sought copies of the study, but OEO refused to produce it.

Jones, 34, allegedly had a $1,995 duplicating machine in the basement of the Spirit House Theater, headquarters of his community action group,, the United Brothers.

Three Enter Contest For Dairy Princess

Three Sonoma County high school girls have been the first to enter the 1969 District 3 dairy princess contest, according to Henry Tomasini of Petaluma, general chairman.

District 3 includes Marin, Sonoma, Lake, Mendocino, Napa and Solano counties. The first 12 applying and approved by the California Dairy Council will compete for the crown at the seventh annual Dairy Princess Ball May 10 at the Petaluma Veterans Memorial Building.

Candidates must be between the ages of 17 and 25, unmarried and a high school graduate by June. They must be or have been connected with the dairy industry. Applications may be obtained at the Petaluma Chamber of Commerce, 10 Petaluma Boulevard South, from dairy farmers or the dairy association headquarters in Modesto.

Each princess candidate will receive gifts of silver with the winner eligible to compete for the state title in June.

Pueblo Report Nearly Ready

CORONADO (UPI) — The findings, opinions and recommendations of a court of inquiry into the seizure of the USS Pueblo by North Korea starts through the Navy chain of command next week.

The five admirals who heard eight weeks of testimony could recommend anything from a medal to a court-martial for Cdmr. Lloyd M. Bucher and the other 81 surviving crewmen.

"The court has completed the first phase--the findings of fact," a Navy spokesman said yesterday. "The admirals arrived at 550 such findings written on 123 legal-sized pages."

The court still must complete its opinions and recommendations before the report is sent to Adm. John Hyland, commander in chief of Pacific Forces, who convened the inquiry.

Economics Course Will Be Offered

A tuition-free, 10-week seminar on "Fundamental Economics" will be held at four different schools in Marin County during the spring semester.

Simpson In Minor League Football?

INDIANAPOLIS (AP) — Will O. J. Simpson play minor league football rather than sign for what the Buffalo Bills of the American Football League are offering him?

WIFE AND CHILD

"O. J. told me that if he were a bachelor coming out of the University of Southern California, he might take less than he thinks he's worth. But he's got a wife and child now."

Buffalo has offered Simpson a five-year contract for $50,000 a year, Barnes said yesterday at a news conference.

The Indianapolis Capitols of the Continental Football League have offered him a one-year contract for $150,000, plus a $250,000 loan for investment purposes.

Simpson is asking Buffalo for about $600,000 in salary over four years.

CHANCES GOOD

But Barnes, president of Sports Headliners, Inc., requested and was granted an extension to April 15 on the deodline set by the Capitols for a "yes or no" decision on their offer.

Al Savill, president of the Capitols, said Barnes wanted another opportunity to get together with Bills' owner Ralph C. Wilson Jr. to negotiate at length. Savill's original deadline had been today.

BURNED UP

Wilson was quoted as saying last week that O. J. should take the Indianapolis offer because he (Wilson) wouldn't match it.

"O. J. is plenty burned up about this," David Lockton, vice president of Sports Headliners, said yesterday. "Of course, he'd rather not play in the Continental League. But if Buffalo won't make a satisfactory offer or at least trade him to another team, he will.

"Wouldn't it be a shame if O. J. Simpson had to play in the minor leagues to get the kind of money he's worth."

CITIES WILL SHARE CAROLINA COUGARS

RALEIGH, N.C. (AP) — The American Basketball Association team being brought to North Carolina next season will split its home games among Greensboro, Charlotte and Raleigh in a unique experiment, it was announced today.

"This is a first for professional basketball and we're excited about the psosibilities," said the new team's president, Jim Gardener of Rocky Mount, in announcing the plans at a news conference.

The team, being moved from Houston, Tex., will be renamed the Carolina Cougars.

Warriors' Mullins Comes Out Lame

OAKLAND (UPI) — Hopes of San Francisco to beat the Los Angeles Lakers in their NBA Western Division playoffs may hinge on the injured knee of Warrior guard Jeff Mullins.

Mullins banged the knee in a collision with Bill Hewitt of the Lakers shortly after the opening whistle in last night's 115-98 Los Angeles victory before a disappointed capacity crowd of 13,221 at the Coliseum-Arena. It was the Lakers' first win after two San Francisco victories in the best-of-seven series which resumes tomorrow night at the San Francisco Cow Palace.

BUMPED KNEES

Hewitt and Mullins bumped knees and Mullins hobbled off the court. He came back to score seven points before a doctor diagnosed internal bleeding on the knee and ordered him sidelined.

"I just couldn't do anything on the knee," said Mullins. "It just swelled up on me. Everything will depend, I guess, on how well the knee responds to treatment in the next 48 hours."

One of the offensive sparks of the Warriors in the second half of the season and in the first two San Francisco wins in the playoffs, Mullins' status for the next game is questionable.

TROUBLES

Warrior coach George Lee bemoaned the loss of his star guard. "We never had the guy that could really get us going with Jeff missing from the lineup," he said.

"The loss takes the pressure off of us," added Lee. "We still think we're going to win. But now we know we can't sweep it."

Los Angeles outscored the Warriors 41-25 in a big third period to overcome a two-point San Francisco lead at halftime. Jerry West and Johnny Egan, starting his first game of the series, sparked the Laker comeback. West tallied 13 of his game-high of 25 points and Egan bucketed 10 of his 18 in the third period.

28 FOR WILT

In the battle of the big centers, Wilt Chamberlain of Los Angeles and Nate Thurmond each scored 22 points but the 7-1 Chamberlain snagged 28 rebounds to 20 for Thurmond. For the first time in the series, the Lakers outrebounded the Warriors 68 to 58. Regarding criticism that he does not drive enough for the basket, Chamberlain said he is going to continue to play "the same way I did all season."

"If I have to go to the basket, that's what I'll do," he said. "We beat these guys four out of seven on the season and I was scoring only 8 or 9 points a game."

Chamberlam praised the play of Hewitt, former Southern California star. "He's doing a tremendous job for a rookie and he hit some big baskets for us from the outside," said Chamberlain of Hewitt who finished with 20 points.

Leading 56-53, the Lakers broke open the game with a 17-4 scoring binge within four minutes of the third period to grab a comfortable 73-57 lead. The closest the Warriors got after that was 92-83 with 8:19 remaining.

LEW'S DECISION

Alcindor Putting All Chips In NBA

For the first five years of his professional career it could cost him just under $2 million.

The 21-year-old, three-time All-American UCLA center turned down a $3.25-million five-year contract offer from the American Basketball Association to negotiate with the NBA which has offered him just more than a million dollars for a similar period.

OBLIGATION

"Lew decided to fulfill his moral obligation given in New York to the Milwaukee club," was the only comment yesterday of his adviser, Sam Gilbert.

Gilbert, a Los Angeles contractor, said Alcindor would begin private negotiations with the NBA and the Milwaukee Bucks by tomorrow.

Gilbert said the decision to rule out the ABA offer was made yesterday after Alcindor received a telegram from ABA Commissioner George Mikan. The telegram, Gilbert said, outlined an offer made by the ABA last week.

DETAILS

Mikan detailed the ABA plum last Saturday as he waved a million dollars cashier's check in the air at a news conference.

He said the offer including the million dollars, a $500,000 bonus, five per cent of the stock in the New York Nets, an annuity payment of $65,200 for 20 years beginning at the age 41, and 10 per cent of the ABA national television contracts totaling at least $500,000.

Although details of the NBA offer never have been made public, it is reported to be about $1.4 million.

BY TOMORROW

Officials of the Bucks were reported to be on the way to Los Angeles. A spokesman said the club hopes to sign Alcindor by tomorrow.

Texan Donnie Anderson was given a $600,000 to $700,000 contract with the Green Bay Packers of the National Football League in the top pact to date.

Giants Tie Cleveland In 8 Innings

AMARILLO, Tex. (UPI)—Pitching coach Larry Jansen of the San Francisco Giants has a few pointers to offer pitchers Bobby Bolin and Mike McCormick.

He wants Bolin to work a little faster on the mound to avoid runners from stealing on him. Bolin allowed three stolen bases at Albuquerque, N.M., yesterday as the Giants and Cleveland Indians played to a 5-5 tie in a game called after eight innings due to darkness.

SIX THEFTS

In his last two starts, Bolin has allowed six thefts. Runners get a big lead during his long, slow stretch and delivery.

McCormick relieved Bolin in the seventh with the Giants ahead 5-4 and threw one a little high to rookie outfielder Rich Scheinblum who powdered it over the left field fence. Jansen is suggesting that McCormick keep his pitches a bit lower.

Catcher Dick Dietz and first baseman Willie McCovey whacked two-run homers for the Giants who play the Indians today at Amarillo. Dietz and McCovey have each hit three homers so far this spring.

Analy Wallops San Marin Nine

San Marin High School's baseball team battled in the consolation bracket of the Healdsburg Invitational Tournament this afternoon after catching a knockout blow from Analy High School of Sebastopol yesterday.

The Mustangs, now 7-3 on the season, were bombed by Analy, 11-2, in yesterday's semifinals.

Pitchers Steve Francis and Wade Gomes were raked for 13 hits while the Novato nine got only five hits and committed seven errors. Chuck Jacobsen got three of the five hits.

King Better Be Ready For King-Sized Rent

PHOENIX LEFTOVERS — Clyde King, the scholarly new pilot for the San Francisco Giants, still has no residence in the Bay Area and has been taken aback at some of the rentals he's been offered.

His predecessor, Herman Franks, offered a helping hand the other day. "I can get you a great deal on this place I had," the wealthy Herman said. "The guy (landlord) likes ball players and he'll cut the price from $1,000 to $800 a month."

Replied the incredulous Clyde, "Holy Cow! I'm just a country boy. I never paid over $200 a month for rent in my life."

Wait til he gets here!

King also took time out to explain how secretly he went about moving super Willie Mays from third in the batting order to leadoff, the Great Experiment, as it's called.

Willie Got The Word First

"I didn't say a word about it until Willie got to camp," he said. "I wanted to give him the privilege of turning down the idea in private. I didn't want anyone blaming Willie for not cooperating with the new manager. If he had said no, no one would ever have known.

"Instead he said, 'I'm willing to do anything to help the ball club.' That's the kind of guy he is."

LEO DUROCHER, manager of the Chicago Cubs, was asked about the expansion of the major leagues. "Fine by me," he told several hundred fans last week in Scottsdale, including Northern California Giants' Boosters, "that means we have to hire several new umpires and I'm all for hiring the handicapped."

At the same affair, Jack Brickhouse, the noted television sports announcer, told about the first time he saw the Cubs' great and ageless Ernie Banks in action. "Somebody said to me, 'That kid's going to be a great one,' and I replied, 'I'll drink to that.' Now Banks is still going strong and I have an alcohol problem."

Getting Ready For Atlanta

THE AMAZING Giants' Boosters leaders, Paul Hartman of San Rafael's GTS Travel Service and Allan Murray, just got back from nearly a month in the Arizona training camps and already are busily organizing another big tour to Atlanta for the Giants' opening series against the Braves next week.

Later in the season will be a blue-ribbon junket to follow the team to Montreal and New York.

THE GIANTS played a rare night game last Thursday because, explained coach Larry Jansen, "we open the season with four night games and wanted to get some work under the lights."

THE TREMENDOUS pressures on young ball players trying to make good with the major league clubs was told the other day by Mrs. Bobby Etheridge, whose 26-year-old hubby is a strong candidate for the Giants' third base job.

Bobby played 40 games for San Francisco in 1967

Comeback Talk Over For Clay

MIAMI (AP)—Former heavyweight champion Cassius Clay, acknowledging his role as the "humble servant" of his religious leader, says he won't talk anymore about a boxing comeback.

Clay, who prefers to be known as Muhammad Ali, was slapped down by Elijah Muhammad, head of the Muslim sect, after Ali said he wanted to fight again to pay some bills.

Ali told John Crittenden, sports editor of the Miami News, "He's got a right to spank all of us. I'm his humble servant. What I said was out of place."

Elijah said in a Muslim newspaper that Muslims would not be with Ali "in his desire to work in the sports world for the sake of a little money."

San Rafael Braves To Return

San Rafael, and Marin County, will have a semi-pro baseball team all its own this year.

The San Rafael Braves will return, more or less solvent, but not as members of the Western Baseball Association.

With $4,000 of a proposed $7,000 already raised from private sources, the Braves management figures to be in business this year, with a team composed primarily of local aces.

TOURNAMENT

Instead of competing in the WBA, the Braves will shoot for the state and possibly national title. Enroute, they'll sponsor and compete in a two-week invitational tournament to be held at San Rafael's Albert Field.

Earliest activity on the part of the Braves will be their second annual baseball clinic, set for Saturday, April 12 at Albert Field under the auspices of the parent Atlanta Braves, with instruction from professional athletes and scouts.

A huge baseball night is also being planned by the Marin County Chapter of the Barber Shop Quartet. The group is offering to put on their annual show at Dominican College Auditorium in San Rafael, May 10, as a benefit for the San Rafael Braves.

Quarterback Hadl Looking For Job

SAN DIEGO (AP) — John Hadl played out his option at midnight yesterday with the San Diego Chargers and became the first established pro quarterback on the open market.

Hadl, 29, who has been with the American Football League Chargers seven seasons, said today he will waste no time seeking new employment.

TELEPHONE

"I'm going to get on the phone and call some teams, just a couple of 'em," he said. "I'm pretty sure I won't be on the phone long."

Hadl declined to say which teams he would approach.

"I've had a couple of months to think of it," he said. "I hope it isn't a disappointing day."

Hadl became a free agent because the Chargers refused to accept his contract demand which reportedly is a three-year pact in the $60,000-$70,000 range, plus a $250,000 loan.

WAITING

"Here's the thing about it: Even though John is a free agent, there is no reason he can't sign with San Diego again. I know what can happen. I'm waiting to see how it turns out."

Hadl has said there is almost no chance he will return to the Chargers.

Quarry Vs. Frazier Bout Considered

LAS VEGAS, Nev. (UPI)—An agreement for a title fight between Jerry Quarry and Joe Frazier, heavyweight champion in five states, appeared near today.

Representatives of the two boxers met last night to discuss the bout, which will probably be in New York or Los Angeles in June.

Jack Quarry, father of the 23-year-old Bellflower fighter said that only the question of television rights and revenue stood in the way of an agreement. Quarry, who is co-manager of his son along with John Flores, wants to reserve West Coast television rights for an unidentified firm.

UNDER CONTRACT

The elder Quarry and Flores talked with Teddy Brenner of New York, who is understood to have Frazier under contract for a 15-round fight with the Bellflower slugger.

Quarry was offered a guarantee of $100,000 against 20 per cent of the gate with Frazier getting $150,000 against 40 per cent, according to Jack Quarry.

Brenner would like to stage the bout either in New York's Shea Stadium or a Los Angeles arena where a gross gate of $500,000 would be possible.

Connolly Trying For Cal Track Job

BERKELEY (AP) — Harold Connolly, the 1956 Olympics Games hammer throw winner, has applied for the track coaching job at the University of California, the San Francisco Chronicle said today.

A's Take Short Game From Angels

MESA, Ariz. (AP)—The Oakland Athletics, on the heels of a 7-1 exhibition season win against the California Angels, take on the San Diego Padres tomorrow.

It was A's pitcher John "Blue Moon" Odom who held the Angels to three hits yesterday in a game called after 5½ innings because of darkness. The contest's start was delayed three hours because of memorial services in Washington, D.C., for Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower.

Odom gave up only three singles. The Angels' lone run was unearned.

The winners scored three times in the first inning on three hits, and three more in the third on a trio of hits and an error. Campy Campaneris belted a leadoff homer in the fourth.

FISH AND GAME

By AL GIDDINGS

It's Tough To Figure Striped Bass Angling

This striped bass fishing is a tough thing to figure out!

Craig Thompson and two friends took three limits Saturday. He must have been anchored in the right place. Hal Delma, the fishing school teacher who uses a fly rod, took five with two friends, along with a 62-pound sturgeon. There were 52 boats out of Buck's Landing on San Pablo Bay, Saturday. Hazel Eddings, who runs the landing, estimated that approximately 52 bass were checked in. Lots of people missed while others really connected.

LAST WEDNESDAY, Joe Mello and wife took out his brother-in-law and nephew, Rocky Nelson, and son, who came all the way from Idaho to go fishing. At the end of the day, they had four limits, largest fish 23 pounds. The excited Joe called me and we made a date to go Friday. Joe took Rocky along and Marty Medin came with me.

We fished from separate boats with the usual bets going for first, largest and most fish. In the first hour I took the only fish, a 10-pounder. By this time Joe figured he was anchored in the wrong place so he moved about a mile out. We stayed, and in about 10 minutes I think every bass in San Pablo Bay came around our boat, surfacing everywhere.

In two hours, Marty and I, using fly rods landed nine bass, releasing three and keeping six — largest 19 pounds. Marty broke his fly rod on one fish; used a second rod I had brought along and broke it too! We lost two other fish also.

ABOUT THIS time Joe came cruising back without a fish. When we told him to come over to the boat to see our two limits, he thought we were kidding. When he finally saw the fish, Marty and I both learned some new Portuguese words.

MAX SUMPTER of San Rafael talked his wife, Sue, into going bass fishing over the weekend on San Pablo Bay. This was Sue's first trip. Max had bought a dozen ghost shrimp for three bucks, so when his wife used two of them, catching a flounder and then a bullhead, Max thought he better stick the bullhead on his wife's hook and save those good shrimp baits for himself. This was okay with Sue, who didn't know the difference anyway. Of course you know what happened. She nailed a 15-pound striper, then used the same bullhead and picked up an eight-pounder to prove once again that nothing's sure about fishing.

So if you missed over the weekend, try it again and one of these times you will be anchored in the right place at the right time.

SALMON FISHING slowed some what with maybe one fish to the customer. Different friends of mine who went out, thought the fishing was tough. They were catching about two fish for a boat carrying four people. The party boat skippers will soon find a new school — that's their business.

TWO HUNDRED anglers at Nicasio Lake over the weekend. About 15 black bass checked. All weighed about 2 pounds. The bluegill fishing really picked up, a few anglers with up to 25 fish. The limit on black bass is five per person; there is no limit on bluegill. You must have an angling license along with the seasonal lake permit. And only one rod with not more than three hooks is limited to each angler. Some trout may be caught accidentally; these should be returned, as the season for trout doesn't open until May 3.

Davis' Fracture Not Too Serious

VERO BEACH, Fla. (AP) — Los Angeles Dodgers officials were told yesterday that Willie Davis' hairline fracture of the right arm is not as serious as first thought and he should be able to return to play within three weeks.

Dr. Frank Jobe, team physician, told vice president Al Campanis the break won't require a cast.

Henry Is No. 5 In Golf Winnings

Gene Littler, winning only $2,400 for 19th place while Henry was grabbing the $40,000 jackpot, held on to the money winning lead by a narrow margin over Miller Barber.

The top ten and total winnings:

Stewards Accept Robyn's Papers

Miss Smith, 24, is scheduled to ride for the first time Thursday aboard Swift Yorty, a 3-year-old colt.

Stewards are holding her license for two races and if they approve of her riding, she will get riding papers.

As an apprentice, she would have a 5-pound weight allowance.

The age limit for apprentices is 25. Since Tuesdee Testa, who already has ridden winners at Santa Anita, is beyond that, she doesn't qualify for the differential.

Oaks To Host Nets Tonight

OAKLAND (AP) — The Oakland Oaks, heading into the American Basketball Association Western Division playoffs, take on the New York Nets tonight in their next-to-last regular season play.

Having clinched the division title a while back, the Oaks will meet third-place Denver in the first games of the playoffs here Saturday and Sunday.

After meeting the Nets in the Coliseum at 8 tonight, the Oaks end the regular schedule Thursday against the Los Angeles Stars.

Red Sox Go From Scratch

By ASSOCIATED PRESS

With the opening of the major league baseball season a week away, the Boston Red Sox are starting from scratch. So is Bo Belinsky.

Manager Dick Williams, complaining his Red Sox were "goofin' up and not playing baseball," yanked his players from the field yesterday during an intrasquad game and let them know who's boss.

FROM SCRATCH

"We'll start from scratch," he said after a 10-minute lecture in the clubhouse.

Belinsky, the playboy pitcher who has bounced around four major league clubs, found out from General Manager Bing Devine of the St. Louis Cardinals that he'll start from scratch, too.

The Cards asked waivers on the 32-year-old left-hander and said they'll decide today or tomorrow whether to assign Belinsky to the Cards' Tulsa farm club.

"The Astros told me they don't want him back," Devine said.

Later, the Chicago White Sox, helped by two key hits from rookie Bill Melton, defeated the Cards 5-3 in an exhibition game. Melton raised his spring average to .406 with a first-inning double that drove in one run and a single in the fifth that started another rally.

CANCELLATIONS

The other games started late because of the Eisenhower funeral. The New York Mets blanked Cincinnati 3-0 and San Diego defeated the Chicago Cubs 5-3.

The San Francisco-Cleveland game was called because of darkness after eight innings and a 5-5 tie. The Oakland-California game was also called because of darkness, with Oakland in front 7-1 after six innings.

4-1 RECORD

Jim McAndrew scattered seven hits over the first seven innings and picked up his fourth exhibition victory as the Mets trimmed the Reds. McAndrew, 4-1 this spring, lowered his earned run average to 0.93 before giving way to Ron Taylor, who completed the shutout with three scoreless innings of relief.

Four San Diego homers helped the Padres break a five-game losing streak. Ollie Brown tagged two homers, his sixth and seventh of the spring; Clarence Gaston hit a two-run homer; and Nate Colbert stroked one with none aboard.

Invitational Golf Tourney Is Success

The first Terra Linda High School Invitational Golf Tournament was a big success although Marin County Athletic League teams failed to reap any first-place rewards.

Washington High of San Francisco won the team title in a 20-team field, getting a 403 total at San Rafael's Peacock Gap golf course yesterday.

Tamalpais of Mill Valley and Acalanes High School of Lafayette were tied for runnerup honors with a 410 total. Lincoln of San Francisco was fourth at 416, followed by Terra Linda, fifth.

San Rafael was sixth, Redwood eighth and Drake ninth.

Individual honors went to Steve Decker of Richmond, who shot an even par 71.

Tops for Marin players was Mike Ahern who paced the Hornets' three-man team with a 77. Chris Cardenal of San Rafael, Dean Hamilton of Drake and Wayne Smith of Tamalpais all had 78s.

HOCKEY PLAYOFFS

By DAVID DIETZ

An hour earlier, Ingarfield was seated in a banquet room of Spenger's Fish Grotto, smoothly answering newsmen's questions. Dressed in a white turtle neck and blue blazer and wearing brown-rimmed glasses, he looked more like the president of the Seals than a player.

FINESSE

"I think," he said unpretentiously, "that this team can skate with any in the league."

On or off the ice, Ingarfield, 34, an 11-year veteran of the National Hockey League, is cool and confident. On the ice, he is a paradox among his teammates. His play glimmers with finesse, while most of the Seals are skaters and diggers in the mold of Glover. Off the ice, Ingarfield exudes the happy, winning spirit shown by all his teammates.

The Seals placed Ingarfield and other Oakland players on display yesterday at a news luncheon and then at practice at Berkeley Iceland as the team opened final preparations for the start of the Stanley Cup playoffs tomorrow.

IN COLISEUM

EARL INGARFIELD
Cool, confident

A veteran on a young hockey club, Ingarfield, who scored 16 goals this season, is expected by the Seals' management to provide inspirational play in the playoffs. This will be his third Stanley Cup series, having been with the New York Rangers during the 1962 and 1967 playoffs.

"Goaltending plays a big part," Ingarfield said of the Seals' chances. "The club that comes up with the hot goaltending seems to win.

BIG POT

"It's a close-checking type of game, too. There's not as much of the free-skating play you see during the regular season. I guess that's because teams are really up. Let's face it, there's a big pot at the end of the rainbow."

Oakland faces a big first round hurdle in Los Angeles. Tall and burly, the Kings gave the Seals fits during the season, winning or tying the first six games before Oakland won, 4-0 and 5-4.

MORE SPEED

"I think we have better overall speed than Los Angeles," Glover said yesterday. "We also have a more mobile defense and I think our goaltending has proved itself."

William Torrey, the Seals' executive vice president, said a crowd of about 7,000 is expected for tomorrow's game. The teams will play in Oakland again Thursday night before traveling to Los Angeles for the next two games Saturday and Sunday.

All the Seals' weekend games during the playoffs will be broadcast on KGO radio, it was announced. Negotiations are continuing with radio KEEN in San Jose, which aired the regular season games, to broadcast all home and away playoff games as well.

but spent last year in the Phoenix farm club, where his performance was limited by illness.

Mrs. Etheridge, one of many players' wives who went to spring training camp, said: "The pressure is really hard on Bobby. I just have to keep telling him that I know he can do it and eventually they'll see that he can. Bobby developed an ulcer last year. He really wants to make it."

DONALD STETSON MASON, a 24-year-old flash, could become the "Darling of Candlestick" in future seasons. He's got great speed, a good bat and talented glove, but the thing that should win him a warm spot in the hearts of fans is his choir boyish looks. He's 24, but looks more like 16. One Giant Booster cooed, "Oh, isn't he cute," and another lady wanted to adopt him until she found out he was a major league ball player.

Belgian Sailor Returns

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — Rene Hauwaert, the 37-year-old Belgian who started March 15 in the first solo transpacific yacht race to Tokyo, returned to San Francisco Bay yesterday with a broken mast.

He and four other sailors in their boats had made the start beneath the Golden Gate Bridge on a 6,000-mile race expected to take from 60 to 90 days.

"I will go again," said the plucky veteran single handed sailor.

Hauwaert said the crisis aboard his steel 31-foot gaff ketch Vent de Suroit (Southwest Wind) came after he was six days out, about 450 miles from the start.

Tax Reforms Aimed At Higher Incomes

By ROGER E. SPEAR

Q. I am married with three dependents and earn under $15,000. Will any of the proposed tax reforms help me? — M.A.

A. Hearings now underway in the House Ways and Means Committee will affect primarily the very high and very low income groups. A 3-volume study by the U.S. Treasury Department thoroughly details the many inequities and loopholes that have developed in our income tax structure. The report also points up the 2.2 million poverty-level families who incur tax liability under our present laws.

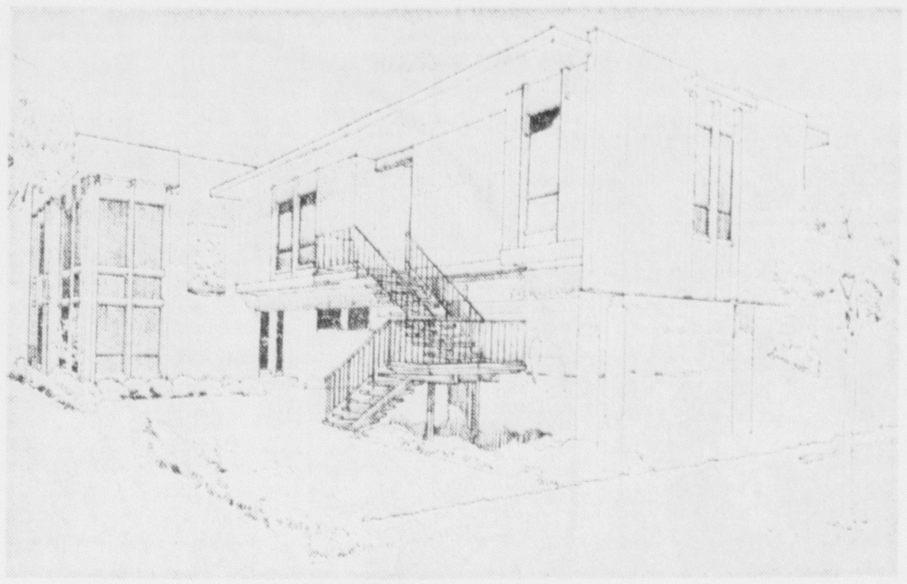
One proposal designed to alleviate this situation will raise the minimum standard deduction from the present $200 to $600 — plus $100 for each exemption — up to $1,000. This reform would eliminate any income tax for 1.25 million families and reduce it substantially for the others at the poverty level. However, the main thrust of the proposed reforms will be aimed at eliminating the now legal methods by which the very wealthy can escape large tax liability.

A case in point: the operating losses on "hobby farms" which can be used to offset high-bracket nonfarm income. One proposal would limit these losses to $15,000 in any one year but would allow losses to be applied toward other years.

Another proposed revision, aimed at high-bracket individuals would apply on "expanded income base" for a minimum individual income tax." The revision, if adopted, is estimated to apply to about 40,000 taxpayers but would garner additional revenues of $420 million.

Other recommendotions are: relating deductions to the total income rather than to taxable income only; increasing standard deductions from 10 per cent to 14 per cent with an $1,800 maximum; special exemptions for older people and liberalized rules regarding job-related moving expenses.

If your company frequently relocates employees, this latter possible tax revision could be of some help. It would allow up to $1,500 for moving-related expenses including costs of house-hunting trips, temporary living quarters and certain expenses incurred in the sale of a previous home.



NEW HOME DUE

Construction will get under way on this two-story redwood rustic and stucco office building at Second and E Streets, San Rafael, for Nipper and Marchant. The structure was designed by Hageman-Thomas-Eklund and will be built by Edward W. Burgar, Inc. Completion is scheduled for June.

Market Finishes Low In Heavy Turnover

Steels were no better than mixed despite a step-up in production and a strong demand, while chemicals moved in similar fashion.

Motors traded in both directions and generally in small fractions. Ford, which introduced its new Maverick car with a price tag aimed at making it competitive with the Volkswagen, showed a steady undertone.

Building materials moved lower on the prospect of a slowdown in the record pace of building contracts stemming from government credit tightening measures.

Airlines and aircrafts were narrowly mixed, while Motorola and Fairchild Camera were among the weaker electronics. Burroughs, planning to construct a multi-million dollar parts plant on the west coast, was on the plus side in late trading.

Prices on the American Stock Exchange were firm in brisk trading.

OTHER PEOPLE'S BUSINESS

The Manufacturing Role In Marin Is Looking Brighter

If it appears that in a manufacturing role Marin County does not especially shine forth, in comparison with more industrialized areas with extra acres of land and a strong labor market this is undoubtedly true.

But from information furnished by Carroll Snyker of the Marin County Chamber of Commerce we are not entirely lacking in this activity — and the picture is getting better all the time.

Taking figures from the various manufacturing directories compiled by the Marin chamber and its predecessor, the Marin Industrial Development Foundation, there were 163 Marin firms doing some manufacturing in 1955. By 1964 they had increased to 180 and last year reached 221.

This, however, does not tell the entire story. According to Snyker, the trend has been toward larger businesses. In other words, over years many of the small ones either washed out — or grew up to respectable dimensions.

This is borne out, too, in the chamber's recent comparative figures on employment and payrolls for 1962 and 1967. In 1962 the average Marin manufacturer's staff was 18 persons. By 1967 this had grown to 27. Average quarterly payroll in 1962 was $25,000 — and this moved up to $44,000 five years later.

ALONG FOURTH STREET. The Marcus Shop is being remodeled and redecorated to go with the brilliant new colors in men's wear this spring. Three artists have been working on it . . . Now on display at Sherman Clay are the oil paintings of Claudine Weber of Woodacre and Mrs. Claire Galliani of San Anselmo. They will be shown all through April.

HOMER AND VERONICA WELCH, who opened the Glamour Alley women's wear store in San Anselmo a year ago February, will open a second store this month on Main Street, Sebastopol.

Today is Tuesday, April 1, the 91st day of 1969 with 274 to follow.

The moon is approaching its full phase. The morning stars are Mercury and Mars. The evening stars are Venus, Jupiter and Saturn.

On this day in history:

In 1853 Cincinnati set a precedent by deciding to pay members of its fire department a regular salary. Ordinary firemen were paid $60 a year.

In 1918 the British Royal Air Force was founded and two months later began World War I bombing of industrial targets in Germany from French bases.

In 1939 Generalissimo Francisco Franco, leader of rebel forces, announced the end of the Spanish Civil War.

In 1946 some 400,000 coal miners struck for higher pay.

Spirit Is Wrong During Holiday

Patrolman John McAnon reported someone stole a tire and rim and a set of tools from his private automobile on Christmas Day.

Police Capt. Errol Baca said his badge and police identification papers were taken from his automobile. They were returned to him about a week later.

HOW TO PLAY

WINNING BRIDGE

By ALFRED SHEINWOLD

By Refusing The First Trick, South Can Handle Bad Break

If you try to persuade the average bridge player not to win the first trick of his long suit with the ace, he may just look the other way. If you ask him to duck the first trick of his long suit when he has both the ace and king, he will send for a strait jacket and a man in a white coat.

HEART TRICK

The average good player wins the first trick with the king of hearts and draws two rounds of trumps with the king and queen. Then he takes the top diamonds and ruffs a diamond. If the six missing diamonds break 3-3, South will win all 13 tricks.

When the diamonds fail to break 3-3, South must abandon the suit for lack of enough entries to the dummy. Instead, South must lead a trump to dummy's ace in order to try the club finesse.

Unfortunately, the finesse loses. South must give up a club and a heart, and all is lost save honors.

BETTER CHANCE

After winning the first heart and drawing trumps with the king and queen, South should lead a diamond from his hand and should duck in dummy. East overtakes with the jack of diamonds in order to return the ten of clubs.

Now South should put up the ace of clubs because the chance of a reasonable break in diamonds (either 3-3 or 4-2) is greater than the chance of a successful finesse in clubs. Declarer leads a diamond to the ace, discards a heart on the king of diamonds and ruffs a diamond.

Dummy's last diamond becomes established despite the 4-2 break, and South gets to dummy with the ace of trumps to discard the queen of clubs on the fifth diamond.

DAILY QUESTION

You hold:
♠ 6 4
♥ Q 7 5
♦ Q J 7 6
♣ 10 9 8 2.

What do you say?

ANSWER: Bid two diamonds. The hand is just barely worth a positive response. If partner had opened with one spade, you would pass.

Dead Timber Wolf Puzzles New Yorkers

CAROGA LAKE, N.Y. (UPI) —A timber wolf, a species which had been believed extinct in New York State since 1899, was killed recently by a car on route 10 in this northeastern New York community.

The adult male, weighing 84 pounds and measuring 71 inches long, has caused some puzzlement among state fish and game officials. The State Conservation Department has suggested the gray wolf may have escaped from a zoo or game farm, or while it was in transit through the state.

Army Barge Clears Bay Debris

By ANNE BARDWELL
(Second of two features)

Sweeping the deep is nothing new for the Army Corps of Engineers which has been cleaning up the San Francisco bay since the Gold Rush Days.

The corps' first job on the bay was to remove the huge rocks blocking the Golden Gate and scattered throughout the bay, a major hazard for early sailing vessels.

After creating a mess by blowing up the rocks, the Corps started to clean things up — and have been at it ever since.

To keep the bay's surface clear of the 10,000 tons of driftwood and other debris which obstruct navigation for small and large craft, the corps operates two 100-foot barges five days a week, 52 weeks a year.

The barges use large steel mesh nets to scoop up the debris. Each net weighs approximately two tons and can hold between 10 and 12 tons of debris. On a good day, the Raccoon, for example, manuevering with great agility under the direction of Capt. Russell I. Tucker of San Francisco, can pick up approximately 60 tons of debris.

Twice a day, on an average, the Raccoon, or its sister ship, the Coyote, will dump its load of debris on the Sausalito waterfront next to the huge incinerator the corps operates at times up to 24 hours a day to dispose of the trash.

The incinerator, which has been criticized for adding its share of smoke to the smog problem, also disposes of other, more glamourous items including contraband cigarettes, marijuana, counterfeit money and pornography.

Tucker, who keeps the Raccoon far more spotless than the average housewife keeps her best silver, says that at times, especially after a bad storm, "I've seen the debris so thick out here you could walk to Alcatraz on it."

Almost anything can be found floating on the bay at one time or another, according to Tucker, but the most common items in the daily debris load are driftwood, furniture, plastic toys, ("anything you can find in a store window that'll float"), dead animals and an occasional human body.

The Raccoon's crew sights an average of five bodies a year floating on the bay and reports them to the Coast Guard for recovery.

The larger debris, particularly uprooted piles or utility poles, is ignored by the two dredges and left to be towed to Sausalito by the Lobos, a 45-foot diesel tugboat.

Although the Corps spends most time and money on channel dredging and debris gathering, the job of maintaining the bay also includes such chores as testing the bay for pollutants, including agricultural wastes, sewage and other harmful material; watching for and controlling oil spills, and patrolling docks, levies and other man-made intrusions into the bay to watch for construction deterioration.

The Corps also requires permits for construction of docks, structures on piles, levies and such miscellaneous things as the rapid transit tube, utility and pipeline crossings in or on the bay.

Finally, as a preventive measure, the Corps works on flood control prijects throughout Northern California to keep less debris from coming into the bay so that eventually, less will have to be cleaned out of it.

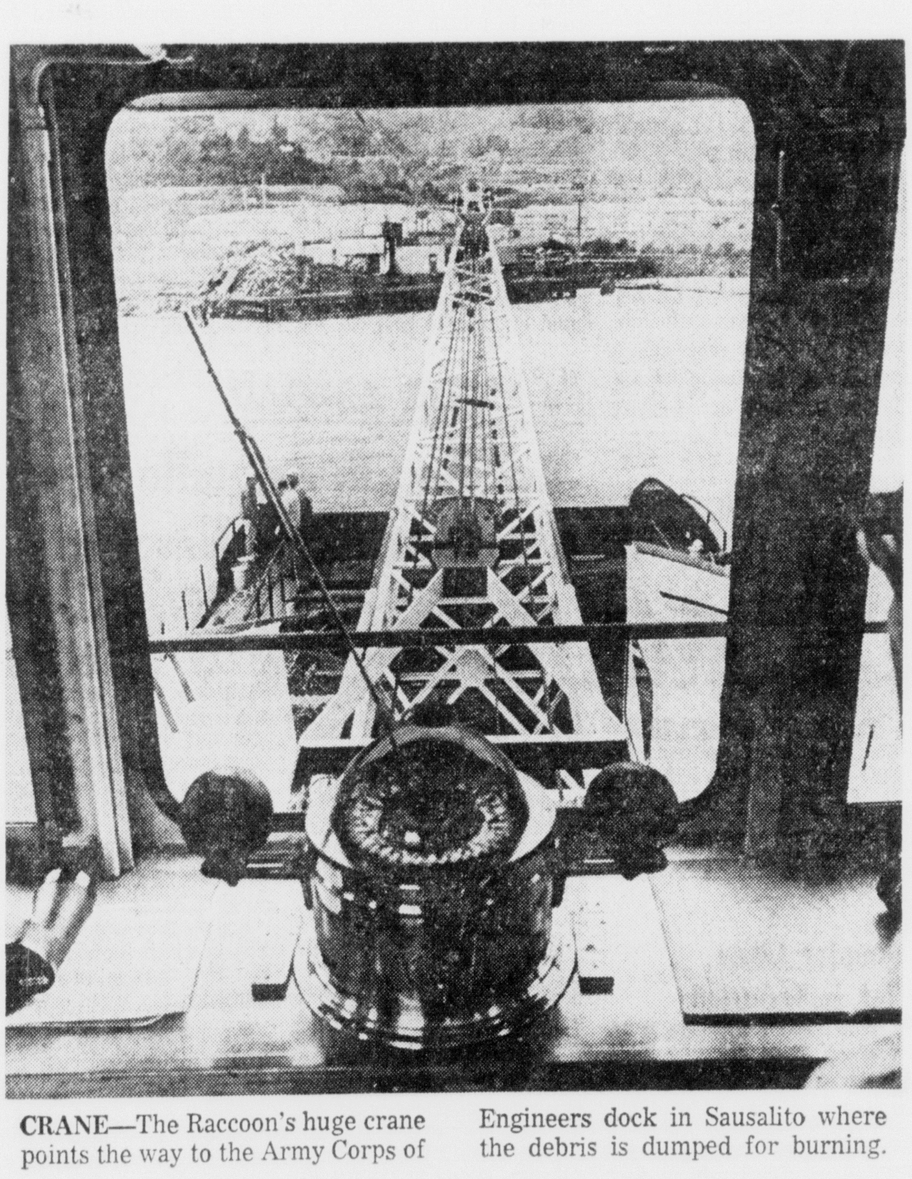
BULLDOZER—Affectionately termed a seagoing bulldozer by its captain, Russell I. Tucker, the barge, Raccoon, gathers a full load of debris from the bay.



CRANE—The Raccoon's huge crane points the way to the Army Corps of Engineers dock in Sausalito where the debris is dumped for burning.

MAVERICK—Upended logs are a worry to crewmen on the Raccoon because the logs have jammed the gears of the shallow draft barge.

NET—One of the steel mesh nets containing some 10 tons of debris is lifted out of the mouth of the Raccoon for storage on the deck.

BURNING NEXT — Driftwood and other debris piles high on the Sausalito waterfront before being burned in the Army Corps of Engineers' incinerator.

TODAY'S EDITORIAL

What Have We Here —A Non-Campaign?

Candidates for the boards of Tamalpais High School District and all its component elementary school districts are arguing the merits and demerits of a proposed three-district unification plan — and have found ample audiences at public hearings on the plan.

Candidates for Lagunitas School District Board are talking principally about taxes, as are those in the Marin Junior College District.

Racism is an issue in the campaign for Sausalito School District Board. Spending policies, progressive education, and the ungraded school are being debated in the race for Reed School District Board.

Candidates' nights in some of these districts have drawn small attendance, but almost everyone by now is aware that campaigns are under way — and that there are issues involved.

IN SAN RAFAEL, however, the campaigns for mayor and city council so far look more like non-campaigns.

Three men are vying for the mayoralty, and eight are in the race for two openings on the city council. In addition, six charter amendments will be on the ballot.

Up to now, however, the candidates have been most noticeable by their silence. And the proposed charter changes have received no airing since the council voted to put them on the ballot — unless one counts a window sign in the downtown shop of one of the mayoralty candidates.

Most of the candidates have signs out—with Mayor C. Paul Bettini and Councilman Frederick C. Robbins Jr. definitely ahead in the sign department. There are bumper stickers for mayoralty candidates Bettini and Charles W. Aby and council candidates Robbins, John J. Adams, and Ray White. But that hardly constitutes a campaign.

White has put out mailers to tell the voters who he is. Since he is not well known, it might be he would welcome opportunities for public appearances — if anyone offered them.

Maybe somebody is ringing doorbells. If so, they haven't reached us yet.

THE LACK of activity seems to indicate a lack of interest. And the lack of interest causes us to wonder if San Rafael citizens just don't give a hang about who manages their $4 million-a-year city business.

The election is two weeks from today — for San Rafael mayor and two councilmen as well as for school board members throughout the county.

The election results can mean progress or retrogression. They can mean waste of the public money or its careful spending. They can mean many things important to the citizenry — too important, certainly, to be decided by blind guess among candidates who have presented neither their qualifications nor their views.

'Gentle April'

According to folklore, gentle April follows blustery March. In Marin this particular legend is often shattered by April rains and gales. But, if April in Marin is not always gentle, it is always beautiful.

For, in this month of months, the blooming season in this bloomingest county in the United States reaches its peak. Flowers are flowering all over the place. Periwinkles are winking. Forget-me-nots will not be forgotten. And roses have risen in glorious profusion.

All in all, there are many of us for whom April is the finest month of the year, and this in spite of regular outbursts of California heavy dew.

Senate Committee May Prove Graveyard Of Bay Fill Control

By PAUL E. PETERZELL

Conservationists cheered four years too soon when the San Francisco Bay Conservation and Development Commission was created in 1965.

That was only a skirmish compared to the crunch that powerful economic interests are mounting this year to bury the commission and its plan for the future of the bay and shoreline.

"There is a lot of real opposition to our plan," commission chairman Melvin Lane conceded recently. Sponsors of legislation to continue the commission and to adopt its plan, he said "have their work cut out."

Sacramento insiders report that "an impressive array" of talented, influential lobbyists have been hired to clear the way for wholesale filling of the bay. And the lobbyists have taken a strong position against all bills extending the life of the commission, due to go out of existence late this year.

Their opposition may only be tactical — leaving them something to throw to the conservationists later — but so far they have opposed even the weak bills to continue some control over bay fill.

AS USUAL, the stumbling block to all the bills is the Senate Governmental Efficiency Committee (whose name apparently derives from its smooth executions of so many bills it considers.)

Its chairman, Sen. Richard J. Dolwig, R-San Mateo, is shelving all BCDC bills as they reach his committee, and is planning to push his own version of a bill setting up some sort of regional agency to regulate use of the bay.

Proponents of strong bay fill controls, noting that Dolwig has not been a strong friend of conservation measures, expect his bill will be unacceptable to legislators who have introduced the BCDC bills. The probable result will be a stalemate, with authors of the other BCDC bills counting on conservationists' pressure on Dolwig to force him to sit down with them and work out a compromise.

The 1965 law that set up the BCDC, incidentally, is being used as a model by the New York and Maryland legislatures to set up similar commissions for Jamaica and Chesapeake bays.

SPEAKING of stumbling blocks, San Francisco Supervisor William C. Blake promised last week to block any change in the 1952 policy of his board calling for turning the Golden Gate Bridge over to the state after the bridge and highway district's bonds are repaid in 1972.

Only if the bridge district agrees to his plan for an immediate start on a train tube link to Marin will he let the policy change out of the transportation committee, of which he is chairman, he said.

Otherwise, Blake told us, "we'll turn her over to the state, which can build a bridge to Catalina Island and we won't care."

He also said he will work to defeat state legislation that would reserve freeway lanes for commuter buses.

WHAT OUR READERS SAY

Orderly Society Alternative To Force

Your editorial, "Police Cannot Carry Society's Responsibility," is one of your very best, in my judgment. It explains and points up so well the very different role of the police, as they are called upon to maintain or restore order and safety in our community.

If people would think and behave with respect toward other people, and toward the property of others, we could avoid the "confrontations" the police have been called upon to solve and resolve.

True social progress can only occur in an orderly society. Until conditions of disorder cease, police protection and police force is absolutely essential.

'Battered Child' Needs Legal Aid

I recently read in the Independent-Journal an article on the injuring of little children. That young children are subjected to such treatment is almost beyond the comprehension of the average citizen.

I also note Marin County does not supply legal representation for the "battered child." I believe this legal representation is very important.

As the Independent-Journal is purely a local paper, this issue would be an excellent crusade for the Journal to instigate. . .

Billions For Arms, Not For Schools

School boards in Marin and throughout the country are pleading locally for urgently needed funds, but they are not forthcoming. Meanwhile, back at the Pentagon, when they want a few billion dollars to develop an XB11 bomber system or a supertank, they are given what amounts to a blank check with never nore than a few congressmen dissenting. Apparently the rest of our representatives think this is how we want our taxes spent — or is it that they have a vested interest in military spending?

To my way of thinking the only justification of taxation is to meet the genuine needs of the public. Funding so-called defense projects that are obsolete before they are in production meets only the needs of this military-industrial complex, not us taxpayers.

I believe in high quality public education and appreciate the thankless job the volunteer school board members do. I would like to help them by voting "yes" on bond issues and tax increases. But I believe, and recent elections demonstrate, that the limit on individual and property taxation has been reached. I would ask that the school boards address their pleas to the federal government, calling for a redistribution of present taxes and the closing of the notorious loopholes thus making more federal money available for local use.

Until this approach is tried and bears some fruit, I will not vote "yes" to increase local taxation.

Lagunitas School Tax Rate Down

Thank you for the generally accurate report of the Lagunitas School board candidates' night, March 27. The confusion during the meeting probably resulted in the misleading tax rate figures used in the article. To clarify the matter for the citizens of the San Geronimo Valley the county superintendent of schools office gives the following Lagunitas District taxes:

	1965	1968
General Fund Tax	$2.605	$1.81
Areawide Tax	.670	1.11
Bonds	.270	.325
Physically Handicapped	.015	.035
	$3.560	$3.280

The amount of tax paid by the homeowner has undoubtedly gone up due to increases in assessed valuation; however, the rate has gone down.

Reader Likes I-J Indignation

Now that the incidence of increased drug use had been discovered at Hamilton Air Force Base, may I reasonably expect an editorial exposing the military authorities for allowing enlisted men as well as officers to indulge in drug use "under their very noses." One would expect, of course, a statement of comparable quality and expressing the proper indignation of your recent editorial condemning school personnel.

'Pacification' Takes New Tack, But Success Still Problematical

DALAT, Vietnam — During the 70 years of their colonial empire in Indochina — Laos, Cambodia, North and South Vietnam — The French did very well for themselves. The big rubber plantations were highly profitable, as were other enterprises worked by docile natives.

Among the intellectuals they spread some French education. Aristocratic families sent their sons and daughters to Paris to school. French citizenship was conferred on a favored few. It was all very cozy in the French style.

Dalat was their mountain resort. In this mile-high city with a vista of mountain ranges in the distance, their pleasant villas, little ravaged by the war, are evidence of their knowledge of the good life, whether in France or in the far reaches of the empire. The central highlands were a buffer between the Indochinese and the mountain people, the Montagnards, and the French allowed almost no southerners except for their servants to settle in Dalat.

NOW THE responsibility for pacifying this mountain area, or trying to bring the Montagnards into the 20th Century to live at peace with the Vietnamese, for trying to get the economy on an even keel, is jointly that of the South Vietnamese government in Saigon and the United States mission. William E. Colby, in charge of the pacification program, is in Dalat for conferences with the local province chief, a colonel in the Vietnamese army, and with his own officials stationed here.

Pacification has for long been a sneer word. It was bureaucratese for a costly venture in idealism which was erased by the Viet Cong shortly after the pacifiers left the pacified village. Colby's predecessor, Robert Komer, was a tough-talking salesman who could marshal charts and graphs to show just what percentage of territory and people had been pacified. He met any challenge by mowing down the challenger with strong language. Komer went from here to be ambassador to Turkey, where the Turkish Vietnam protesters celebrated his arrival by burning the embassy car.

SINCE LAST November pacification has taken a new and more realistic tack. The intial effort is to root out the Viet Cong infrastructure, bureaucratese for the Mafia-like organization holding many villages in a discipline of terror, so pacification by day becomes submission to the VC by night. The rooting out is done by various organziations of the Vietnamese People's Police and by Operation Phoenix directed by the CIA. Phoenix undertakes to do to known terrorists what they have done to villagers collaborating with the government — reprisals such as beheading and disembowelling.

After at least comparative security has been established the work of pacification begins. Various forms of aid are made available. Each district chief is given one million piasters — at the legal rate close to $100,000. He can use this for any form of improvement in his villages he sees fit.

A 48-year-old foreign service officer, Colby is the best type of civilian American working in Vietnam. He brings to his difficult — perhaps, in the long pull, impossible — task dedication and tireless effort. Besides the long hours and the seven-day week in his Saigon office, he travels widely through the country for a firsthand appraisal of how pacification is going.

HERE IN DALAT the problem seems to be security and a lack of troop protection. That is the complaint of the province chief, who is about to be relieved by another army appointee coming from Saigon.

For three hours through the night the firing goes on. To the ear of the newcomer it sounds like mortaring mixed with small-arms fire. In the morning the old-timers say it was only outgoing artillery fire in support of the defenders of a hamlet five miles down the road who came under VC attack.

Colby visits the mayor, he inspects the police training school where recruits are squirming through the wire under live ammunition, and then he is off for Saigon with a briefcase full of papers to be studied during the hour's flight.

If there were more men like Colby and fewer of the time-serving advisers who are legion and whose so-called advice is like dust in the fierce wind of the war, the chances for arriving at a Vietnam free of war and terror would be greatly improved.

Landing In Anguilla Opens New Cracks In Empire

By PHIL NEWSOM
UPI Foreign News Analyst

In the British House of Commons a Conservative member arose, and with sardonic humor demanded of Foreign Secretary Michael Stewart, "will you congratulate the prime minister for at last taking on someone his own size?"

It was a question reflective of the mood of many another Briton but for the Labor government of Prime Minister Harold Wilson it was no laughing matter.

For a nation trying to divest itself of empire, plagued by a division of opinion over Britain's role in the Nigerian civil war and with the question of Rhodesian independence still unsolved after three years, the British troop landing on tiny Anguilla island in the Caribbean promised to create more problems than it solved.

THE LANDING of some 500 paratroops and policemen on the 35-square-mile island seemed likely to have an effect opposite from Stewart's claim that Britain had acted in the interests of Caribbean stability.

The black residents of Britain's dependencies and former dependencies in the Caribbean were quick to charge the action proved a two-faced policy—that Britain would use force against blacks but not against the whites of breakaway Rhodesia.

Further, the British were having trouble substantiating a claim that 6,000 islanders on Anguilla were being intimidated by Americans of dubious character.

THE AGUILLAN affair was a teapot illustration of problems that have plagued the British for 20 years in the Caribbean.

The problems stem from the fact that many of the islands are small, thinly populated, poor and without the resources to support themselves.

Larger islands, such as Trinidad, Jamaica and Barbados were unwilling to sacrifice their own economies and thus went their separate ways toward independence.

First to fail was a proposed federation of islands including Jamaica on the north and Trinidad to the south. Jamaica pulled out first, quickly followed by Trinidad.

Britain then tried a federation in which Barbados would be the largest island. Barbados, too, opted out.

THAT LEFT a string of islands for which Britain tried vigious groupings, retaining foreign affairs and defense in London's hands but with home rule. These were called assocated states.

The Anguillans accused the St. Kitts administration of tyranny and with ignoring Anguilla's economic needs. In 1967 they declared their independence.

Despite British efforts to restore old friendships, the Anguillans have demonstrated they much prefer to go their own way, even though that way may be in limbo. And other restless islands are threatening to follow suit.

By BONNIE BARD

Petaluma Election In June, But Ballot Already Lengthy

It may take Petaluma voters a little longer than usual to cast their ballots on June 10 as the document has grown nearly to the proportions of normal statewide ballots.

In deliberating possible bond issues, the city council at first considered one or two. In final action, the number had doubled to four and then was raised to five on the advice of bond attorneys.

Also on the ballot will be three council seats and the office of mayor. Early announcements indicate the list of candidates may be lengthy.

Three seats on the Petaluma Board of Education will be open and indications show at least four or five will be in the running.

TWO CHARTER — amendments are nearly firm, with a third still in the discussion stage. They will include two involving the library. One would give the library trustees the authority to enter into a merger with the Sonoma County library system when an agreement is reached, and the other would permit the trustees to accept gifts for the library in forms other than books.

The third charter amendment which may make the ballot would change the vote required to introduce an ordinance from a majority to a two-thirds vote.

Emerging as the principal issue in the election is the controversial core area plan to revitalize the downtown business district by relocating Petaluma Boulevard to a route along the river from D Street to Washington Street.

The split in council opinion on the merits of the plan is reflected in public opinion. Some say the time is right and that residents will overwhelmingly approve the $1.5 million measure to move the city ahead. Others see it as a means of saving ailing businesses at the expense of the taxpayer.

FOR THE FIRST time in the history of Sonoma County, automatic voting machines will be used. The city council made that possible at the March 19 meeting when it voted to accept the free offer of the Automatic Voting Machine Co. of New York.

In addition to supplying the machines, the firm will train election workers and assist the city in preparing printed material for the machines. After the June 10 test, the city will, of course, be urged to purchase the equipment.

ALTHOUGH ELECTIONS in Cotati are a year away, students at Sonoma State College are already making plans to gain a council seat.

They figure that with only 550 registered voters, the growing proportion of student residents will be more than enough to elect at least one councilman — assuming they can agree on one.

Looking at the prospect as a lesson in practical politics, several of the student senate members are devising creative methods of election campaigning. They feel success is unquestionable in the politically unsophisticated city.

Student residents of Cotati have great affection for the city and often contrast its rural charm to neighboring suburban-flavored Rohnert Park. The aspiring councilmen would vow to improve Cotati, but to retain the country atmosphere and open spaces.

Students Mull New Protest Technique: Nationwide Sleep-In

FORT LAUDERDALE, Fla. —Beatle John Lennon and his bride Yoko Ono told newsmen that they will stay in bed in their Amsterdam hotel for seven days and seven nights during their honeymoon to protest violence in the world.

This sleep-in, if it catches on, could turn out to be the most popular of protest ever thought up by the peace movement, and the authorities are not too sure yet how to handle it.

Since anything the Beatles do seems to be adopted, it's quite possible that Mr. and Mrs. Lennon's tactics will soon become part of the student nonviolent scene.

I WAS LUCKY to interview students at Fort Lauderdale who were on Easter vacation to get their reaction.

One said: "I wish we had known about it in Chicago. We would have had a lot less casualties."

But his friend disagreed. "Knowing the Chicago cops, they would have probably come into our rooms and busted our beds."

A third student seemed doubtful that Lennon's tactic was practical. "You can't get that kind of protest on television, except maybe on educational TV. And if you don't get on television there doesn't seem to be any sense in protesting."

THIS OPINION was shared by a University of North Carolina sophomore. "I could sleep in a park for seven days and seven nights, but I don't think it would work if I had to stay indoors. Like I mean, man, the fun of the protest is to be with your friends. It's no kick holding up a picket sign if nobody is going to see it."

But a coed from Swarthmore disagreed. "If all the students disappeared for seven days and seven nights, we'd have this country really uptight. They would have no idea what was happening."

An MIT engineering major shook his head. "I'd be for a sleep-in only if Secretary of HEW Finch assured me I would not lose my federal aid for doing it. They're going to have to put out some guidelines before I get into bed."

"They can't take your federal aid away from you for sleeping," a Harvard law student said. "As long as you do it peacefully."

"Sure," the MIT student said, "that's what they tell you now, but who's going to say if you were sleeping peacefully or not? Suppose you have a restless night?"

AN OBERLIN music major said: "That shouldn't be our concern. If sleeping is going to make this country wake up to the fact that we want peace, then I say we should sleep."

Her girl friend said, "After a week in Fort Lauderdale I'll need seven days and seven nights of sleep, even if it isn't for peace."

"I think,," said an Amherst student, "we should wait and see. After all, the only reason Lennon is doing it is because he's on his honeymoon. I think we should see what the other three Beatles do before we get involved."

A senior from Princeton said: "We tried everything else. At least it'll be more fun than burning draft cards."

Sanitary District Dissolution Session Is Set

A meeting to discuss the pros and cons of the dissolution of the Novato Sanitary District into the North Marin County Water District will be held at 8 p.m. Thursday in the Novato Community House.

The meeting is being sponsored by both the committee for the dissolution and the committee opposing the dissolution which will come before the voters on April 15, according to J. Wayne Womack, opposition chairman of the committee.

The North Marin County Water District board started the action to absorb the sanitary district into the water district. The sanitary district board voted against it, taking the position that it would rather that it be a part of the City of Novato. The Novato City Council has also gone on recore as opposing the dissolution of the sanitary district.

Hoover Warns Of New Chaos

WASHINGTON (AP) — Unless citizens put up united resistance against criminal forces, says FBI Director J. Edgar Hoover, "We face chaos."

Writing in the monthly FBI Law-Enforcement Bulletin, Hoover said law enforcement cannot be effective without adequate public support.

"Our fight against crime can be no stronger than the courage and commitment of our citizens," he said.

Warning that "fear and apprehension prevail in the streets of most major cities," Hoover said that the situation would be even worse if it weren't for tremendous strides in the training of enforcement officers and the modernizing of police facilities.

Future Of Gnoss Field On Agenda

Frances E. Torr, manager of Gnoss Field, will discuss the airport and its future before Novato Chamber of Commerce directors at a luncheon at noon Thursday at Cloud Five restaurant.

The chamber board also will discuss changes in the by-laws as proposed by the by-law committee.

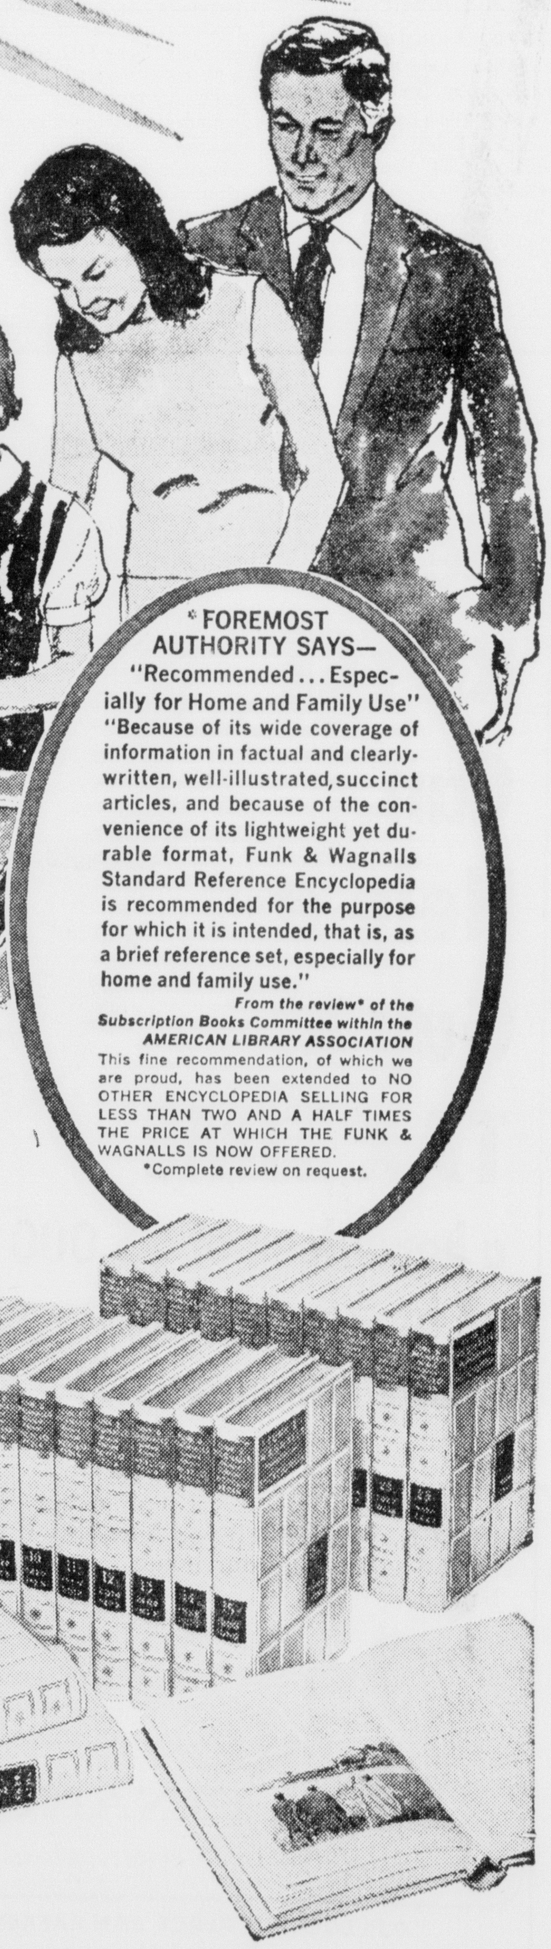
384 PAGES OF VALUABLE FACTS, INTERESTING PICTURES, FULL-COLOR MAPS

VOLUME No. 1 ONLY 9¢

WITH ANY $3.00 FOOD PURCHASE



Why We Make This Amazing Offer

WE THINK every family should own a good authoritative encyclopedia—especially in homes where there are children of school age.

We believe the Funk & Wagnalls Standard Reference Encyclopedia is the ideal set because it is highly recommended for home and family use*, and we can make it available to you at a truly amazing price.

And, through our book-at-a-time plan, the small cost per book fits even the most modest budget...

VOLUMES 2-25 ONLY $1.69 EACH

BUILD YOUR SET A VOLUME OR TWO EACH WEEK

Huge Treasury of Knowledge — Magnificent Edition

Each volume has the contents of three ordinary books. The complete set contains SEVEN MILLION WORDS in all, in nearly ten thousand double-columned pages, covering over THIRTY THOUSAND different subjects embracing a condensation of all man's knowledge!

This Eldorado Deluxe Edition is really gorgeous, bound in creamy simulated leather, stamped in red, black and gold, with special end-papers, full-color frontispieces, thousands of photographs, drawings, and diagrams illustrating the text, and full-color maps of every country on the globe comprising a complete World Atlas. Most beautiful of all, the page-tops of all the volumes are gilded, as only really expensive books are gilded, making the set a superbly luxurious ornament for any home.

So, if you are delighted with Volume No. 1, be sure to build a complete set for your home — a volume or more every week!

OUR UNUSUAL PROPOSAL

To convince you that everything we say is true, we are willing to give you the handsomely bound, 384-page, illustrated, fact-filled Volume No. 1 for only 9¢ with any food purchase of $3.00 or more. Yes—for only 9¢ you can take home Volume No. 1 of the encyclopedia to examine at your leisure—to show to the other members of your family—to permit your children to get their teacher's approval.

Then, if you are delighted with the volume and want to own the other volumes of the set, they can be yours for only $1.69 each—a truly amazing value!

SUPPLY OF VOLUME NO. 1 IS LIMITED

The publishers of the encyclopedia have provided us with only a limited number of books to be given away at this unheard of price.

When they are gone, we can get no more. So to be sure to get your copy, please call at the store as soon as possible. If you wait too long, you may miss this opportunity forever.

THIS OFFER WILL NOT BE REPEATED AGAIN IN THIS AREA FOR AT LEAST ANOTHER YEAR—TAKE ADVANTAGE OF IT—WHILE YOU CAN!

* FOREMOST AUTHORITY SAYS—
"Recommended... Especially for Home and Family Use"
"Because of its wide coverage of information in factual and clearly-written, well-illustrated, succinct articles, and because of the convenience of its lightweight yet durable format, Funk & Wagnalls Standard Reference Encyclopedia is recommended for the purpose for which it is intended, that is, as a brief reference set, especially for home and family use."

From the review of the Subscription Books Committee within the AMERICAN LIBRARY ASSOCIATION*

This fine recommendation, of which we are proud, has been extended to NO OTHER ENCYCLOPEDIA SELLING FOR LESS THAN TWO AND A HALF TIMES THE PRICE AT WHICH THE FUNK & WAGNALLS IS NOW OFFERED.
